WEEKLY OREGON STATESMAN, FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1900.

Is Sincerely Regretted by the British Press -His Work on the Tugela Receives Warm Praise.

LONDON, March 29,-(Thursday, 4:30 a. m.)-Lord Roberts has sent 10,-000 troops to Glen, ten miles north of Bloemfontein on the stailway. This is preliminary to the general advance.

formense quantities stores etc. Immense quantities of stores have now been accumulated at Bloemfontein. and Lord Roberts' infantry is seemingly about to move. An impression, which can be traced to the war office, is abroad that the advance will begin next Monday. The Boer observation parties are hovering near Bloemionicin but Lord Roberts has 135 miles to cover before reaching the great position. which the Boers are preparing at Kroonstadt. Moving ten miles a day is probably the best he can do with the held transports. Therefore, he can hardly engage the Boers in force for two weeks. The reconstruction of the railway behind him may delay the envasion of the Transvaal until May, Meanwhile all important towns in the Free State, within Lord Roberts' reach are being garrisoned.

Sir Alfred Milner is touring in the disturbed newly acquired territory, investigating the conditions and arrang-ing the administration. He is understood to be getting material for a report to Joseph Chamberlain, concerning the plan for a civil government.

All morning papers print singularly kind editorials concerning General Joubert, whose death is reported from Pretoria. They praise his military success, uphold his chivalrous conduct, and regret that so strong and moderate a mind should be absent from the final settlement of the dispute. Although some of the younger commanders thought the old soldier wanting in dash and enterprise, fils raid into the country south of the Tugela is consid-ered the best piece of Boer leadership during the whole war. It is now known that he crossed the Tugela with only appendent of both only 3000 riflemen and six guns, but so bold and rapid were his movements that the British commanders thought 10,000 Boers were marching on Pietermaritzburg

Neatness is one of the most attract-ive of feminine qualifications to a man. It is also one of the rarest.

Early and persistent must be the four miles to Boulder Creek, where the ble to drift into careless habits which she never outgrows.

One girl may have a trick of leaving shoes about her room. As a mere tot she was permitted to do this and as she grew older the untidy custom was never abandoned, for the simple reason that she herself did not notice anything unusual about it and probably nobody else iclt at liberty to correct her.

Another young woman, particular to primness in other directions, has a slovenly habit of leaving combings in her hair comb, and this brings me to a little story which accentuates the necessity of constant vigilance on a woman's part unless she would be judged unworthy of her birthright-daintiness. The story was a young bride's reminiscence of her honeymoon.

It proves that no matter how slack a girl may be in toilet habits, matri mony is the calcium light which shows them up in all their garishness and many a pang of mortification she must endure in consequence.

Then one morning I iound Hal standing before my dressing table looking down disgustedly at the comb lying there.

"What was the matter?" Here two cheeks blushed like scarlet geraniums. Well, I had left it full of combings. a habit I may frankly admit I had al ways been guilty of. This time it got me into a pickle. Hal held that comb out at arm's length, the untidy mat of hair clinging to it, and I will say harried to make his voice nice and lamblike, but I saw by the line of his lips and the flash of his eye that he was thoroughly put out. "'Elizabeth,' said he, 'is this your comb?' just as if he didn't know it was April. The shur-down is said to be the very comb he had given me my last necessary on account of the great birthday.

"I meekly answered 'Yes.' "'Then,' said he, 'I would try,

CHANGE IN TRAIN TIME.

Albany Local to Begin Running on April 16th-Evening California Express Runs Late,

(From Daily, March 29th.) The change in the time of the pas-senger trains on the Southern Pacific, which has been talked for for some linic, is now about to be realized, and the new schedule has been definitely decided upon. The following from yeserday's Oregonian shows the changes to be made in the trains now running, in addition to the Albany Jocal, a new train which will run between Albany

"The new time card on which the Southern Pacific has been figuring for some time past, will take effect April 16th, and in addition to the time of the old trains being much more satisfactory to the traveling public, an additional train will be put on between Albany and Portland, instead of between Salem and Portland, as was talked of some time since. The new trains will be Nos. 13 and 14. No. 14 will leave Albany at 7 a. m., Salem at 7:54, arriving in Port-and at 10:10. No. 13 will leave Portland at 4 p. m., reach Salem at 6:15. and Albany at 7:10.

"No. 11 (southbound morning express) will continue to leave Portland 1'8: to a. in., passing S. Albany at 12:10 p. m. No. 15 southbound California express) will be changed from 7 p. m., as at present, to 8:30 in the evening, making close conpection with the Northern Pacific train from Puget Sound points. "No. 16 (Oregon express) will arrive at 7:45 a. m., instead of 9:15 as at present, and the dining car will be stopped at Roseburg, as the early hour will make t unnecessary to perform the additional service of hauling the 200 miles between Roseburg and Portland. "A change in time on the Yamhill division has also been decided upon. Train No. 6, which now leaves Portland at 4130 p. m., will leave at 5 p. m.; will reach Dallas at 8:25, making close connection with the motor reaching Independence at 9:10 if the evening. This change is made for the purpose of providing a connection at Whiteson function with the West Side train leaving Portland at 5:50 p. m., enabling passengers from points between Portland and Whiteson, both on the Yamhill division and West Side, to reach either Dallas, Independence or Sheridan, as the case may be, through connection which will now be made at

HOW TO APPLY MANURE.

In Stockman and Farmer of February, 8, A. S. B. wants to know how and when to apply manure to get the most out of it. The writer has applied manure direct to the potato crop with good results, even spreading it in the drill before planting the potatoes, but in applying it in this way there is dangen of producing scab or rot in the po tato. If A. S. B.'s soil is fertile enoug! to produce a good stand of clover when sown with oats I would prefer to spread manure on clover after oats is removed This will give a strong, vigerous growth of clover which should be left on the ground to protect the clover plant in winter and add humas to the soil. The H. clover plant treated in this way the first and will penetrate the soil to a greaterson which can be cut for hay or first for hay and second crop left on the ground to be plowed down for potatoes the following season, but this I do not believe is economy. Better cut and cure for hay, feed it to the cows and turn it into milk and butter, save all the manure, apply it to next season's clover, crop and in this way get the cash value and fertilizing value as well. I believe, spread on clover in A.S.B.'s short rotation of crops-potatoes, oats and close ver-will give as good returns as if applied directly to either of the crops. It will increase the amount of hay pro-Persia has the most famous turquoise duced, which in turn will increase the roots, and, driving them down deeper into the soil, will produce greater mechanical action on the soil, thus putting it in the best possible shape for the potato crop which is to follow. If soil is not rich enough to secure a good stand of clover when sown with oats I would use commercial fertilizer so as to sccure it, and it may be found profitable to experiment with commercial fertilizers on the potato crop .- Josiah Gibson in Stockman and iarmer.
