HEAVY RAINS

Encountered by Moving Troops in South Africa.

SIEGE OF WEPENER CONTINUES

Reasons Given for the Publication of the Dispatches Censuring Buller—Captured by the Enemy.

LONDON, April 21.—(Saturday, 4:20 a. m.)—General Cheermside and General Rundle are moving over sodden roads. Rain was still falling when they went into camp Thursday afternoon, thirteen miles West of Dewetsdorp. They hold the railway and the southern frontier of the Free State with 20,000 men. How many are going with the generals, who will engage the Boers at Wepener, is not mentioned in the latest dispatch from Oorlongsport, where the British bivouacked Wednesday night. The field telegraph ends there. On Thursday the Boers still had Colonel Dalgetty closely penned up.

The Government's reason for publishing Lord Roberts' Spion Kop dispatches was explained last evening at the Hull, by Walter Hume Long, president of the Board of Agriculture, who said that the country was entitled to receive all the information Government could give.

"The Government is cold," continued Long, "that, having published the dispatches, it is bound to deal immediately with the generals affected, but, in following such a course, the Government might have to dismiss every general the moment he made a mistake. Had such a policy been pursued in the past many most glorious deeds would not have been performed.

"From the beginning of the campaign Her Majesty's ministers have not swerved from the rule of leaving the conduct of the operations to the discretion and judgment of the commander-in-chief.

CAPTURED BY BOERS.

Aliwal North, April 20.—Captain Little, of Brabants' Horse, Lieutenant Holbrek and Mr. Milne, a Reuter correspondent, fell into the hands of the enemy while trying to reach Wepener a week ago. Everything was taken from the prisoners, who were sent to Pretoria. They native servants, who escaped from the Boer laager near Wepener, say, that there were four guns disabled, and the Boers had lost 100 in killed alone. It is also ascertained that the Boers made a night attack April 11th, but were discovered by the Cape Mounted Rifles with Maxims, who fired into them, with the result that the Boers lost five wagon loads of killed and wounded. A simultaneous attack in other quarters was repulsed bythe British, who used their bayonets.

TO SUCCEED JOUBERT.

Pretoria, April 20.—Major General Schalkburger has been gazetted vice-president, (in succession to the late General Joubert), and General Louis Botha has been gazetted active commandant general succeeding General Joubert in command of the Transvaal.

THE KENTUCKY TROUBLE.

POLITICAL CIRCLES ARE MUCH DISTURBED.

By the Reported Indictment of Governor Taylor for the Murder of Wm. Goebel.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 20.—Political circles were much disturbed this afternoon over the conflicting rumors regarding the grand jury's action in the Goebel murder case, and it was generally reported that, despite denials, an indictment had been returned against Governor Taylor.

THE PRINCE RETURNS.

Heir Apparent Receives an Ovation Upon Arriving at Home.

London, April 20.—The Prince of Wales arrived at Dover, this evening, on his return from his visit to Copenhagen. The return of the Prince was made the occasion for spontaneous demonstrations of enthusiasm by the thousands of persons who thronged the station, to show their gladness at the heir apparent's escape from death.

GREAT LOSS BY FIRE.

Grand Forks, N. Dak., April 20.—The business portion of Edinburg, in the Northern part of Walsh county, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. Loss, $400,000; insurance, $100,000. Mrs. Lindahl and Mrs. J. B. Orson, perished in the flames.

THE FISH TRUST.

Seattle, April 20.—The proposed consolidation of the fish canneries of the Northwest is said to have finally fallen through.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

New York, April 20.—The New York state Democratic convention has been called to meet in this city, June 5th.

BOTH FOR M'KINLEY.

Nashville, Tenn., April 20.—Tennessee will have two Republican tickets in the field, this coming state election. Likewise, two sets of delegates will go to the National Convention at Philadelphia. The state convention split here today, the Evans contingent walking out and holding a convention of their own. W. F. Poston, of Crockett county, is its guebernational selection, while John E. McCall is at the head of the state ticket named by the convention over which Congressman Brownlow presided. Pension Commissioner Evans will lead one of the delegations to the National Convention, while the other will be directed by Congressman Brownlow. Both delegations are instructed for McKinley.

MARKETS DEMORALIZED.

New York, April 20.—R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

The formal reduction of $5 per ton in the price of plates and bars, and the closing of the mills by the American Steel & Wire Company, have filled the week with surprises. In the stock market and in the market for steel and iron products, the changes have begun and the end cannot well be foreseen. Apart from the disturbances in speculation there has been produced a measure of distrust regarding the prices that are maintained by the great combinations, which may for the present tend to deter buying.

