PASSED TO HER REST. LITTLE HELEN SEATTA, DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. E. M. CROISAN.

Relieved from Earthly Sufferings Yesterday—The Funeral Will Be Tomorrow Afternoon. (From Daily Statesman, Sept. 22.) The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Croisan was filled with gloom by the death of their little daughter, Helen Seatta, aged one year and four months at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Her short life showed her to possess a sweet and most lovable disposition, bright and cheerful while enjoying health and patient and enduring in sickness. These qualities so endeared her to her parents that the loss to them is a terrible blow.

Everything that could be done to alleviate the pain of the little sufferer was done by the fond and anxious parents. But the best of medical attention, and the services of two of the best nurses, were of no avail in saving the little one's life.

And melancholy is the nurse of frenzy.—Taming of the Shrew. FREE TO LADIES. My MONTHLY REGULATOR is the only one that is harmless and reliable. See FREE. HES. R. ROWAN, 225 Milwaukee, Wis.

MEMBERS OF THE BAR

SORROW OVER THE DEWISE OF THE LATE JUDGE SHATTUCK. Resolutions of Respect Passed by the State Bar Association, Adopted by the Supreme Court.

(From Daily Statesman, Sept. 22.) The State Bar Association recently adopted resolutions commemorative of the virtues of the late Judge E. D. Shattuck, of the state circuit court for Multnomah county, as a man, and his splendid ability as a jurist.

Erastus D. Shattuck, for forty-seven years a sterling character in Oregon history, died, on the twenty-fifth day of July, 1900, to the deep regret of the community and the bar of the state, and his professional brethren place on record this public tribute to his worth.

As a friend, he was warm-hearted, loyal and sincere, ever considerate of the interests and feelings of others, ever ready to extend sympathetic counsel and assistance wherever asked, and guided by the precepts of the Golden Rule in his intercourse with his fellow-men.

As a citizen he was scholarly and erudite, of unimpeachable integrity, faithful to every duty laid upon him, wise in the counsel of the state, a strong factor in the organization of its government and a vigilant conservator of the principles upon which the commonwealth upbuilded.

As a lawyer he honored and enabled his profession; he was learned in the law and attentive to the interests of his clients; he commanded the unbounded confidence and respect of the bench; he was a helpful ally and an honorable opponent.

THE BRYAN SNEER AT HISTORY. Bryan is either fundamentally ignorant of his country's history or he is shamelessly trying to mislead public sentiment. He accuses the Republicans of being in the wrong and revolutionary in buying the inhabitants of the Philippines at so much per head, although there have in the past been five great national purchases of the same nature, chiefly under Democratic Presidents.

100,000 for the Gadsden territory. In 1847 President Johnson paid $7,200,000 for Alaska.

AN OCEAN GRAVEYARD. Spot Off the Coast of New Jersey That is Full of Peril. One of the most dangerous spots to the mariner on the Atlantic coast is Long Beach, on which many a stout ship has been wrecked, and at the north end of which stands Barnegat light, which for years has flashed out warning to the sailor folk not to venture too close to the treacherous shoals that extend seaward for miles and have always been a menace to the coastwise trade as well as the deep-water craft from over the sea.

Between the two lighthouses that mark the two extremes of this island beach there have been hundreds of vessels wrecked within the past fifty years, and the list grows with each succeeding year despite the improvements in vessel property and the most able seamanship. In an easterly gale, when the sand is flying so thick that the shore line cannot be seen one hundred yards away, the life-saving crews are always more alert than usual, as they feel sure that some unfortunate vessel will be on the beach before the storm abates.

At Harvey Cedars, a well-known fishing resort just above the life-saving station of that name, the current sets in strongly toward the shore and has not only wiced many a vessel to its last resting place on the sands, but has brought in many strange bits of wreckage, which tell their own story of disaster.
