ELECTRIC RATES RISE

The Oregon Public Utility Commissioner has authorized Idaho Power Co. to charge an additional 2 mills per kilowatt hour ($2 for 1,000 kilowatt hours) for electricity used starting June 6. The Oregon surcharge will be listed separately on the customer's bill.

The company will use the revenue to pay for higher-cost power to replace lower-cost hydro-electricity which won't be available due to the drought. If later investigation finds any of the money was not needed, it will be credited to customers. The PUC also will decide later when the surcharge will end; the company has asked that it apply through Sept. 30.

IT'S A HAPPY FACT!

NATURAL GAS IS IN GOOD SUPPLY IN THE NORTHWEST

We have more than enough gas for our present priority customers (residential and commercial). We can assure them of an uninterrupted supply—in all seasons.

In addition, we have gas to offer to NEW residential and commercial customers. YOU are invited to join the more than 80,000 accounts we are serving in Washington and Oregon.

Our pipeline supplier has made a long-term contract for a substantial new supply of Canadian gas, in addition to that already being received.

Our storage facilities for laying away gas in the summer for use in the winter are being steadily enlarged.

Besides that, thrifty and thoughtful people are being careful not to waste gas. That, too, increases the supply.

All in all, it's a GOOD long-term picture in our business—if you want to be sure the energy you choose will be there when you want it.

Our promise: you won't run out of natural gas. We have gas for homes and businesses for many years ahead. Count on it.
