Nyssa City Council Holds Long Meeting

Nyssa City Council met at a regular meeting, Tuesday, evening March 11.

The proposed garbage ordinance was reviewed by item and several areas were changed to improve applicability. City Attorney Henigson and Manager Schneider were directed to return the ordinance after the suggested changes had been made.

Councilman Tracy stated that COG is having problems being funded by county and cities. There has been accounting problems and some administrative control. Ontario is considering dropping out and Nyssa may be forced to drop out also.

City manager read a written request from the Golden Age Club for a conditional use as recommended by the planning Commission for their Club house on 113 Green Ave. It was decided to check on the background of how the property was zoned.

There was also a recommendation to permit a variance to construct behind

Art Classes Available

Mike McGuire, TVCC art instructor, will teach art classes at Adrian and Vale during the spring quarter. These off-campus classes are offered through the Office of Continuing Education and carry a 2-credit value.

The Adrian class will meet on Tuesdays from 2 to 5 p.m. at the high school beginning April 1, and at Vale High School on Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. starting April 3. McGuire will also hold a class in Frame Making at Vale, meeting on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at the high school.

GED Testing Fee Announced

Louis Gasca of the Student Personnel office at Treasure Valley Community College and also administrator of the local General Education Diploma Test Center has announced that after March 18, the testing fee for all G.E.D. examinees will be $10.00.

Individual State Certificate fees will be charged in addition to the $10.00. The Oregon State fee will be $3.00 and the Idaho State fee, $2.00.

A re-test fee is $2.00 per test.

a carport which is not in conformance to ordinance set backs. It was motioned to hold in obeyance until it was determined if a public hearing was required.

Jack Walker reported that CAP was attempting to build a parallel unit to provide a Civil Defense capability and needed Nyssa's support. He stated that the County would consider budgeting funds to assist and Ontario is supplying a building. Council stated a budget request should also be made by the manager in so much as Vale would also contribute.

City Attorney, Hal Henigson read the amusement device fee change ordinance for the first and second readings and following roll call vote the Mayor declared the ordinance passed to third reading at next meeting.

Ordinance 450, vacating portion of alley behind the Co-op Supply was read for its second reading and was declared passed to third reading at next Council meeting.

Council members approved Resolution 293 to authorize the City Manager to further pursue construction of Commercial Avenue under a State Plan with $25,000 assistance. City Manager Henry Schneider explained the remainder of construction costs will be paid by local improvement districts.

Mayor Don Oldemeyer appointed Dr. Ken Danford, Fred Bracken, Larry Bauman and Gene Chester to serve on the City's Budget Committee.

Council also selected the bid by Don Walker of $225,000 for a surplus weed mower which the city had advertised.

Molasses Run Ends Monday

The molasses processing which has been underway at the Nyssa factory will end March 17 after a 56-day run, according to District Manager Gilbert Wells.

Known as the Stephens process, molasses has been brought from the Nampa factory, given an additional process not available at Nampa, and then returned to Nampa for final extraction of sugar. Fifteen men per shift have been employed during this run.

Wells said that this campaign will be evaluated by Amalgamated Sugar to determine whether it will be done in future years.

applauds at right. Governor Andrus said that he represented Oregon Governor Bob Straub at the meeting, which drew laughter, as most those present had never seen the Oregon governor.

Ore-Ida Opens $7.5 Million Addition

Ore-Ida Foods opened the new $7.5 million addition to their Ontario plant Tuesday with a tour for invited guests and the news media, followed by a luncheon at the East Side Cafe with Governor Cecil D. Andrus of Idaho as special guest and featured speaker.

Tuesday afternoon a tour and reception for employees was held, and Ore-Ida growers were hosted Wednesday morning, followed by a luncheon. Wednesday afternoon guided tours were conducted of the facility for the general public.

Ontario plant manager Glen D. Schwarting introduced president of Ore-Ida, Robert K. Pedersen of Boise at the Tuesday luncheon. Pedersen said that since the devastating fire of 1969 which almost leveled the plant, it has been rebuilt at a very modern facility. It is the major employer in the area, and there are now about 1150 hourly employees.

This new addition will double the capacity, Pedersen said, and will eventually employ about 300 more persons in the area. He said that currently the employees are divided almost 50-50 between residents of Idaho and Oregon.

Former Nyssa Manager Bills For Coffee Hour

Ed's note: This item recently appeared in a Tri-city area newspaper, and was passed on to us for the enlightenment of Nyssa readers.

