S.S.I. Benefits Told By Rainsberry

Supplemental security income, a federally funded program administered by the Social Security offices, may be a source of income to persons aged 65 or over and to other persons at any age who may be blind, mentally or physically disabled with limited resources for financial assistance, according to Al Rainsberry of the Ontario social security office. The purpose of this program is to provide monthly checks to qualified persons so they can have a basic cash income of at least $140 a month for a single person and at least $210 a month for married couple. Persons qualifying for supplemental security income are also eligible for some medical assistance from the local welfare agency.

Rainsberry spoke at the February meeting of the Treasure Valley Association for Handicapped and Retarded Children, Inc. when they met in the Treasure Valley Opportunities, Inc. facilities. Dr. Jerry McGee, executive director of the Oregon Association for Retarded Citizens from Salem, also appeared on the program. He spoke about the 22 bills pertaining to handicapped citizens that were passed during the 1973 legislative session. He stated the purpose and activities of the OARC which is a voluntary organization doing whatever it can to reduce discrimination and to educate and develop public awareness of the problems of the handicapped and then to encourage them to provide equal treatment, not necessarily preferential treatment. However, specialized programs may be necessary in some cases to provide education and training which is a legal right of every citizen.

President Dale Campbell, Payette, presided during the business meeting. The members were told that a building fund drive is being launched to raise some $20,000
