

Sage of Nu Acres

By Lyn Dohner

March arrived with lavish sparkling snow, coating every branch of every tree, making Christmas all over again in the evergreens, and just when we'd hoped winter was all over. Like, who needs it now?

But in everything "give thanks." So, "Thank you, Lord, for the snow. It will give a last good watering, maybe, before we get down to serious gardening. Right?" Yes, did say we. In a couplet I read somewhere, "We work together, God and I, with much the most of ease, and while I keep on making poems, He keeps on making trees."

George's Bossy cow has learned to unhook the barn door. Now he's looking for a bolt for it, George is.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Maine have moved back to Modesto, California. Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Maine, and had moved to Nu Acres in order to be near his folks during the critical period of his mother's illness. She is better now, and well cared for by the family.

Mrs. Alice Pulsipher was a dinner guest in the home of her son, Jesse Fry in Parma, Sunday. As she is not now driving, he came for her and then took her home later in the day.

Chatting with neighbors on the phone, found out that the ailments that have been besetting me are the thing folks call the Flu. Nice to know I'm about over it.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Payne were Mr. and Mrs. George Pitkins of Troy, Idaho. Mrs. Payne met a cousin she had never seen Sunday, when George Linney a school teacher from Home-dale came to visit his Aunt Stella, Mrs. Payne's mother, who is currently staying with the Paynes. Mrs. Stella Newell, incidently, is doing fine, and should be able to return to her own home in Nampa in a few days.

About that bossy cow, Bob Imbler wondered why she had to stay in the barn when it was cold. He asked George as she'd lost her nice warm fur coat!

Guess George and I should both try to get into Future Farmers to learn about cows.

UO Dorm Information Clarifies Deposits

Students who plan to live in University of Oregon dormitories during the 1976-77 academic year will not be required to make a $150 down payment by July 31, according to H.P. Barnhart, director of housing at the UO.

Application forms sent to prospective students and school counselors indicate the down payment is required.

However, the $50 general deposit that must accompany the dormitory application will continue to be required. Those who cancel their reservations by July 31 will have $40 of the deposit returned. After that date no money will be returned.

Barnhart adds that there is no specific deadline for application to live in the dormitories, but he encourages prospective residents to apply early so that accommodation requests can be met.

The University has recommended the following rates for next year to the State Board of Higher Education.

Regular dormitories, single room, $1,715 (up from $1,586 this year); double room, $1,320, (up from $1,220 this year); University Inn, single room, $2,145 (up from $1,894 this year) and double rooms, $1,650 (up from $1,494 this year).

The State Board is expected to discuss proposed dormitory rates in March.

The average occupancy rate for UO dorms is 2.700 students.

Writers Club

A number of people in the area are interested in forming a writers' organization along the lines of the Willamette Writers' Club or the Idaho Writers' League. The core of the group presently are involved in short story, magazine non-fiction, photojournalism, television news, and novel projects.

Persons who might wish to join such a group are asked to call TVCC 889-6493, Ext. 57. The Willamette Writer's Club is sending copies of their by-laws as well as information about their conference scheduled this summer in Portland. As soon as these materials are available, everyone will be contacted for an organizational meeting.