Send a bill, get a bill Kennewick, Wash. (AP)—City Manager Art Colby is sending a Seattle firm a $1,000 bill for time the official says was wasted in coffee breaks.

Colby told the City Council that an employe of Sound Business Systems, Inc., spends an hour a day drinking coffee.

He said the employe, who is being paid $800 a week, should instead be reworking the city's filing system. He calculated the coffee drinking is costing $100 a week.

As of January 29, Colby told the council, the employe, in 48 work days, "has taken 48 hours in coffee breaks."

The company denies that long coffee breaks are being taken and has told the city it needs another $1,600 to complete the job.

Colby, in response, sent the company a bill of his own.

School Board Works On Building Plans

The Nyssa school board approved the request of Dennis Savage to take Nyssa boys to the Junior Olympics in Portland March 28 and 29. He and Elvin Ballou will accompany the boys, taking personal leave from their teaching on Friday. They requested a bus if private transportation is not available, and will pay for the gas.

The school board also met with members of the building committee Monday evening. Architect Martin Hasegawa showed plans for the high school building, which he hopes to have ready for bidding in May.

Final plans for building locations were tentatively approved, with the request that Hasegawa show front profile of the buildings at next Monday's meeting. He is also to locate the power plant where it can best serve all of the buildings that will use the hydronics heating system.

Extension Service Plans Workshops on Gardening

For the past several years many people have discovered how great it is to grow vegetables. Families planning to grow gardens this year are urged to attend a workshop on the subject being offered free of charge by Oregon State University Extension Service. Families can expect to harvest a bountiful crop if they learn and practice the basics of good gardening, according to Helen Conner, Extension Home Economist. Workshop sessions are planned to cover these basics. Sessions will be held March 17, 24, and 26 at 8 p.m. at Treasure Valley Community College in the Weese Building, room 10.

A complete schedule for the workshop follows:

1st. Session, March 17 - Planning your garden. Soil preparation and fertilization, irrigation.

2nd. Session, March 24 - Weeds, thinning, insects and disease, question and answer session.

3rd Session, March 26 - Harvesting and preserving your crop-Includes information on canning, freezing, drying, and root cellar storage.

Extension meetings are open to all regardless of race, creed, color, or country of origin. People may choose to attend all sessions or only those of special interest.

Adrian and Nyssa Jaycees Will Hold Joint Installation

A joint Charter Night banquet will be held Friday, March 14 at 8 p.m. at the Eagles Hall, Nyssa for the Nyssa and Adrian Jaycees.

Governor Andrus was introduced by Pedersen, and the governor quipped that his "mind was full of new ideas, but he had the same old legislature."

He complimented Schwarting and his employees for their fine production performance and said that on Monday the plant packed 66,000 cartons of potatoes for a new record.

Governor Andrus also complimented Ore-Ida for the $1.7 million spent on waste treatment, and was assured that pure water was being returned to the Snake River. He said that he was glad to hear that, as "one-half of the Snake River belongs to Idaho."

The governor referred to the area on each side of the Snake River as "one region - one economy," with potatoes and onions processed at Ore-Ida grown on both sides of the river. He said that he found in talking to Ore-Ida employees that many had been there for many years, and found it a good place to work with good management.

Subscription Campaign Gets Off To Good Start

With a list of prizes attractive to all boys and girls, the subscription campaign at the Gate City Journal got off to a big start last Saturday, with 28 contestants in the running.

The young salesmen who are working in the campaign will find it is an experience and training which will be invaluable in later life as well as a financial gain of either a brand new 10-speed bicycle or cash commission.

Candidates taking part in the campaign are boys and girls who reside in the area served by the Journal. Object of the drive is to collect an additional year or two from each of the present readers of the Journal or to add new names to the already large list of Journal subscribers. There will be no losers, as the number of candidates is limited and each active worker is guaranteed one of the major prizes of latest model bicycles or a liberal cash commission.

Readers of the Gate City Journal can help their favorite contestant by either giving their renewal to him or her or by mailing it to the Journal office asking that it be credited to the contestant.

These youngsters are working hard earning money and prizes and they will appreciate your help. All renewals are credited from the expiration date.

If you are buying the paper at the stand, subscribe. New subscriptions count double in money or votes for the contestants. Starting this week, there will be an added bonus of $10 for the boy or girl selling the most new subscriptions from Saturday, March 15 to Thursday March 20.

Listed below are boys and girls who are selling subscriptions to the Journal. Those living outside the city of Nyssa are in district one, those inside the city are in district two.
