Alma White, son of Mr. Edyre White of Nyssa and Noamie Ashby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ashby, one of the new settlers, were married last Sunday in the Temple at Salt Lake City. They returned to Nyssa Monday and will make their home at the K.S. and D. Ranch where Mr. White is employed by Angus Bishop.

A big picnic excursion, one that will rival the celebration when the Owyhee Dam was completed, is planned for Sunday, April 26 at the dam.

The affair is sponsored by the Vale-Owyhee Land Settlement Association, who are planning a genuine red-letter day for that date.

The celebration will mark the filling of the Owyhee Dam, which means an assured water supply for the Owyhee project and enduring prosperity for the Nyssa country. It is something worth celebrating and the committee has decided to make it a real event.

Due to the roadbed conditions and danger of accidents it will be unlikely that the railroad to the dam will be utilized for excursion purposes but people will journey to the dam in their own cars to the scene of the affair.

Mrs. Agnes Hamaker who has resigned her position at Wilson Brother Store, will leave this Friday evening for Meridian, Idaho, to make her home. Her place has been taken by Gertrude Wilson. Mrs. Hamaker has many friends here who sincerely regret her departure, and the band will miss Bobby and his snare drum.

G. B. Wills, who has been in the dray business in Nyssa ever since the town was discovered is now the proud possessor of an elegant and substantial motor truck, which arrived from Portland last Sunday. It has a powerful four-cylinder engine and will carry two tons, without an effort. It was made by G.M. Company of Detroit and cost a pile of money, but Mrs. Wills' business has grown along with Nyssa to such proportions that he found some rapid means of transit necessary. The faithful old sorrels have been relegated to the barn, but will still be useful when storms rage and roads are bad, for even a motor truck which cost a small fortune has its limitations.

Mr. Wills received the car Sunday, and although he had never before had hold of the steering apparatus of a car, he started out on the milk route early Monday morning and returned with a full load of milk for the cheese factory without mishap. He now drives the car with all the confidence of a veteran chauffeur and wonders how he ever got along without it. Anyway, it adds immensely to the city-like appearance of the Nyssa streets.
