This week the Journal is innovating a new contest, open to one and all, and one we hope will be both pleasant and profitable. It is the "Clip and Chuckle Contest" and all there is to it is to clip or copy five lines taken from different parts of the paper and combine them into something readable and clever. It is surprising how you can take a line here and there and make it sound when read together.

An extraordinary combination of snake and lizard was found near Vale at Little Valley by A. W. Spencer and M. E. Frederickson, surveyors working on the Central Oregon Highway, last week. It was a dinosaur in replica, resembling the prehistoric animal in detail except in size. It possessed a horrible head, somewhat like that of a gila monster, but with beady pink eyes. It had small stubs of feet, but unlike a lizard, had only two. The vest of its body resembled that of a snake fully two feet in length.

It was a dirty blue-gray color.

The Owyhee District election held Saturday to vote over the acceptance of the contract with the government to water the lands within the district proved conclusively that the landowners are interested in the matter and are rarin' to go. One hundred and two votes were cast, 101 in favor and one against. The negative vote was cast through mistake however, so that the voting was really unanimous.