The failures for the week were 184 in the United States, and seventeen in Canada against twenty-two last year.

WILL PAY FINE.

Steamer Milos to Pay for Violating Navigation Laws.

Victoria, B. C., April 20.—The tramp steamship Milos, which arrived Wednesday with 900 Japanese immigrants for the United States, will tomorrow be required to pay the maximum penalty for carrying more passengers than allowed by law.

Thang Far Wong, the latest Chinese arrested, confesses that he helped bury the body of Chief of Police Main, of Steveston, but says his two companions committed the murder, and then forced him to assist in the burial.

A DANGEROUS MAN.

Gov. J. R. Rogers Has a Visitor Who Appears to Be Insane.

Olympia, Wash., April 20.—Considerable excitement was caused around the state building today, by the appearance in the Governor's office, of a man who demanded redress from Gov. John R. Rogers, for a long list of personal wrongs which, he claimed, had been inflicted upon him by Seattle capitalists. The man was placed under arrest and found to be armed with a pistol. He gave the name of John L. Blyles, and stated he had just arrived from Seattle.

BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Bay City, Mich., April 20.—The packing house of the Ajax Dynamite Works, near the village of Kawkawlin, was blown up this afternoon, killing three men. The dead are: William Weaver, Edward Halligan, William Van Vlassor. All left young wives and children. Their bodies were torn to shreds, only enough being found to fill a bushel basket.

LIFE OF HOP-POLES.

All hop-growers realize the time, labor and money expended in frequent renewing of poles. The wish is frequently expressed that some preparation could be discovered to save this triple expenditure. Such a discovery has been made in Carbolineum Avenarius.

This is an oily compound for the preservation of wood. It can be easily applied to green or dry wood and will preserve either, without detrioration, for an indefinite period. Discovered in Germany over 25 years ago, it is successfully used today all over the world for railroad sleepers, pavements, bridges, ship timbers and hundreds of other purposes. Absolutely effectual in preserving material under such severe usage as this, its protective value for hop-poles, exposed simply to air and soil, can be readily perceived. A single treatment will insure them against decay, dry rot and vermin (the latter injurious to vine and pole alike) for ten years and render sharpening unnecessary for at least five. This can be safely guaranteed from successful results obtained in treating telegraph poles, in varying climates, subjected to almost identical exposure. In these cases Carbolineum Avenarius has always stood the test.

When such facts as these are presented to the hop grower, arguments in favor of using the preventive would seem little needed. Additionally, the cost of the article is light and it can be cheaply applied by any person. This is dkone with the brush, or, better still, by dipping the poles into the liquid. Purchasers should notice carefully that the full name "Carolineum Avenarius" appears on the package, as spurious imitations are offered by unscrupulous persons under the name Carbolineum and other similar titles, calculated to deceive the unwary. These are as worthless as the genuine article is valuable. For further information apply to R. M. Wade & Co., Salem, Or.

Some people, even in high quarters, it is said, have an objection to 13 at dinner. Dr. Kitchener happened to be one of the company of that number, at Dr. Henderson's, and on its being remarked that pronounced unlucky, he said, "I admit that it is unlucky in one case."

"What is that?"

"When there is only dinner enough for twelve."

ARMOR PLATE

Fight Over the Bill in the House of Representives.

LIMIT OF COST IS REPEALED

The Best Armor Possible to Be Provided for Three New Battleships—The Nicaragua Canal.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—As the result of the protracted struggle in the House today, the provisions of the naval appropriation bill, to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to contract for armor for the battleships Maine, Ohio and Missouri, now awaiting their armor equipment at $545 per ton, the price asked for Krupp armor, is out of the bill, as is the provision to repeal the $300 limitation placed upon the price of armor by the current law. The fight came at the end of the consideration of the bill. Although the provision was obnoxious to the rule, all the minority members of the committee had agreed to it, but today, when the majority declined to allow a discussion of the appropriation for the establishment of an armor plate factory, they retaliated by raising a point of order against the two provisions above referred to, and they were ruled out. The exact effect of the action of the house today is disputed.

The appropriation of $4,000,000, under the head of "armor and armament" remains in the bill, as well as the language of the proviso authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to contract for armor of the best quality for the Maine, Ohio and Missouri, the words stricken out being "at a cost not to exceed $545 per ton, including royalties."

