SELF Reliance

is necessary to success. Students of Armstrong's Combined Theory and Practice of Bookkeeping

learn to rely on themselves. In a complicated transaction, a previous entry is referred to in which the same principle is involved. The application must be studied out by the student. This is precisely what must be done in business. Investigate this method. Call at the college, or write for illustrated catalogue.

BROKE UP THE LOVE MATCH.

Telltale Spots on a Young Woman's Ears Indicated Leprous Taint.

A young man of Bryn Mawr went to the South seas for his health two years ago and returned last week much benefited. He tells a sad story about the daughter of a native king whom he met on one of the smaller and more remote of the Hawaiian islands. She was a beautiful girl, and it was his greatest pleasure to be with her, fishing and bathing, and to sit beside her in the council house listening to the songs of the king's poets. It is not unusual for a white man to marry a Hawaiian, and the youth from Bryn Mawr, without prospects, almost penniless and with health that was always wretched in the uncertain climate of his home, thought sometimes that it would be wise and pleasant to marry the Hawaiian princess and to live on her quiet and beautiful island for the rest of his days.

But suddenly the princess became sad, heart-broken. She went out no more. She sat alone and wept day and night. The young man could find out from no one what troubled her, for all whom he questioned pretended not to know. One day he met the princess by chance on the beach alone and he asked her what had filled her life with sorrow. She pointed, with a strange gesture, to a tiny brown spot, like a mole, on the lobe of each of her ears, and she ran her finger over her brows, which, he now saw, were thinned. Then she fled from the mystified youth and he never saw her again. A year later on another island he heard a physician say that the absence of eyebrows, together with the brown spots on the lobes of the ears, indicated the beginning of leprosy.

MORE HORSES FOR ENGLAND.

Some time ago the British government stopped shipping horses from New Orleans to South Africa, and it was stated that no more would be purchased in this country now for service in South Africa.

But the other night a shipment of 350 selected horses arrived from Texas, and it is now learned that others have been purchased sufficient to make up two full cargoes, in all some 2000. These animals are to be used for police mounts in the Transvaal and Orange Free State.

It is understood among stockmen that England will soon begin shipping horses and mules to China from New Orleans.

ABE'S OPINION.

Long and earnestly they had argued in the grocery about the way in which the world would be destroyed, says the Indianapolis Sun. For four long weary hours these residents of Sawville had set forth their theories.

And finally they had asked the opinion of old Abe Hartley, who, among them all, had alone remained silent.

Taking his pipe from his lips for one brief moment, he answered:

"It will probably be talked to death."

Without a word the debaters led the way to the cider barrel, Abe bringing up the rear.
