Legislative Report

By Rep. D. E. (Denny) Jones

It doesn't seem possible that here we are at the end of the 16th week of the 58th Legislative Assembly. I'll start this one where I left off last week. The bills being considered cover such a variety of subjects and problems that discussing them in numerical order seems the simplest way to mention them.

House Bill 2058 is a bill we passed that is important to our economy. This would allow the state to sell bonds for low-income housing. I opposed this bill because it included a section I didn't like. The state would not be required to use the rent, fees or charges collected to pay off the principal and interest on the bonds. The money could be spent for something other than what it should be spent for, and it becomes an obligation against the state and the debt would have to be paid off by taxes of some kind on the public. Also I thought the state shouldn't be getting into the housing business.

Another bill I voted against is HB 2061, concerning landlord-tenant legislation. I did not like the regulations binding on the landlord.

HB 2430 would allow municipalities to be exempt from the state building code, if the Department of Commerce agrees. The bill failed on the first vote but was reconsidered and sent back to committee. I thought it was a good bill—it would have given the cities the right to set up their own codes—did not allow the Department of Commerce the right to refuse a permit but gives the cities the right to enact stiffer codes if they decided on this.

HB 2552, which revises the homeowner and renter relief law, was referred to the Ways and Means Committee for further work. Many of the legislators are in favor of discontinuing this as a means of funding other programs.

HB 2579, the bill that deals with criminal records and the availability, or access, to the records by the general public, turned into almost a parliamentary donnybrook. This is a very controversial issue. First the minority report of the committee passed—then this was reconsidered and the majority report, or committee report, was adopted and the bill passed. This makes criminal histories private except to designated law-enforcement officers—criminal histories cannot be disclosed to just anyone. I can't predict what will happen to this bill in the Senate.

The budget for the Department of Environmental Quality, HB 5069, just barely received the 31 votes that is needed to pass a bill. I voted against this budget, as you can note many others did. The opposition was due to the general arrogance in decision-making by this Department and high-handed attitude. Also their inefficiency came in for criticism, particularly by the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. He blasted this Department for failing to live within their budget—there was a deficit from the last biennium appropriation which had to be added to the budgeted amount for this coming biennium. The W & M Chairman said the Department's lack of cooperation and indifference to its budgeted funds would not be tolerated.

A member of one of the Ways and Means sub-committees will close up shop by May 16. It usually takes ten days to two weeks to wind up the session after the Ways & Means Committee have finished, so hopefully the Legislature will end by the end of May or first of June.

Businessman of Year

Milan Ryder, veteran auto dealer of Weiser, Idaho, has been named Idaho Small Businessman of the Year, Bill Grange, Chairman of the Idaho Advisory Council to the Small Business Administration announced.

Ryder received the citation in a special small business recognition banquet in Weiser, Wednesday evening, May 7, co-sponsored by the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

"From a tiny beginning in Weiser in 1946, Ryder has parlayed his sales and technical skills," Grange related, "into one of the most successful small auto dealerships in America."

"Not only does his venture attract customers from a multi-county trading area," Grange adds, "but outstanding abilities have been recognized by his peers of the industry who, through the National Auto Dealers Association awarded him a coveted Quality Dealer Award in 1975, one of 12 such dealers in America so honored."

Today, the Ryder firm has 25 employees, and offers retail sales of Ford automobiles and trucks, and also a complete service operation, including body repairs.

"Ryder," Grange adds, "has built his business on a solid foundation of a dollar's worth of value for the dollars his customers spend, and backs this assurance with a complete satisfaction warranty."

Ryder has been both pioneer and leader in industry associations. He was President, Idaho Auto Dealers Association, 1965-66; President, Washington County Auto Dealers, 1960; and an organizer of the Treasure Valley Association in 1970. He received a Gold Medallion Award for dealer excellence in 1973.

Antelope Hunt Deadline Nears

Hunters are reminded by the Wildlife Commission that the application deadline for 1975 antelope tags is coming up fast. To be considered in the public drawing, applications must be received at the Commission's Portland office by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, May 13.

Copies of the 1975 antelope regulations and application material are available where hunting and fishing licenses are sold.

This year 1,520 tags are authorized for 16 hunting areas in southeast Oregon and 130 tags will be available to archers for the Gerber Reservoir area in Klamath County.

Hunters must have a valid hunting license to apply, but do not submit money for a tag unless successful in the drawing. Tag winners will be drawn on May 23 at 10 a.m. in Wildlife Commission headquarters, SW 17th and Alder in Portland.