It is contended by some that this empowers the Secretary to contract for armor plate without regard to cost. By others it is claimed that the provision will be ineffective unless the Senate inserts the price. So much bad feeling was aroused by the wrangle over the armor plate provision, that Underwood, Democrat of Alabama, began to filibuster after the bill was reported to the House and finally forced adjournment without final action on the bill. Two amendments to modify the provision for an increase of the navy, which authorizes two battleships and six cruisers, were defeated. One proposed to add a provision for six gunboats, and the other to strike out the provision for battleships.

THE NICARAGUA BILL.

Washington, April 20.—After the announcement that the Nicaragua Canal bill would be taken up in the House May 1st, in an amended form, Hepburn stated the passage of the bill is unquestionable.

The main dissent to the change in the bill came from Adamson, of Georgia, who desired to have the words "fortify" and "defend" retained, as against any doubtful or compromising phrase. Barham, upon whose motion in the committee the changes were effected, said:

"The changes are designed to overcome the objections which have been raised, and I have reason to believe they will accomplish that end and make the bill generally acceptable. The words 'fortified' and 'defend' appeared to invite a cantroversy and diplomatic complications, and in view of the action of the administration in negotiating the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, it appeared entirely needless to raise a diplomatic issue with England simply on the use of words. In the amended form ample authority is given to police and protect the canal against destruction by evil-doers, and by the time the canal is completed, six or eight years hence, there will be full opportunity to determine whether it should be permanently protected by fortifications or by our navy."

MORE AID REQUIRED.

To Handle Japanese Immigrants at Port Townsend.

Washington, April 20.—Assistant Secretary Taylor, of the Treasury Department, has wired the immigration inspector at Port Townsend authority to employ three emergency assistants to aid in handling the Japanese immigrants. One thousand arrived yesterday, and 2200 are expected tomorrow.

CANNED ROAST BEEF.

WILL BE SENT TO THE ARMY IN LUZON.

Fresh Meats Can Not Be Furnished the Troops in the Isolated Inland Stations.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The war department officials have been compelled to resort to the use of canned roast beef, for the subsistence of the army in the Philippines. This is due to the fact, that it is absolutely essential that the soldiers shall be served with fresh meat, and because of the impossibility of providing refrigerator beef or cattle on hoof, under existing conditions, the troops being scattered among 160 points, in various parts of the archipelago, at a considerable distance from the nearest shipping point. There are no cattle available, and the refrigerated beef, which has heretofore formed the principal basis of subsistnce for the troops, cannot be preserved in good condition long enough to reach many of the interior posts.

THE LEGEND OF THE TULIP.

Here is a quaint tulip legend current among the country people in the South of England:

An old woman in Devonshire lived in a cottage surrounded by a very pretty garden, the most beautiful part of which was a bed of tulips, upon which she lavished the most faithful care and attention, so that it bloomed in rare beauty. The pixies in the neighborhood delighted in this spot, for nowhere else could such perfect tulips be found, nowhere else did they retain their perfection so long, and never one would the old woman allow to be cut, so the pixies had time to know and love each flower. At night when all the boys and girls were snug in their beds, these pixies would bring their elfin babies to the tulip bed and sing them to sleep, and the still night would be filled with the sweetest music. A chance passerby might think the tulips themselves were making these melodies as he saw them nodding their heads and swaying backward and forward in rhythmic time, but the old woman knew it was the pixies, crooning lullabies to their little ones.

When the elfin babies were sound asleep in the beautiful tulips the pixies would hurry off to the neighboring fields and there have such merry, gamboling dances that even human eyes could trace in the morning where they had danced by the green rings that their light feet had made as they twinkled round and round.

At the first sign of dawn the gamboling pixies would hasten back to their babies, and a keen ear could hear them caressing and kissing them.

But one day the old woman died and when her heir took possession of the place he did away with the beautiful flower garden, for where was the use in allowing so much ground to be occupied by such no account things as flowers? He would put something there that would be of some use. The poor flowers were dug up and cast in a heap, where they soon withered and died, and garden truck took their places. Where the gay tulips had flaunted in joyousness, humble, sober parsley would not thrive, neither would any of the other garden plants. The neighbors told the young man that it was because the pixies were angry at the destruction of their playground, and that every night they came and cast a chilling blight over the ground, so that by morning all was withered.

