True or false? Snow tires give extra braking capability on ice and snow.

Partly true, says the National Safety Council. They give extra braking on loosely-packed snow but provide no benefits on ice.

The present plan is to work out some method of keeping the dust down by systematic sprinkling and it is also possible that part of the track will be utilized for an outdoor basketball court and a football field.

The entire construction cost of the project will be borne by the federal government as a means of providing work for those on relief.

50 YEARS AGO

A gift last week of an Indian skeleton, together with all the paraphernalia that usually is buried with an Indian warrior, was made by William Schnabel, pioneer and student of early Idaho history, to the College of Idaho Museum.

It was while on a special trip taken by Mr. Schnabel into the Succor Creek Canyon Malheur County last summer for that purpose that discovery of the skeleton was made. This section, Mrs. Schnabel says, is noted for its peculiarities, as the country is deeply cut by small, rugged valleys and was a natural haunt for tribes of Indians which formerly roamed there.

According to Mrs. Schnabel, the grave was found without difficulty. Unearthed with the body were a number of arrow shafts, a bow of unusually fine workmanship and quality and the top of an old-fashioned sheet-iron kettle, bits of buckskin and a piece of canvas in which the body had apparently been wrapped.

The canvas and kettle top indicated that the Indian had been buried since the white men invaded the northwest but the belief is the grave is an old one. It is believed that the brave, apparently an elderly man, was buried in the Hudson Bay Company period.

In excavating the body, Mr. Schnabel uncovered three scorpions of the blue species, a rattlesnake and two lizards, all comfortable hibernated there for the winter. The body was facing the east, indicating that the brave was of more than ordinary importance. Evidence of the brave's age is borne by the teeth, which were nearly worn away in the lower jaw.
