Sage of Nu Acres

By Lyn Dohner

Valley people whose roots were up in Westfall, Oregon gathered together in Vale for a reunion picnic Saturday. Going from Nu Acres were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shaw Sr., the Bob Shaw's Jr., and Francis Cammann.

Verna said Cammann lived at Westfall as a boy and that her mother grew up there also. The Shaws saw a number of cousins at the picnic.

Mrs. Verna Wilson of Nu Acres and Mrs. Peg Hammock of Ontario also went to the Westfall picnic. Verna was born and raised in that area, and said her father came there as a boy with his parents in 1881. At that time Westfall was a main stop in the stagecoach route west and came up along Bully Creek. Then there were about seventy homes, a post office and a general store.

However, when the railroad was built along the Malheur River, Westfall was bi-passed and Harper became the main stop. Houses, since, have been torn down or moved to Harper, and the old general store stands empty today. Only the post office survives, serving widespread residents of that cattle country, but many people remember the olden days and gather at picnics in Vale to talk and renew old acquaintances.

Nu Acres 4-H has been busy, busy, busy, Nancy Sheffield said. Next Saturday they will have their little club fair and together work on judging, grooming and demonstrations. Last week there was a County demonstration contest and six Nu Acres youngsters went, all winning ribbons and doing well.
