FROM THURSDA'YS DAILY

SALEM'S CANSERY.

Will Begin Operations When Straw-Become Plentiful-May Start Saturday.

The W. K. Allen Evaporating company, the new owners of the Wallace cannery and evaporating plant on Twelfth street, intended starting its plant yesterday for the purpose of canning strawberries, but that fruit was hardly plentiful enough to justify the operation of the plant. The cool weather of the past few days has retarded the ripening of the fruit with the result that at the present time only enough of that delicious fruit is being brought to the city to supply the will ripen rapidly, and the market will soon be over-supplied, when the cannery will start and receive the surplus receipts in the Salem market. As has been stated before Messrs. Allen & Co. do not propose to engage extensively in the canning of fruit and vegetables this season, expecting only to preserve. tributed as samples in soliciting future Mr. Allen to make any statement relative to the operation of his evaporating plant. The fatal effects of the frost of last February are now being more fully realized. There will be but a very limited amount of fruit in this section of the state for evaporating purposes, but the Salem plant will probably handle whatever can be purchased.

O. V. Allen, who is managing the company's business in this city, yesterday thought the plant would begin work on strawberries by the latter part of the week or by Tuesday of next week at the latest, by which time It is thought there will be an abundant supply of that fruit in the market.

THE PLANS ARE CHANGED,

Delegates to National Editorial Association Will Devote Only Three Hours to Salem.

Henry B. Thielsen, secretary of the Salem Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the mass meeting at which arrangements were made for the reception and entertainment of the national editorial delegates upon their visit to this city next month, has returned from Portland where he held a number of conferences with the members of the Portland Press Club. Mr. Thielsen says the editorial visitors will not be able to devote as much time to Frian as they originally in-

By the change in plans, the arrangements of the committees at the several points that expected visits from the delegates, are entirely disarranged. Instead of having seven days to devote to excursions out of Portland, the association will have only three days to pleasure trips. This will permit of three excursions which will probably be given as follows: One to the Sound country, including Seattle and Tacoma; one to Astoria and another up the Valley. It is probable the delegates can ot remain in this city longer three hours.

A meeting of the executive committee of the citizens will be held at 10 o'clock this morning when its plans will be altered to suit the change in plans that has been announced.

THE BICYCLE PATHS.

Good Foundation Made for Future Itoads for the Pneumatic Wheel--Excellent Progress Made.

The bicycle paths are fast assunding proportions, and in a short time Marion county will be well supplied with a very good system of these highways for the pneumatic tire. Vesterday Prof. A. W. Long made a trip over the raths between this city and Aurora, and between Salem and Silverton, for the purpose of satisfying his curiosity as to the quality of work done, and the manner of doing it by the various superintendents of construction. He entire system shall be strong, found the path between this city and Brooks in very good condition, the only objection that could be raised, being the fact that the tiding surface of the path is a little too narryw to ad. mit of two wheelmen passing each other without getting into the soft ground. This will be remedied as soon as the loose soil, which entered largely into the construction of the path, setties and hardens, when the new readway will have an excellent surface for the wheels.

Purther north the path was not found as well finished as is the Saleic-Brooks section, the pathway being very rough, but a splendid foundation has been laid there for a good path for the future, not much work and expense being required to make it, in time, a splendid pathway. The same condition of affairs exists in regard to the Salem-Silverton route, the extreme dry condition of the soil being one of the handicaps under which the superintendents of construction labor. many places the plow throws up the soli in large dry lumps, while in others it is nothing but dust, dry as a bone and apparently without body. This material does not make the best foundation for a smooth bicycle path, and, it is feared, the results will not be for the best. Mr. Long reports that five crews of construction are employed on the Aurora path, several of the outfits consisting of a balt dozen or more men with several teams. The Silverton ling is being constructed by three crews, two of them between Howell and Silverton, under the supervision of J. K. Buff, and one between Little Pudding local consumption. But with a few river and Pretum, under the direction days, such as yesterday, the berries of Charles Stage. Work on the Salem end of the Silverton line will begin in a few days, when the county court appoints some suitable person to superintend the construction of it.

The wheelmen of the county are pleased with the progress thus far made, their only regret being that the fund, realized from the special bicycle a few cases of each variety, to be dis- tax, will not be sufficiently large to warrant in bringing all the paths up patronage. It is yet a little early for to the highest standard of excellence during the first reason.

