Bratton Explains Duties Of County Assessor

Speaking before the Ontario Lions at their Tuesday luncheon meeting, Malheur County Assessor Oscar Bratton told the group that the assessor does not determine how much money is collected by property taxes - this he said is the responsibility of the budget committees of the different taxing districts and you the citizens that vote and approve these levies.

Bratton said that it is then the assessor's duty to see that the tax burden is distributed as fair and equitable as possible according to the laws governing property taxation.

Bratton said that, "after nearly four years as your assessor, I can honestly say, that I believe that the position of county assessor is one of the most difficult jobs a person can hold. It takes a strong person for even though the pressure may at times be severe, you must still keep a cool head and not be forced into a hasty decision." "It's a must," he said, "that an assessor have a good working knowledge of the Oregon Assessment Laws."

Bratton ended his informative talk with a question, "What does the Department of Revenue have to do with my office?" He answered by quoting ORS 305.090 which states that the Department of Revenue shall exercise general supervision and control over county assessors and county boards of equalization to the end that equality of taxation according to law is secured.

Your Property Taxes

by Oscar B. Bratton, Malheur County Assessor

Question: After I become 65 years old is there some way to continue to live in my home without being forced to sell because I cannot pay my taxes?

Answer: Yes. ORS 311.668 is the Senior Citizen Residential law. The 1975 legislature reduced the age requirement to 62 years. By making application with the County Assessor and the State Treasurer each year between January 1 and April 1, a property owner age 62 or older may defer their residential property taxes until after death. The spouse may then elect to continue the deferral if he or she refiles within 90 days and will be 60 years of age no later than six months from the date of the death of the taxpayer. In the event that the spouse does not qualify or choose to continue the deferral, the taxes accumulated plus 6 percent interest become due and payable. In the event there is no spouse the heirs may redeem the property by paying taxes plus interest or the property will go into foreclosure and the taxes paid from sale of the estate.

Even though the property taxes are being deferred the taxpayer may file and receive the Homeowners and Renters Property Tax Refund - if they meet the household income limitations. Under the present law - this money may then be used to reduce the amount deferred or spent as they wish.

The total tax amount deferred plus interest may be paid at any time if the taxpayer chooses to cancel the deferral.

Hints For Homeowners

WHEN IS A BARGAIN NOT A BARGAIN?

When is a bargain not a bargain? Often, it's an item offered at a "special reduced price." Not always, but often, these "specials" are in fact just that—substitutes for the original, made for the "cents off" sale, or a "look-alike" to the brand accepted as the quality leader.

A case in point is hand tools for the homeowner's workshop. Here, high quality and true economy are one. A good hand tool, properly and simply cared for, should serve efficiently and last a human lifetime, and still be in shape for use by another generation.

For real economy, buy top quality tools, advise expert tool makers such as the craftsmen who have made Nicholson saws and files for 112 years, Lufrin tapes and rules since before the turn of the century, Weller soldering equipment for generations, and high-quality Crescent brand pliers, wrenches and screwdrivers.

Poorly made tools make home repair work more time-consuming, difficult and ultimately uneconomical. For example, the tips of run-of-the-mill variety screwdrivers often chip and their shafts become loose in the handles. This can slow down a job that's as easy as fastening a door hinge. Gripping edges of poorly made pliers often wear, joints loosen and the jaws lose their alignment—so that tightening a faucet fitting can be difficult. Soldering guns and irons on "special" can become too hot to handle so it's hard to do an easy electrical repair job. Poor quality measuring tape blades can slip and markings wear away, ruining calculations before you start. Saw blade teeth naturally lose sharpness with use—those on a "special" can become blunt so quickly and regularly that they perform poorly and sharpening becomes a budget burden.

Remember that bargain hunting means searching for not just a low price, but a high quality, leading brand product. This is especially true of tools which should be made to last a lifetime.