But how different was the grave in which lay the old woman. Although no mortal hand tended it, no rank weed was ever seen there; the grass was ever fresh, and flowers sprang up without sowing or planting. Curious persons wishing to know if any one stole out there unawares to tend the grave, and thus fool people into thinking it was enchanted ground, would, while hiding behind the hillocks of the dead, hear the sweetest dirges ever sung. It was the pixies, who, on the way to their high solemnity of dancing and singing before the queen of the night, stopped to sing a requiem over the grave of their old friend.—Rover.

ORCHARD LANDS OF LONG AGO.

The orchard lands of long ago!
Oh, drowsy winds, awake and blow
The snowy blossoms back to me
And all the buds that used to be!
Blow back again the grassy ways;
Oh, truant feet, and lift the haze.
Of happy summer from the trees
That trail their tresses in the seas
Of grain that float and overflow
The orchard lands of long ago!
Blow back the melody that slips
In lazy laughter from the lips
That marvel much that any kiss
Is sweeter than the apple is.
Blow back the twitter of the birds;
The lisps, the thrills and the words
Of merriment that found the shine
Of summertime a glorious wine
That drenched the leaves that loved it so
In orchard lands of long ago.
Oh, memory, alight and sing
Where round the rosy pippins cling
And golden russets glint and gleam
As in the old Arabian dream—
The fruits of that enchanted tree
The glad Aladdin robbed for me!
And drowsy winds, awake and fan
My blood as when it overran
A heart ripe as the apples grow
In orchard lands of long ago.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

DAIRY NOTES.

Do not feed the dairy calf with fat-forming materials.

A cow that is heated or worried will not give her milk freely.

The utilization of all the side issues of the dairy will help to make the work profitable.

Butter, to keep well, must have nearly or quite all the buttermilk washed or worked out of it.

If all milk for calves were pasteurized it is probable that tuberculosis among cattle would soon very largely disappear.

Frequent and thorough stirring of the cream while ripening will prevent the white specks so frequently seen in butter.

Milk is much more sensitive in receiving and tenacious in holding impurities than water, and hence, care must be taken to keep pure from the start.

The cash returns from products are immediate. The money comes in each week or month, instead of once a year, and in the meantime the cows are constantly adding more fertility to the farm than they take from it.

A contented spirit is the sweetness of existence.—Dickens.

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. IT IS SIGNIFICANT

RUMOR OF CHANGE OF LOCATION OF ELECTRIC PLANT.

Salem Flouring Mills Company May Not Rebuild Its Salem Plant—Some Reasons Given.

(From Daily Statesman, April 21.)

There is considerable significance attached to the institution at this time of a suit by the London & San Francisco Bank, Limited, against the Salem Consolidated Street Railway Company et al., of this city, to recover a balance of approximately $75,000 with accrued interest and $7500 attorneys' fees, on a note that was given May 11, 1893, and payable six months after date.

The suit may terminate in the removal of the electric light plant from its present quarters on High street to the brick mills on North Front street. Another result may be the conclusion on the part of the managers of the Salem Flouring Mills Company not to replace its plant in Salem, during this season anyway. The relation of these two institutions may seem distant and disconnected, but the reason for associating the two companies in this connection will be quite apparent when the reader shall have concluded a perusal of this article.

It is a well known fact that the Salem Light & Traction Company has for a number of years not been a paying investment and the filing of this suit is interpreted to be the preliminary step looking to a change in the management and the place of operations in this city. It is currently rumored that the owners of the brick mills on North Front street are either interested in the pending suit or an arrangement has been made with them to the effect that, when the mortgagees come into possession of the property, the entire plant will be transferred to that property. One of the conditions that has been adverse to the successful financial management of the plant has been the problem of furnishing the requisite motive power for its operation. Wood has been used for fuel at a cost of approximately $15,000 per annum. By moving the plant into the Front street property, splendid water power would be available and this expense of $15,000 every year could be dispensed with. However, this rumor is largely conjectural, but the further operation of the plant will require a very careful management to make the institution a paying one.

There is also a rumor current to the effect that the Salem Flouring Mills Company will not rebuild its milling plant in this city during this season. Inquiry at the company's office in this city and also of the company's stockholders residing in Salem, failed to either confirm or disprove the rumor for the reason that the gentlemen interviewed were unable to give out any information on the subject. It is to be sincerely trusted, however, that the rumor is without foundation. The great field and unquestioned need for a flouring mill in Salem, the metropolis of a large agricultural district, is too apparent to require a further exposition of the case.

