TVCC Music Director Receives $2,000 Stipend

Dick Dalzell, director of music at Treasure Valley Community College, has been awarded a $2,000 stipend from the national Endowment for the Humanities to participate in a summer seminar on "Music in the United States before the Civil War." The seminar will be held at the University of Kansas from June 14 through August 7 under the direction of J. Bunker Clark, Professor of Music History at the University.

The National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminars for College Teachers are intended for teachers in undergraduate and two-year colleges who are concerned primarily with improving their knowledge of the subjects they teach. The purpose of the seminars is to provide these college teachers with opportunities to work with distinguished scholars in their fields at institutions with libraries suitable for advanced study. Through research, reflection, and discussion with the seminar director, guest lecturers, and their colleagues in a seminar atmosphere, they will sharpen their understandings and improve their ability to convey their understandings to college students. In addition to the work of the seminar, each participant will pursue personal study of his own choosing.

Dalzell was selected as one of the twelve NEH Research Fellows from among fifty-four applicants. Nine of the twelve have their doctorate degrees. The participants are from a cross section of the country -- Nebraska, Kentucky, Ohio, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, California, Minnesota, Georgia, and Idaho. The only other participant from the Northwest is Dr. Richard Skyrm, Chairman of the Music Department at the College of Idaho in Caldwell.

Dalzell's assigned individual study project concerns early American shape-note music and its relation to European musical developments of the same time period.

Instructor On Summer Staff

Kenneth O'Connell, Treasure Valley Communtiy College Art Department Chairman, has been invited to be a Visiting Faculty Member at The Evergreen State College this summer. Evergreen is an experimental school located in Olympia, Washington. At his school there are no grades. The portfolio method is used instead, made up of written evaluations and samples of the student's work.

Evergreen State College was instituted in 1971 and has consistently offered innovative programs that enable students to coordinate subject areas often separated in conventional education programs. Mr. O'Connell will teach in a program called Individual Contracted Studies. The areas of study involved will be filmmaking, animation, sequentiel photography and other graphics, and mural painting.

Yogurt Shake For Dairy Month Break

Take a break that's extra refreshing with cooling dairy drinks and crisp buttery cookies. It's a great snacking combination for June Dairy Month and on through the summer.

The possibilities for fabulous drinks are unlimited with dairy products, fresh fruit and a blender. Here we've whirred a smooth cooler with yogurt, vine ripened cantaloupe and a scoop of ice cream. An 8-ounce carton of yogurt is a popular snack or light meal. Fruit flavored yogurts—and the choice of flavors is big—is generally available in two styles. Swiss style has fruit and yogurt mixed. Sundae style has fruit on the bottom of the carton. For handy cookies, a slice and bake recipe is unbeatable.

Skinner Ranch On 'Top op' Agenda

The final ranch visit of the "TOP OP"- Bicentennial Celebration, June 19, will take place at the Skinner Ranch near Jordan Valley, according to Ray Novotny, Malheur County Extension Agent. The stop will feature a broad range of ranch operations and offer farmers, ranchers, businessmen and other friends of agriculture an opportunity to become better acquainted with one of the county's agricultural communities.

The Skinner family can boast of a true pioneer beginning in the west's cattle country, according to Novotny. Historically, there are six generations of the Skinners involved in 98 years of family effort in developing one of the first ranch operations in the west—changing sagebrush land into crop land to feed cattle through the tough winter months. Actually it was over one-hundred years ago when Silas Skinner, known as "Sam" arrived in the Idaho territory. "Gold" drew Silas to the Idaho territory from California as he and a friend, a mule and a couple of burros set out to find that yellow stuff in their quest for wealth.

Roads were needed to get into the rough mountain country and Silas seeing an opportunity, built a toll road into the Owyhees.

The years passed and Silas married Anne Callow who bore a son, William Silas in 1871. The family moved to Jordan Valley and Ray Skinner was born in 1879 on the present ranch site formerly called the "goose ranch."

History—new generations came into the Skinner ranch operation and currently the S. K. Skinner and Sons operation is owned by brothers, Robert and Dan Skinner.

Driving into the ranch headquarters, one can't help but feel proud people live here. The buildings, corrals, cattle and the whole operation exemplifies a western cattle operation at its best. Novotny explained.

The ranch according to Bob Skinner, one of the partners, is a good one; but it didn't happen without hard work, disappointment, setbacks and sacrifices. The ranch unit, according to Skinner, measures its' success not in numbers of cows, but in properly feeding and caring for the cattle for maximum pounds of beef sold off the ranch.

"The warmup feedlot came into being in 1955 because we felt we had achieved improved feed supplies and could improve our total operation," Skinner says. He stressed, "the hay production changed from 750 to over 2200 tons a year by planting alfalfa and following improved irrigation practices

Ask Bob Skinner what makes their ranch special and he replies, "It's maybe not a great deal different than many, but we as a family feel pride in what we're doing, we want to move ahead, achieve new goals and objectives, and still make it work for us economically. I guess you'd say we've always been ranch people - we pioneered it - it becomes a part of you and your life!"

Ask son, Bob, about ranch life and he replies, "guess one thing that troubles me is that customers "don't" understand agriculture—our problems—all they really seem to want is cheap food."

When Bob Skinner talks about his philosophy about the cattle business he comments, "it's the constant pressure of work that's tough, the investment, the external pressures; but yet it's my way of life - my father's and my son's - so it's family and family effort that makes it o.k." He recalls changes have taken place here. The ranch once fed 40 ranch hands - two table settings of 20 each for meals - now it's the family and one man that do the work.

The ranch partnership is called S.I. SKINNER AND SONS, Bob and brother Dan make up the legal partnership entity. Decisions are not made by any one family member—but by family discussion, review and then decision.

To reach back in the pioneer spirit of the country, S. K. Skinner and Sons probably depict this feeling as much as any ranch operation in the west.

We can be proud of such families, who came to this wild, untamed land, cleared, plowed, cropped, and built their family foundations well —so that all of us may benefit from their effort and sacrifices.
