DECORATING THE ARM.

Bracelets and every device for decorating the arm are again seen. The heavy bangle being first in popular favor. The flat band of velvet is worn around the arm and is trimmed with mock jewels and other decorations. These velvet bands are becoming to the skin, and, once in style, quickly become favorite articles of arm dress. You see them beautifully embroidered with pearls, and again they are found a veritable armor of band, covered with steel scales of dazzling brilliancy. Jets, overlapping each other, cover other bands. Again you see a mass of tiny jet scales of all kinds, gold and silver, jet and steel, mingled in wild profusion, mixed and overlapping each other, just as all powers of separation. Just as all powers of separation, but such dainty little trifles are these, but much of the success of dress depends upon them.

Dr. Temple, archbishop of Canterbury, is an unwearied worker in the cause of temperance and is much disappointed that, in spite of all his efforts, parliament refuses to do anything toward restricting the drink traffic. The archbishop has prepared three bills on the subject and they will be presented at the coming session.

Mr. Bleecker—Oh, yes; Baxter lost all his money but not his friends. Miss Chambers—How was that? Mr. Bleecker—Well, he had the good sense to die at the same time. Judge.

THE FOREST RESERVE

WORK DONE BY THE THREE DIVISION SUPERVISORS.

W. H. H. Dufur, of the Northern District
Had an Arduous Summer's Work —Miles Traveled.

Sept. S. B. Ormsby, of the Cascade Forest Reserve yesterday gave out a tabulated statement of the work done by the supervisors of the three divisions of the Reserve, during the past season, beginning on June 15th, when they were ordered to begin operations on the Reserve, and ending with November 10th, the close of the season. The statement shows quite a difference in the number of miles traveled by each with which phase of the work it deals exclusively. The following statistics are taken from the statement:

Supervisor Nat Langell, of the Southern Division, traveled by team and wagon, 116 miles; with saddle and pack horse, 720; a total of 835 miles.

Supervisor Enos Dixon, of the Central Division, traveled by team and wagon 2005; with saddle and pack horse, 146; total 2151 miles.

Supervisor W. H. H. Dufur, of the Northern Division, traveled by team 40; saddle and pack horse, 1972; total, 2012.

The statement shows that Supervisor Dixon traveled nearly over his entire territory by team, this being made possible by the fact that all of the rangers under his charge were stationed on the three wagon roads crossing the Reserve, while the two others, especially Mr. Dufur, were compelled to use trails almost exclusively in their official visits to the forest rangers' stations.

Mr. Langell had charge of twelve rangers in his division; Mr. Dixon had fourteen men, and Mr. Dufur had twenty-four men, this fact also accounting to some extent for the difference in the mileage.

A comparison of the work of the several supervisors, as shown by Captain Ormsby's statement would indicate that Mr. Dufur, of the Northern Division, had by far the most difficult work, as he had, within two, as many rangers on the division as were employed on the other two, and they were so stationed that in visiting them periodically saddle and pack horses had to be utilized almost exclusively, the roughest of mountain trails only being available; the other two supervisors however, made a good portion of their trips, comfortably seated in a buggy, this being especially the case on the Central Division. Mr. Dufur is therefore entitled to great credit for the work done on his division.

BLANKETS AND OVERCOATS.—The blanket and overcoat sales are still on at our store, and the way our trade is carrying them off, is highly satisfactory. This morning we bring from the Mill 50 pairs of white blankets. We have made a reduction of $1 a pair on one line, and $2 a pair on another line, which puts them at a popular price, and they are our largest and best white blankets. Salem Woolen Mill Store.

POTTERS' CLAY.—An inquiry has reached the Chamber of Commerce of this city regarding a location for a factory for the manufacture of earthenware and porcelain. The inquiry comes from a firm that has had a good deal of experience in the work and proposes to erect a large plant in Oregon in the near future, providing good potter's clay can be found in sufficient quantities to justify its establishment. The officials of the Chamber of Commerce are very anxious to find out if clay suitable for this purpose can be found in the vicinity of Salem, and any information about where a bed of it is located will be thankfully received by them. This would be a valuable factory for Oregon and it is quite possible that it will be able to secure this one.

THREE NEW COMPANIES ORGANIZED.

State Department Filed Articles—One Company to Handle a Large Estate in Portland.

(From Daily Statesman, Nov. 22). In the State Department, yesterday, three new corporations filed articles, as follows:

The Macleay Estate Company will manage the property and interests of the estate of the late Donald Macleay, and to do a general business in all kinds of property. The company will have its principal office in Portland, and will operate with a capital of $500,000, divided into shares valued at $100 each. R. L. Macleay, Sanders Reed and Wm. MacMaster are the incorporators.

The Pacific Timber Company will engage in general contracting, erect buildings, deal in timber lands, operate railroads and other transportation lines, and do a general merchandise and development business. The principal office will be located in Portland. The capital stock is fixed at $500,000, divided into shares valued at $100 each. J. C. Flanders, S. B. Linthicum and A. E. Gahardt are the incorporators of record.

The Willamette Manufacturing Company will engage in the manufacture of wooden barrels, wagon spokes and other manufactures of wood; fishing rods and rod cases, and secure patent rights for various articles. The principal office will be at Oregon City.

The company has a capital of $400,000, divided into shares valued at $100 each. George F. Horton, J. M. Heckart, R. D. Wilson and A. W. Howard are the stockholders of the new corporation.

