THE APRIL ARTIST OF THE MONTH at the Nyssa Public Library is Dora Elia Smith, who was born in Mexico across the border from Eagle Pass, Texas.

Her early school years were spent in Los Angeles, California—in 1964, her family moved to Eagle Pass, Texas, where she graduated from high school. In 1966, she came to Nyssa with her family as migrant workers. She is now married to Leroy Smith, an area farmer, and they are the parents of a son.

After her marriage in 1969, Mrs. Smith became interested in painting, and has had some lessons through Treasure Valley Community College, at Adrian.

Some of her oil paintings are: "Mt. Rainer," shown above, "Garden in San Diego," and "Flamingos." Her paintings will be on exhibit for the month of April, and may be viewed during regular library hours.

Families Benefit With TVCC Help

There are families all over the Treasure Valley who have benefited directly and indirectly through Treasure Valley Community College. Each area has representation among TVCC personnel, and Nyssa is no exception.

Ruth (Mrs. Duane) Buchtel R.N., has been associated with the Licensed Practical Nursing Program for seven years in various teaching experiences.

The daughter of Leroy and Hazel Herrman, Ruth and her three sisters and brother came to the Nyssa area when she was four years old. They were originally from South Dakota. The Herrmans took a farm out of the sagebrush and Ruth well remembers the many years of hard work to make a productive farm.

The Herrmans are well-represented in the Nyssa area for their Holstein herd, and also throughout Malheur County for their dairy exhibit at the Malheur County Fair. Ruth said that every year at Fair time, work on the farm would come to a stop while they all went to the Fair.

Following graduation from Nyssa High, Ruth went to Spokane where she received her professional nursing education at Whitworth College and the Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing.

She worked in several states, meeting her husband,

Duane, in the Midwest where he taught school. Although they lived a number of places in the Pacific Northwest, Duane always preferred the Malheur area. When the opportunity arose, they purchased part of the Herrman home place, northwest of Nyssa, and now live in the family home. Duane is a counselor at Nyssa High School, and combines his love of teaching and farming. Her mother, Mrs. Hazel Herrman, lives close by on the farm.

The Buchtels have two daughters, Laura, age 11 and Nancy, 9, who help with the farm chores, helping take care of the beef cattle, a big garden and family orchard.

Ruth expressed satisfaction that both she and her husband have the opportunity to live and work in an area they like and also maintain close family ties.
