Freezer Jelly Fresh As A Berry Freshest idea to crop up since freezer jam is freezer jelly. This year full directions for freezer jelly will appear in every package of MCP jam and jelly. The juice for the jelly is mixed with pectin and sugar, with Karo corn syrup added to keep sugar crystals from forming. Given here is the recipe for Red Raspberry Freezer Jelly. For other varieties, see pectin package.

Red Raspberry Freezer Jelly 3 quarts fully ripe red raspberries (about) 1 package (2 ounces) jam and jelly pectin 1 cup light corn syrup 4 1/2 cups sugar Wash and fully crush raspberries. Turn into jelly bag. Twist and press with masher to extract juice. (For a clear jelly, drip juice through special jelly filtering tissues.) Measure and, if needed, add water to make 3 1/2 cups. Pour into large bowl or kettle. Slowly sift in pectin, stirring vigorously. Set aside 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add corn syrup; mix well. Gradually stir in sugar. Warming to 100°F will hasten sugar dissolving. When sugar is dissolved, pour into washed, scalded and drained 1/2 to 1 pint glass or plastic containers with tight fitting lids, leaving 1/4 to 1/2 inch headspace. Store in freezer. Remove from freezer as needed and store in refrigerator between uses. Makes 7 cups.

NOTICE OF SALE AND INVITATION TO BID

Your County Agent Says

Tomato Blossoms fail to Pollinate

With the coming of hot weather a number of home gardeners are experiencing problems in getting their tomato blossoms to set. The blossoms fail to pollinate and fall off.

One of the reasons for this is that tomatoes set fruit very poorly when temperatures are above 90 degrees. The ideal pollinating range is between 58 to 72 degrees. In some instances this problem can be minimized by the use of chemicals that aid pollination. These are available at garden stores.

Beans are also affected with the blossom drop problem when temperatures get above 90 degrees. It is important that soil moisture levels be held high during these periods in order to create an environment favorable for seed set.
