

OUT OF THE PAST

10 YEARS AGO

Shocked disbelief, common grief and in a few cases, raw anger could be used to describe the feelings in Nyssa Friday following the sudden death of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Within a short period following the shooting, television and radio stations were on the air constantly giving the latest details of the event and describing the condition of the President and Governor John Connally who was hospitalized by the assassin's bullets.

Due to President Kennedy's death, two major functions held annually in Nyssa, were postponed for one week.

The annual Lion's Club carnival was postponed and the bazaar and merchant's lunch, sponsored by the Methodist guild ladies was also cancelled. Both will be held at a later date.

20 YEARS AGO

Nyssa public library observed National Book Week last Wednesday afternoon with a tea and open house sponsored by Nyssa Civic Club which also honored Mrs. H. R. Sherwood who has served on the library board for the past 27 years.

The Nyssa Library, now entering its 38th consecutive year, was established April 1, 1916 with formal opening May 4, 1916 and was located in the city council room on the north side of Main Street about where the present Ben Franklin Store is located.

The Library was realized largely through the efforts of Miss Althea Sheldon, English instructor and P. P. Brainard, superintendent of Nyssa schools. Brainard was elected president of the first library association, with E. M. Dean, vice president and H. F. Brown, secretary-treasurer. Additional members of permanent committees were Crete Childers, W. W. Foster, S. D. Goshert, E. B. Nedry, F. D. Hall, Ethelwin Boydell, Miss Sheldon, Dr. J. J. Sarzin, and S. F. Foster with a membership of 50.

Before reaching its present spacious location on the second floor of the City Hall three years ago when the annex to the fire station was built, the library had five homes throughout the city.

At a meeting of Malheur County residents with officials of the League of Oregon Cities in Ontario Thursday night and a follow-up in Nyssa Friday night, blame for juvenile delinquency was placed largely on the shoulders of parents.

Lieutenant Delmer Keck, who has been serving in the United States Army for the last two years, wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Keck, stating that he is now in North Africa, and is "in the best of health."

40 YEARS AGO

Thankful for the opportunity to work, a crew of about twenty men have started the tearing up and re-grading of First Street, running from the City Hall north, which has been quite famous for its chuckholes. Uncle Sam is paymaster as their work is under the civil works appropriation secured by Mayor Howard Larsen in Portland last week. They will be paid by U.S. treasury checks.

About $3000 was allotted Nyssa for labor and $335 for equipment hire. Just how far this will go on street improvement will depend somewhat on the cost of gravel.

Mayor Larsen presented the sewage project while in Portland. He returned with the request that Nyssa proceed at once with its application for a federal loan.

The Ford Motor Company announces an addition to its line of cars—the Sedan, which brings to the public an entirely new style of Ford enclosed body. It is a distinctive type designed to carry five passengers in complete comfort.

The Tudor Sedan, which is now in production, is priced at $590 at Detroit.

60 YEARS AGO

From all indications eggs are going to be eggs this winter, as the price is again soaring and the cry of "ham and" will soon cease to be heard in the land.

Vacant houses are at a premium. If Nyssa grows much more in population, somebody will have to build some more dwelling houses. At present, Thomas Carrick and W. W. Foster are building residences for their own use, but there is no place for the stranger within our gates to get in out of the rain.

Herbert Loy reports a tremendous gas explosion about 35 miles south of Vale. The ground over 20 acres was badly disrupted and huge boulders scattered about. Any person in the immediate vicinity would have been likely to have hard work dodging boulders.

SUPERINTENDENT'S CORNER

By W.L. McParland

The week of December 3-7 has been set aside as ENERGY CRISIS WEEK in Oregon.

During this week, all schools are urged to plan activities and classroom instruction in an all-out educational effort to convey the gravity of the energy crisis. The aim is to stress the individual responsibility in energy conservation and the specific actions individuals may take.

I have visited with two citizens that saved two gallons of gasoline each on a trip from Portland and the Willamette Valley by cutting their speed to the reduced speed limits of 55 miles an hour.

Just a little attention to lights and thermostats can be a considerable saving if each of us is careful about using only what we need.

The school buses run by the homes of many students who are now driving to school. Many of the cars parked around the school should be left at home during this energy crisis. I observe that many of the town children are delivered and picked up each day at the various schools, and for many, a walk home would be good exercise for them.

If each of us would cut down on one unnecessary trip, turn off one unnecessary light, use just one less sheet of paper a day, the savings would grow. What are you going to do to help?

Cattlemen Elect

Malheur Residents

Bert Hawkins, an Ontario rancher, has been elected first vice president of the 3,300-member Oregon Cattlemen's Association. The association's convention was held last weekend in Portland.

Bill Ross of Jordan Valley was named to a vice president's post representing one of the six districts within the association.

Ermie Davis of Haines succeeds Charley Otley of Diamond as president; Dave Densley of Baker succeeds Carl Mayo of Riley as treasurer, and Donald Ostense, executive vice president, was retained.

According to Ostense, the cattlemen took positions on some of the major issues affecting their industry. Through a resolution, the organization commended the Umatilla Experiment Station for its work in improving beef cattle production efficiency and urged continued support of the station by Oregon State University.

FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, December 2, marks the beginning of a new Church Year and the beginning of the season of Advent, which holds as its major theme the coming of Christ--both at Christmas and in His second-coming. This Advent our worship services will depart from our normal liturgy, with special services written by Mrs. Robert Ure, incorporating the themes of "The Present," "The Future," and this Sunday's worship being "The Traditional." Two of the Sundays will incorporate chancel dramas. This Sunday's chancel drama and service will be presented by members of Grace Lutheran Church of Vale. A service later in Advent will be presented by members of Faith Lutheran Church of Nyssa. We invite all to come and worship with us in these Advent worship experiences.

Sunday, December 2, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. Worship (Holy Communion), 11 a.m.

Faith ALCW will hold its annual Christmas meeting at the parsonage, 531 Park Avenue, Wednesday, December 5, at 8 p.m. The ladies are asked to bring along a favorite Christmas baking treat for the potluck dessert hour. All are welcome.

Thought for the week: "Life can exist without Christ, but we cannot LIVE life without Christ" --said by Governor Cecil Andrus of Idaho, when addressing the Idaho Lutheran Congress.
