LANDSCAPING KITS NOW AVAILABLE

Families building new homes or planning extensive improvements in landscaping this spring will be interested in an Extension Kit on Homescaping according to Helen Conner, Malheur County Extension Home Economist.

There is a charge of 50¢ for the kit. It is available at the Extension Office in Ontario City Hall. The kit contains the basic tools, supplies and step-by-step directions needed for drawing your own home landscape plan.

The kit was prepared by E. Blair Adams, Extension Horticulturist, University of Wyoming.

A number of other bulletins on plant materials for landscaping as well as lawn and garden care are available free at the Extension Office.

Students Make Tour

Senior and junior high students from Dale Schraufnagel's and Jerry Hansen's journalism classes toured the Idaho Statesman and Albertson's Advertising Department in Boise March 26.

The new Idaho Statesman building opened June 7, 1971 after more than a year of planning and consultation. Students saw business and executive offices, advertising rooms, editorial office, composing room, plate making room, the warehouse, press room, and circulation department.

At Albertson's the students learned how the department prepared its advertising for the Idaho Statesman.

High school students attending included Veda Estrada, Mary Ann Estrada, Letty Rodriguez, Steve Bosselman and Wayne Ulrey.
