From the wild jungles of the Nyssa hinterland comes this thrilling tale of an impromptu and amateur rodeo conducted by five young Nyssa boys.

After playing in their so-called jungles northeast of town, James McDonald, Leo Toombs, Royce Chadwick and Dick and Glenn Schireman, started home across a corrugated field. As they neared a billy goat, the boys thought, "A billy goat is as gentlemanly as he looks" but he showed signs of fight and chased the boys into a haystack. James' troubles began when he slipped off the stack. Not desiring any further experience with the goat, James started to run across the rough field to the nearest fence, but he soon fell and the goat landed on him with all four feet. Grabbing the goat's horns in bulldogging style, James prevented the animal from goring him, but took a lot of punishment from those sharp hoofs.

Realizing the danger to their chum, the boys scrambled off the haystack and went to the rescue. Toombs, the nearest to the "arena" took the goat by the horns and Glenn Schireman administered a football shoulder block that put the goat down in 23 seconds.

Then one of the boys took a rope off Glenn's bicycle and sent the crowd into uproarious applause with a roping demonstration that left the goat agast and tied up.

Do the taxpayers of Malheur County desire a one-half mill tax, to be levied by the county court, for the purpose of creating a fund for a 3 cent bounty on Jackrabbits? If they desire such a tax or oppose it, they are requested to send in their vote on the proposition, together with their address to County Judge David Graham.

To state that he is against a 3-cent bounty, Commissioner E. H. Brumback of Big Bend contends that a bounty of 1-cent, the amount paid at present, is sufficient for the work involved. He stated that farmers should be sufficiently interested in rabbit control to eradicate them for the 1-cent bounty.

It will be a pleasure for the many friends of uncle Dan Ehrgood to learn that he is reported much improved at the hospital in Boise.

William Peutz, the prosperous Owyhee Dutchman, shipped a carload of fine hogs to Portland market this week. Mr. Peutz went along with them to make sure he tops the market with the Malheur "cornfeds."

SENIOR CITIZEN ACTIVITIES

The Senior Citizens met at their club house on Bower Avenue, Wednesday, October 9, 1974. President Erma Sparks was ill so Ann Marostica, vice-president presided over the meeting.

The meeting was opened with the flag salute. Twenty persons answered roll call, but 28 persons enjoyed the pot luck dinner. The treasurer's report was read and bills approved. Committee reports were given on the Bi-centennial Kickoff in 1976. This project is mostly a do-it-yourself project but possibly there will be some federal funding available. Each senior citizen group is asked to participate in some way. A Ways and Means Committee was chosen with May Bretz and Anna Marostica chosen as representatives. The County Health Nurse read blood pressures and gave flu shots. The blood pressure readings are free but the flu shots cost $1.50.

An article was read by May Bretz called "The Generation Gap." It was decided to remember Lucille Runcorn and Mr. W. W. Foster, who are in the hospital, with a card.

Wyatt Smith closed the meeting with prayer. A delicious potluck dinner followed the meeting.

A sincere thank you to all the wonderful friends and neighbors for your many beautiful cards and flowers, hospital and home visits, your prayers and all the other many expressions of kindness during my recent surgery.

An extra special thank you to the doctors Thomas Fuson and Kenneth Danford and an especially warm thank you to the excellent nursing staff of Malheur Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Jesus Lopez
