Nyssa Cowgirl Rides Wagon Train To Wyoming Quarters

EVELYN BAILEY

By Pat Savage Evelyn Bailey, a pert young lady of nineteen, looks very comfortable in the chosen costume of a cowgirl or trail buckaroo. She recently had the opportunity to be a member of the Bicentennial Wagon Train which passed through this area last summer. There are a lot of people, young and old, who wished they were a part of this glorious replay of history. She is the daughter of Joe Bailey, Nyssa, and graduated from Nyssa High School in Evelyn says, "I always have liked horses and old-fashioned things. One of my fondest dreams has been to drive a team that pulls a wagon." She has laid the groundwork well for gaining experience for this ambition, as she was very active in almost anything that pertained to horsemanship in 4-H and High School Rodeo. She was chosen Queen of the Malheur County Sheriff's Posse in 1974. Also helping to improve her skills, she drove two horses to help pick up hay on the family farm.

DR. RRANDON ADAMS and his wife Dona have arrived in Nyssa where he will enter the General Practice of Medicine in association with Dr. David W. Sarazin in the Sarazin Clinic. They have moved here from Anoka, Minnesota, a suburb of Minneapolis.

Dr. Adams graduated from DePauw University in Greencastle, Indiana, and received his medical degree from the University of Nebraska Medical School. He served a Surgical Internship at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland, and specialized one year in Neuro-surgery at the University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore.

Mrs. Adams worked as a medical secretary in Minneapolis, and has done work tutoring children, and working in the recreation field. They have purchased the Bud Wilson home

Oregon Dairymen Plan Convention

A variety of dairy management problems will punc-tuate the 82nd annual convention of the Oregon Dairymen's Association scheduled February 9-11 at the Tapa-include milk pricing, escalating farm costs and a proposed in-common marketing agency for Oregon, Washington and Idaho, according to James Dejong of Sheridan, ODA president. Other topics include herd health, breeding, energy conservation, environment, and legislation and taxation. Dejong noted that Idaho dairymen will participate in the meeting.

Principal speaker at the three-day session will be Louis Longo of Glatsonbury, Connecticut, operator of a 450-acre dairy and current president of Yankee Milk.

Longo is a member of the executive committee of the National Milk Producers Federation, vice chairman of the National Dairy Council and agribusiness columnist for Hoard's Dairyman, a national dairy industry trade publication with a circulation

Other speakers include Leonard Kunzman, Oregon Director of Agriculture; Dr. Donald L. Bath, extension dairy nutritionist at the University of California at Davis; and Ray L. Hobson, administrator of the Oregon

tion of the Oregon Dairy Wives will be held in conjunction with the ODA meeting. Dairy wives will join in all ODA functions except the annual business session. according to Hazal Pugh of Shedd, ODW president.

On the train she later learned to drive four horses. Deciding to further her dream and recapture a little of the history she had read and heard about for so many years, this young modern day horsewoman joined the Bicentennial Wagon Train in Caldwell on August 1, 1975. "I had a riding horse and a pack horse and planned to go as far as I could afford to

The second day out she hired on as a dishwasher in the cook shack. This paid for her meals. Breakfast was served from 6:30 to 7 a.m. and that left a lot of dishes to be washed by 7:45 a.m., so she could get her horse saddled and ready by 8 a.m. Trying to make sure she could meet the 8 o'clock starting time, she got up pretty early each morning and fed and saddled her horses before she ate breakfast. Willing to earn her keep and do her pioneer share, Evelyn worked as relief driver for some of the teamsters for food for her horses. To keep her animals in shoes, she helped hold mules and horses for the horseshoers.

Every mile and every day was a new experience. The scenery, the people, the towns, the Old Oregon Trail as it wound through the desert and the sagebrush, the gravesites of those pioneers who lost their life as they fought the hardships of those long-ago times, all left people of the train.

Each town had planned celebrations and programs for the train and everyone was made to feel much at home. People everywhere were impressed that the teamsters and train members many of whom were paying their own way, were taking a year off to make the trek.

In South Pass, Wyoming they met with the Nevada train and there was a big barbecue. Television stations were filming the arrival, and the train had to go up and down the same hill three times until it was satisfactory

Pioneers aren't pioneers without Indians and there were several attacks at different town sites before the wagon train bedded down for the winter, but the most realistic was the one at the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. There were horses and Indians everywhere, hollering and shouting. It was easy to imagine the confusion and alarm that went through the minds of our ancestors at that first war whoop they heard

Town

by Pat Savage

I am happy to announce the arrival of Dr. William R. Bond and Dr. Brandon Adams to Nyssa. Dr. Bond and his family are living in Ontario at the present time and his dental office is in Dr. Joe Cundall's former office. Dr. Adams and his wife are living in Nyssa and he will be receiving medical patients in the Sarazin Clinic. We deeply appreciate your coming to Nyssa as there is a great need for your services. Welcome, welcome.

Beware! If your garbage can is wearing a RED TAG these days, you are in violation of the new Garbage Ordinance. Tags are being placed on improper cans giving residents 48 hours to correct the problem. The specific problem is written on the back of the tag. Persons failing to comply with the warnings will then be given citations to appear in court. For further information contact S&S Disposal, 372-5222 or City Hall, 372-2264.

Treacherous ice and snow still cover some of our streets and sidewalks, especially in the residential section. Victims of serious falls, ranging from mild concussions to broken arms and legs, are: Robbie Robinson, Marion Leseberg, Arline Robb, Thelma Huffman and Ray Daudt. There are probably others that have fallen but not been reported. If you possibly can, please clear your sidewalks. Remember, the walk you fall

Local Students On OSU Honor Roll

Names of local students who made the scholastic honor roll fall term have been announced by Oregon State University.

A total of 541 students earned straight-A's (4.0) and another 1,565 earned a B-plus (3.5) or better to make the honor listing. To make the honor roll, students must earn a 3.5 or better on at least 12 graded hours of course work. Local students on the honor roll included: Robert G. Clark, junior, agriculture; Sylvia L. Clark, junior, science; John W. Mantle, senior, science; and Janis M. Takami, senior, liberal arts.

Two Ordinances were considered, one passed for the third and final reading adjusts the speed limits in accordance with State and City signs. Steve Fonda of the City Attorney's office read a new proposed Ordinance designating the City Council as the Contract Review Board in accordance with the new State law.

The Nyssa Planning Commission referred a request from the "Baseball for Kids" program to place 2'x4' advertising signs on the baseball fence in the South Park as a fund raising program. Council granted permission.
