The cross was the most disgraceful and cruelest instruments of death ever invented. Romans would not allow a Roman citizen to be crucified, but reserved it for slaves and people who lived in the lands conquered by Rome. The stake of the cross to which Christ was nailed was first placed in the ground. Then Christ was made to lie upon the ground and His hands were nailed to the cross members.

After this the soldiers heaved the cross member up with His whole weight held by His hands until His feet were nailed to the cross. Here He hung, not several feet off the ground as most artist portray Him, but with His feet barely off the ground, where He was in full reach of every hand that might choose to strike. In close proximity to every gesture of insult and hatred, every tortured by the constantly moving multitude, who with that desire to witness that which is horrible, laughed and tormented Our Lord, when they should have wept for the wrong being done unto Him, who was dying to save them.

It was during this time He said, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." One of the thieves joined in with the mob and the soldiers; jeering Christ with these words, "If thou be the Christ, save thyself and us." These words, which sounded as a prayer, were not, but they were words spat out in contempt and scorn, hard, mean and angry words. But the other thief said, "Don't you even fear God when you are dying? We deserve to die for our evil deeds, but this man hasn't done one thing wrong." Then he turned to Christ and spoke the strangest, most startling words ever spoken to one being crucified on Calvary's Hill. But he spoke them to Jesus Christ, God's Son, who was dying for the sins of every sinner, for you and for me.

For the Bible says, "All have sinned." "Jesus, remember me when you come into Your Kingdom." Oh, how could he believe that one being crucified could have a kingdom, indeed? A kingdom - the kingdom of the crucified is the place of the Skull, Calvary, or Galgatha. Here their bones reign on the cross or on the stony ground where the scavengers picked their bleaching bones in the noonday sun.

Kings aren't crucified, kings aren't spat upon, reviled, taunted or ridiculed. Kings aren't treated thus, but they are loved, worshipped, adored and respected. But there was something so far different about this MAN on the cross in the middle, that day. Something about the way He was dying that made the thief believe that Jesus was truly the Son of God. And so he believed and prayed. And Jesus replied, "Today you will be with Me in Paradise, this is a solemn promise."

Today, 2000 years later, I say there was something so different about THAT MAN, JESUS CHRIST, which I believe He was the Son of God, who died for my sins and yours.

Antelope Season

The Oregon Game Commission Friday, March 23, adopted antelope hunting regulations for 1973 similar to those of recent years but increased the total number of tags by 200 over last year. The regulations were adopted following a public hearing held at the Commission's Portland headquarters, 1634 SW Alder.

The general antelope season is set for August 18 through 22, a five-day season similar to the past. A total of 1,615 tags is authorized, 185 tags above last year's quota. Increased tag numbers are authorized for the Beulah, Hart Mountain, Juniper, Malheur, Owyhee, Steens Mountain, and Warner units.

August 18 through 26 are the dates for the Gerber Reservoir archery antelope season, four days longer than archers had last year. The Commission also increased the tag quota from 50 authorized last year to 65 this season. Additionally, the Commission changed the Gerber Reservoir boundary for better definition.

According to rules established, antelope hunters have until May 1 to file applications for tags. The drawing is scheduled for May 11. Special tag application cards will be available at license agencies within a week or ten days, as will a printed notice of the antelope hunting regulations.

Full details regarding filing and drawing procedures in addition to other general regulations are contained in the antelope regulations notice.

Regulations for hunting deer, elk, bear, and other big game animals will be set by the Commission at a public hearing to be held in late May or early June. The Commission also advised that possible changes in the rifle regulations for taking big game will be discussed and acted upon at that time.