> A YOUNG HERO.-While playing upon the log boom at the Capital Lumber Company's yards early last evening, Myra, the 7-year old daughter of Mrs. Alice Flanders, fell into the river, Jay Hensely, aged 9 years, happened to be standing upon the river bank and, noticing the child's danger, rushed along the log boom to the point where the girl had disappeared, and upon her re-appearance snatched her from the water. She was soon resuscitated. Had no one been around, the little girl would surely have drowned, for it was impossible for her to have climbed upon the huge logs, and she would have completely exhausted her strength in a vain endeavor to so escape from the water.

> DELINQUENT TAXES.- The taxes for the year 1828 are still being collected in the Marion county sheriff's office, though the delinquent roll is row in course of preparation. Of the $218,808.24 on the roll, only $74,116.85 remains unuaid, the amount thus far collected being $144,691.39. Taxes are being received at the rate of $1500 to $2500 per day, and by the time the delinquent roll is completed, only about $25,900 will remain unpaid.

MORE SUBSCRIPTIONS .- The local Fourth of July celebration fund was increased $33 yesterday, the finance committee having secured additional subscriptions to that amount swelling the amount to $732. A meeting of the chairmen of the several committees will be held at the office of the celebration chairman, N. Judah, this afternoon,

Mr. Eckerlen reports a very rough ocean voyage and that no one recognized him at his old home.

AT THE ASYLUM.-Mrs. Mary Fisher, aged about 60 year, died at the insane asylum at 11:40 o'clock la t night. The deceased had been a patiers at the asylum for several years. It is not known what disposition will be made of the remains.

THE CORNER STONE

INTERESTING EXERCISES AT BEN-EDICTINE COLLEGE.

The New Archbishop Was Present and Made a Strong and Elequent Address.

(From Daily, June 22d.)

The elevated seat of monastic education in this country-Mt. Angelwas the scene of imposing ceremonies yesterday, which were attended by an immense concourse of people from every section of the surrounding country for many miles, including a large delegation from Salem, the occasion being the laying of the corner stone of the new monastery now in course of construction, also the closing exercises of the Benedictine college,

His grace, Archishop Christie, cently installed as successor to the late Archbishop Gross, was present to conduct the ceremonies and this being his first visit to this country, there was a widespread desire to see and hear him, which increased the attendance even above its accustomed pro-

The town of Mt. Angel was decked out in Fourth of July array, bunting and flags flying and gracefully draped at every house, while the college was a regular sea of patriotic flags and and the whole scene was productive of decorations, the happy congregation grandest panoramas spread out before range on the one hand and the Coast step apart yet containing the wealth valley-one could not while feasting on the scene, resist a feeling of buoyancy and pleasurable pride in the delightful prospect.

Not only has nature been prolific in its gifts to be viewed and enjoyed at Mt. Angel, but the handiwork of skillful and industrious men has added much of beauty and value of the surroundings. The forests have been cleared away, only to give place to fertile fields, wherein the cereal and and the vine, the fruit tree and the fragrant flower are found in abundance and in happily arranged variety. The lower slopes of the mount upon which the Benedictine Fathers have established themselves are covered with several buildings, the temporary college being there besides the workshops and the various industrial departments connected therewith, also the stables, granaries and other out buildings needed for the agricultural pursuits. But it is on the summit of the mount that the great important work of the religious community is in progress, the work which is much more vast than can be conceived by those who have not fully learned of its magnitude; the erection of a monastery, seminary and college combined, which will be when completed the largest educational structure in Oregon or on the upper Pacific coast. The great event of yesterday was monument of learning, an event in which the new archbishop made his first really public appearance in the The crest of the mountain around the new monastery was alive with people, who witnessed the impressive services with deep interest, which was mingled with intense pleasure upon listening to the strong and eloquent address of the new prelate, who spoke of the great importance of education, especially of the right kind of educators, giving unstinted praise to the Benedictine Fathers for their untiring unselfish zeal and industry, and their deserved success in the noble work in which they are engaged.

It was the universal opinion of his hearers, Catholic and non-Catholic, that Archbishop Christie is one of the ablest and most pleasing speakers who has ever been heard in Oregon. A great many persons recognize in his contour of face, his kindly expression and his manner of speech, a wonderful resemblance to President McKinley, while still others claim he has a striking likeness to Bryan, but the closest observers claim it is a happy mixture of the strong points of both. physical manhood, a polished gentleman, a pleasing orator, a logical reasoner and a candid, zealous clergyman.

