RUSH FOR HIGHER EDUCATION.

During and after all periods of prosperity the private schools and the colleges secure an increased membership, for the evident reason that people are better prepared to pay for the instruction of their children, says the Saturday Evening Post. That the figures have this year gone far beyond anything ever before known is, of course, largely accounted for by the increase in population; but, while allowing fully for all that, it is still true that the number has greatly exceeded any former proportion in the population statistics of the country. The great thing is that the rush for higher education was never so strong or so geueral as it is in the present day.

HOW FRENCH VOTERS CAST THEIR BALLOTS.

In France voting is by ballot, The persons who help in receiving and counting the vote are volunteers drawn from the ranks of the electors. Prior to the opening of the poll at each station the presiding officer unlocks the urn provided for the reception of the votes and satisfies those present that it is empty. He then locks it again, places the key in his pocket, and hands a duplicate to one of his helpers, who are termed assessors. The poll is open from 8 in the morning until 6 at night, and at the close the votes are counted on the spot by the volunteer helpers. The result is then forwarded to the central bureau,-London Mail.
