en's trachea, forming in masses, which close the air passage and cause death. The worm, or parasite, is pointed at the single end, where the mouth is located. When it has reached maturity the parasite, which I have named Habita trachea, emerges from the nostrils of the fowl, drops to the ground, deposits its ova and dies. The fowls, by scratching in the soil, cause these eggs to float in the air; they are breathed into the trachea, and the cycle of generation begins anew.

THE LOCAL HOP MARKET. A Waiting Condition on Account of the Approaching Election—Transportation Inadequate.

(From Daily Statesman, Oct. 31.) There is a noticeable lack of activity in the hop business just now, evidently due to the waiting condition of both the British and Eastern markets on account of the approaching election. GIRL'S ESSAY ON BOYS.

At a recent school examination for girls this composition was handed in by a girl of 12, says a Missouri paper: "The boy is not an animal, yet he can be treated quite a distance. STOLE THE STATE'S CANNON.

One of the Big Guns Taken Away by the Hallowe'en Crews—Boys Badly Scared.

When daylight came yesterday morning, the effects of the appointment of special police officers to guard the city against the depredations of the "Hallowe'en hoodlums" were apparent, as the principal portion of the city was found to have been disturbed but very little, but further out the effects of the celebration on the part of the boys was noticeable.

One of the big brass cannon, mounted on the Capitol grounds, was removed during Wednesday night, and was found, yesterday morning, mounted in front of the Woman's College, the muzzle pointing on the city. This cannon was removed by a crowd of youngsters, who were later, it is said, chased into the basement of Willamette University, by the Capitol nightwatchmen, and as they are known, the authorities assert that, if the cannon is not returned in a reasonable length of time, some sensational arrests will be made.

On North Front street, a crowd of boys undertook to throw into the ditch the woodpile belonging to a family, the head of which is an invalid. They had scarce commenced their operations, when a shot was fired near by, and the boys, frightened half out of their wits, scattered in every direction. One of the boys was so badly scared that he jumped through the wire fence into the ditch, on Division street, and waded in four feet of water, from Front to Commercial streets, in his efforts to keep out of range of the dreaded gun. He had a good soaking, and the fun of Hallowe'en was spoiled for him.
