GM Will Continue Scholarship Plan

General Motors will continue its Scholarship Plan for the Fall of 1974, the twentieth year of the plan.

Scholarships will be awarded by 123 participating colleges and universities to 153 outstanding high school graduates. The awards will be made to entering freshmen and may be renewed through the normal undergraduate years.

The University of Oregon is a participating institution and currently has two GM scholarship recipients enrolled.

Of the institutions awarding scholarships in 1974, 72 are private and 51 are public institutions.

Scholarship committees of the participating institutions review a student applicant's secondary school records, available entrance test scores, participation in extracurricular activities, and leadership traits. Institutions have full discretion in the allocation of GM scholarships but have been requested to give preference to those applicants who look forward to careers in industry.

Disabled Veterans Must Apply For Exemptions

Disabled war veterans and veterans' widows must apply for their annual Oregon property tax exemptions by April 1, the Department of Veterans' Affairs cautioned today. Application is filed with the county assessor.

H. C. Saalfeld, Veterans' Affairs director, said the exemption amounts to $7,500 of the true cash value of the property. Entitled are war veterans 40 percent or more disabled, and unmarried widows of war veterans.

Saalfeld said this is not an automatic exemption. Even though an exemption was granted last year, the property owner must file a new application to be considered for the exemption this year.

If the tax payer still has property tax to pay on his residence after the veterans' exemption, and has an income of less than $15,000 a year, he is eligible for a refund under the new homeowners and renters property tax refund program passed by the 1973 legislature. Application for this benefit must be filed by April 15 with the Department of Revenue, Salem.

How to shave 3¢ a year from your electric bill
(stop using your electric razor)

Some energy shaving suggestions are quite impractical; others make common sense. For example, if you want to discontinue using your electric razor, energy shaving is not a valid reason.

Making coffee in a coffeemaker is wise use of energy. It's more efficient than stove-top brewing. Likewise the electric frypan is generally more thrifty than range or oven. While it's best to wash only full loads, the electric dishwasher can use less hot water than some cooks use washing dishes in the sink.

As we've said in other ads, your greatest opportunity to save energy in the home is to insulate that home thoroughly. Include double windows and doors, weatherstripping and caulking. Save energy, too, by repairing leaking hot water faucets. A loss of sixty drops a minute is more than 100 gallons per month.

Watch Idaho Power advertising for other common sense energy saving tips. We want to provide the electric energy you need for your comfort, convenience and good health. Use what you need, but use it wisely.

Getting back to shaving, if switching to a blade adds a gallon a day to your hot water use, that's more than fifty times the energy consumption of the electric razor.
