They're coming every day-farmers from the sun baked plains east of the Rocky Mountains where crops have perished through lack of water. The Owyhee irrigation project, these visitors tell us, looks like heaven and they want to stay here when they see what the land will produce when it is provided with water from the new dam and canals. They are delighted with low priced land. The drought is proving a big factor in the colonization program now under way. Monday set a new record in the number of land seekers on the project. From early morning until night, Frank Morgan, sales agent, was busy escorting prospective settlers over the lands. Visitors numbered 25 and they came from the North and South Dakotas, Kansas, Utah and others from Nampa and Twin Falls. The visitors from the middlewest said they were "coming west."

This is a land of plenty all visitors say. Mr. Morgan takes land seekers over the project almost every day. Last month he reports the sale of 480 acres. Inquiries pass the 1000 mark every month.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rawson, late of Detroit and New York, this week opened up an up-to-date hemstitching and dressmaking parlor in the La Frenz building. Mrs. Rawson is an expert at this kind of work, with large experience in eastern cities. The public is cordially invited call and look the establishment over and see samples of Mrs. Rawson's handiwork.

All Europe seems on the eve of the most terrible conflict in the world's history. Little Serbia forms a nucleus around which revolve the world powers of the Eastern Hemisphere, rapidly forming a maelstrom that is fast sucking them all into the vortex. Austria, the aggressor, involving the triple alliance comprised of Austria, Germany and Italy; Serbia through their ally Russia, lining up the forces of the Triple Entente, together are stirring up the greatest display of armed land and water forces ever known to the world.

Wheat and all food supplies are jumping by leaps and bounds, making fortunes for speculators over night. Japan and the United States are the only world powers not involved in the melee. They alone are able to sit upon the fence and view the gruesome spectacle.

England alone, disrupted with internal dissension, seems earnestly striving for a peaceful settlement of the difficulty. Russia has mobilized an army numbering a million and a quarter upon its borders. France is rapidly and quietly preparing for war, while Germany must stand by Austria by long established agreement in times of war.