Had the stockholders of the company residing in Salem anything to say in this connection, the mill would have been rebuilt long ago, but unfortunately they are handicapped in that they do not own a controlling interest of the stock. Without mentioning any names, the controlling interest of the corporation is owned by the president of the company, a resident of Portland. While the Salem stockholders are free to offer suggestions, they are powerless to carry them into execution. The president of the Salem milling company, is sole owner of a large mill at Oregon City, and it is reported that when the Salem mill was running, the owner of the Oregon City mill could not obtain sufficient quantities of wheat from throughout the valley to keep his individual mill in continuous operation. This circumstance, it is argued, will operate as a factor against rebuilding in the Capital City this summer.

With the prospects of such a splendid grain crop, it would appear every facility would be required to handle the yield. By all means the Salem flouring mills shoud be rebuilt and in ample time to handle this year's grain crop.

WILL HOLD A ROSE SHOW.

Such a Floral Exposition to Be Conducted by the Salem Floricultural Society About May 18th.

(From Daily Statesman, April 21.)

At an adjourned meeting of the Salem Floricultural Society, held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Brown, on State street, reports were received from a number of committees that were appointed at a previous meeting, and it was decided to hold a "Rose Show" about Friday, May 18th.

It has been a number of years since this society has held a "Rose Show," but the ladies were eminently successful in the management of those affairs in past years; in fact, the society has about $175 on hand, representing the proceeds of the fairs. It is the intention of the ladies to add to this amount the proceeds from this year's show and expend the entire sum in the erection of a public drinking fountain of an ornamental character.

The ladies propose to engage a spacious tent, which will be erected on Willson avenue and in which the fair will be conducted. In this connection the society will arrange for a bicycle procession of some kind, and may offer prizes for the best decorated wheels.

The prospects for many roses this year are good. The recent severe frosts and cold, chilling rains have not killed these beautiful representatives of the flower kingdom nor has their growth been retarded. The gardener at the state house reports the roses as further advanced than usual at this season of the year. The early roses will be imperfect by reason of mildew, but a large and beautiful assortment of later varieties is expected.

MANY STUMBLING BLOCKS.

Congressman Tongue's Efforts on Behalf of the Indian War Veterans of This State.

T. O. Wood, of Portland, president of the Indian War Veterans of Oregon, is in receipt of a letter from Congressman Thomas H. Tongue, showing the difficulties in the way of securing the passage of the relief legislation through congress, in the interest of the veterans. Following is the letter, which is self-explanatory:

"Washington, D. C., April 8.—T. A. Wood, Esq.—My Dear Sir: Yours of the 2d inst. just received. You cannot be any more anxious about this pension bill than I. It is the one thing that is constantly before me, and constantly on my mind.

"Now we have run against another difficulty, which I am trying to avoid. There are 40 different propositions before Congress to amend the pension laws and grant different kinds of pensions to different kinds of people. None of them have been allowed to come to a vote for the present. There is grave fear that if this bill should come before the House it would be made the vehicle for all kinds of amendments, probably swamped by them, and be killed by them. This reason was only given to me within the last two or three days, when I was persistent for some action.

"I am going, however, to see the Speaker, and if I get it reported I am pretty sure that it will be on the condition that I get the signatures of a majority of the members of Congress that if the bill comes to a vote they will not propose any amendments including other wars. I am going to do the very best I can in this matter. I think this has been one of the reasons for keeping it back before, but they declined to say anything about it. Truly and sincerely yours. THOS. H. TONGUE."

DIED.

JACKSON.—At his home in this city, corner of Mill and Broadway streets, North Salem, at 4:45 p. m. Sunday, April 22, 1900, J. C. Jackson, aged 65 years.

The deceased was the well-known colored man of North Salem. Though not a native of Oregon, Mr. Jackson was for many years a resident of this state. He lived in Salem for about ten years, during a part of which time he was employed as cook at the Indian Training school at Chemawa and the State Reform school.

He went to Baker City last fall where he worked for several months as cook. In February he was taken sick and after spending five weeks in the Baker City hospital was sent back to his family in this city, reaching Salem about four weeks ago. Salem physicians were unable to satisfactorily diagnose his case and no one was able to ascertain the true nature of his ailment.

Besides a son and daughter, residing in Portland, the deceased is survived by a wife and three children, the latter aged two, four, and nine years, in this city.