The northwest wing of the monastery 200x44 feet, at the southern corner of which the stone was set, will be under roof in a few months and will be finished inside during next winter. Then one of the large annexes will be added next summer so that by the vacation of 1900 the monastery and schools will be moved to the quarters. But when the whole building is completed, it will cover three acres of ground and will be five stories nigh.

The afternoon was occupied with the closing exercises of the college, which were witnessed and enjoyed by an andience which taxed the ingenuity of the Brotherhood to accommodate. The program presented was exceedingly fine. The boys realized that they were to be surrounded by many strangers, priests and laymen, that they would have competent critics and that something above the ordinary was expected. They met the emergency and met it with credit to themselves and to the

The college orchestra which is one of the best in Oregon, discoursed appropriate music throughout and the exercises were as a whole far superior to those usually presented by the best colleges of the country. The program contained so many participants and all acquitted themselves so well that individual mention is not possible. The four-act drams, which formed part of the amusement, was made up from events of the civil war and was not only a fine exhibition of dramatic talent, but was brimful of fire and pat- Bears the Several gold medals were given to the boys for excellence in studies, good conduct, etc., and Archbishop Christie gave them the hearty assurance that the education of the boys and young men would be the subject of greatest interest to him and they could rely upon him as the fatherly friend of all movements and institutions with that end in view. Thus closed a day fraught with genuine pleasure to all visitors.

There was a large number of priests present from all parts of the state, including Revs. Daly, of this city; Lainck, of Sublimity; Lane, of St. Louis, Daum, of Gervais, and Faber, of St. Paul, all of this county. > FREE OF COST .- I'rof. F. L. Washburn, professor of Biology, of the University of Cregon, has been successful in securing, free of charge, a quantity of Eastern oysters, to be planted in the waters of the Oregon coast. The question of the cost of transportation being the next matter to be considered Prof. Washburn a few days ago requested Gov. T. T. Gerr to secure for him the lowest possible rates from the Wells-Fargo Express Co., and the governor promptly dispatched a letter to J. J. Valentine, general manager of that company, caking a low rate for the oysters. Yesterday Gov. Ger recoived a telegram from Manager Valentine, offering free transportation, and requesting instructions as to where and when to receive them, the quantity, etc. The cysters will thus arrive in Oregon free of cost to the state.

The state board of agriculture met in called session in room No. 3, on the ground floor of the capitol yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of making arrangements for the 1999 exposition, which will be held at the fair grounds from September 15th to 52d inclusive. All the members of the board were present, as were Secretary C. D. Gabrielson, and Supt. W. H. Savage, when President W. 11. Wehrung, of Hillsboro called the board to order. The matter of arranging for the payment of the outstanding warrants of the old board was discussed, and the information, that the attorney general had found the deed to the fair grounds, given by the board to the state, satisfactory, and had advised the juyment of the $7000 appropriation to take up the old debt of the board, pleased the members very much. The only difficulty confronting the board having thus been settled, the work of arranging the details for the fair was commenced.

The afternoon and evening sessions were devoted to the work of selecting officers and employes for the fair as TO-NIGHT follows upon the state paying the outstanding warrants of the board of agriculture, was yesterday accepted. This was done by Secretary of State Dunbar, upon the written opinion of Attorney. General Blackburn, and the secretary announced that, as soon as the preliminary arrangements could be made, the outstanding warrants of the state fair board would be paid, which, it is expected, will be done by next week. Following is the text of the opinion of the attorney-general: "In the matter of the state fair grounds land, it now appears from the sbstract, taken in connection with a copy of the constitution of the Oregon state agricultural society, which is attached to said abstract, that the meeting of the stockholderr of said society, which authorized the transfer of the land, was held at the place specified and the time provided for, in said constitution, and it is my opinion that the deed of said society to the state heard of agriculture, authorized at the meet. ing held pursuant to the provisions of the constitution, conveys to the state board of agriculture, the title of said society.

"General Odell, formerty surveyorgeneral for Oregon, says the description of the 525 acre tract is sufficient to convey the title to the land intended to be conveyed, and, this being true it is my opinion that you will be safe in paying the warrants of the state board of agriculture to the extent of $7,000, appropriated for that purpose. I am of the opinon that defects, prior to the deed herein first referred to, are cured by the statute of limitations and curatice acts, and that the deed tendered conveys title to the state."
