Trip Around Oregon

We've been roaming the country for six days but it only seems like we were gone a couple of days. The trip all ended too soon. We thought that getting up at 5 a.m. to get ready to leave Nyssa was bad, but we soon found out that getting up at 6 a.m. every morning was worse; especially when we didn't go to bed until midnight or past. (Most of the time, it was even later than that as the teachers tell us!) We went to a lot of places we'd never been to before—places you can't learn about out of books and places you'd never be able to see when you're in a hurry to get to the place you're going. We went to so many places that we'll only pick out the highlights of our trip. The first exciting place on our way to Milwaukee, where we spent our first night, was Multnomah Falls. A few of us got a quick shower when we tried to go behind the falls, but we dried out right before we went to bed. The next day we visited the State Capitol. Almost every room had paintings and things made especially for it. The Governor's office even had furniture made by prisoners of the penitentiary. The House of Representatives and the Senate each had a special rug which had been particularly designed for them. Next we went to the Portland Zoo and saw many different animals, some of which we had never seen before. Then we went to OMSI and we saw many machines and gadgets and electronic devices you could work to gain knowledge. (And get a load of this—there was even a love meter!) That night we went to Lloyd's Center and there were so many different stores and things to do. Some of us skinned our knees when we tried to ice skate, but it was a lot of fun. The last most exciting event that happened was when we went to the beach and swam in the ocean. Many of the kids had never seen the ocean before and it was truly an experience. We also got to swim in Nehalem's High School Gym; and we were surprised that they had a pool because there are only 250 people in the town. There weren't any catastrophes except a few spiders and snakes—a few students got lost at Lloyd's Center—a few got slight colds—some got homesick—a few almost drowned—the lunch we ate on the beach was a little gritty and the teachers and chaperones didn't get their required sleep. But, all in all, it was a really neat trip and it never would have been possible without Mr. Huntley, who started the whole trip. We would all like to especially thank him for all the time and effort he put into it! Even though sometimes he would get so upset and almost have a nervous breakdown, but who wouldn't with such a fantastic group? We even got complimented in several restaurants we went in for being the best group that had ever been there before. Also, we would like to thank all the other teachers and chaperones and Mr. Martin for going along with us on the trip. Even though they might have regretted it, we think they had as good a time as we did. And, last of all, we would like to thank everyone that supported us and made it possible for us to go. Representing the 8th Grade Class, Barbie Bowers and Jamie Garner.