CANVASS THE CITY.—The Salem District Sunday School Convention, recently held, appointed as a committee on city canvass, the superintendents of the several Sunday schools, and these met at the residence of C. J. Atwood last evening to discuss plans for the work. It was decided to make a systematic canvass of the city on Wednesday, December 5th, when the canvassers will secure a complete census of the city's population together, with the church relationship, names of members of families, church preference, Sunday school membership, etc. The city will be subdivided into districts, and the entire work will be done in one day.

A SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.—Mrs. M. E. Brooks, who was operated upon by Drs. Alice Prettyman and W. H. Byrd a few days ago, is reported as much improved and will soon be able to be out, although still very weak. This is the third operation Mrs. Brooks has undergone in the past few years, and it is hoped it may be the last one she will be required to suffer.

BROUGHT BACK.—Willie Martin, the 17-year-old boy who escaped from the Reform School three days ago, was captured in Portland yesterday by the police who gave notice to the authorities here. Superintendent H. E. Bickers went down yesterday afternoon and returned on the overland last night with the boy in charge.

A SAILOR ASHORE.—Frank Smith, second mate of the ship Abbie Palmer, of Seattle, is in Salem on a visit to his cousin, Sheriff F. W. Durbin. Mr. Smith's vessels traded between the Pacific coast and Australia. He stated yesterday that he was now further inland than he had been in many years.

FOR TWO BITS.—Eastern or Olympia oysters, fried, only 25 cents a plate at Strong's; and no extra charge for coffee, tea or milk.

IN NEIGHBORING TOWNS.

STAYTON HAS COLD WEATHER AND SNOW.

Personal News Notes from That Place and Aumsville—A Lecture on American Manhood.

STAYTON, (Or.), Nov. 21.—This is the coldest morning experienced for many years at this season of the year. The thermometer registers 15 degrees above zero.

Nearly two inches of snow fell here Monday afternoon, the first snow of the season. It being earlier than usual at the people were wholly unprepared for it.

J. P. Davis and Wm. H. Queener made a business trip to the Capital City on Monday, returning Tuesday.

Louis Siegmund, of Fern Ridge, was a Stayton visitor Tuesday. He reports snow 5 inches deep in that vicinity.

J. W. Lehman, a practicing dentist, arrived in this city Monday, and will assist Dr. Welch in his office work.

John Nixon and Warren Richardson floated in about twenty-five cords of fine maple chair-timber the first of the week.

Jeff Tharp came in from his stock ranch on the Alsea yesterday, looking hale and hearty.

E. C. Baker and wife went to Lyons Saturday, for an over-Sunday visit with their son Ray.

Elmer Watson, of Goldendale, Washington, is a guest at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Joseph Fisher of this city.

Miss Christina McCrow, and friend, of McCoy, spent Sunday in this city the guest of relatives.

AT AUMSVILLE.

Aumsville, (Or.), Nov. 21.—S. W. Read, an employee at the asylum farm, visited his parents near here a few days ago.

Harry Porter, Myrtle Van Nuy and others, of Ala, attended the lecture here last Friday evening. The subject, "American Manhood," was ably handled by the speaker, Prof. John Goode.

Geo. Isham, of Harrisburg, has started a shoe shop here. George was formerly a resident of this place and has many friends here to welcome him back.

Ed. Prunk, of Turner, will move on to the Latourel place just west of town. Mr. Snyder, who has been living there for the past two years, having rented Mrs. Morris' farm between Turner and Marion.

Miss Clara Kirkpatrick has returned to Monmouth to school from where she was recently called on account of the sickness of her brother who died several days ago.

Mrs. Little, of Kansas City, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Chapel of this place for several months, expects to leave for home in a few days.

THIBET STILL A MYSTERY.

For the completion of the map of the Asiatic continent the researchers of the nineteenth century have established new and exact bases, yet there are still smaller and larger regions which are entirely unknown, says a London correspondent. Much remains to be done in Thibet, despite the successes of Russian, English and French travelers and Indian surveys. This is particularly the case of the land north of the route of Nain Singh (1874-1875).

south of the Kwenlon and west of the route of the journey of De Hing in 1803. North of the Kwenlon and west of the route of the journey of De Hing, stretching to the Tarbulo, are extensive unknown deserts. The eastern half of the Himalaya is known only in incomplete outlines. The highest peaks of the earth in this region have been measured by trigonometry from the flats of the Ganges river, but their bases or their tops have not been reached.

SIEGE.

If I should come knocking, knocking
At the door of your little heart
You in soft haste would be locking
The portal that kept us apart;
And then you would sit at some window,
On high,
—Would smile, from your turret—and even defy!

But the loves to my, aid would be knocking—
Would besiege you on every side;
And soon would your turret be rocking—
And soon would the portal swing wide;
And the loves, my true liegemen, will hasten to bring
The royal sweet captive down to their king.

So, instead of such smiling and mocking—
There might even be signs on your part,
—As on mine—if I should come knocking—
At the door of your little heart!

Why not a truce? Oh, why not then yield,
And peace, with a kiss at the door—way be sealed?

—Edith M. Thomas.

A PROMISING CHILD.

"What's the matter with our cherished infant?" inquired Mr. Hykins, as a series of prolonged yells reached his ears.

"Why, he's lost his temper, and he's standing in bed clutching the foot rail of the brass bedstead with both hands and shouting at the top of his voice."

"Let him alone. He'll be a great political orator one of these days. He thinks he's on the rear platform of a train."—Washington Star.

LIGHT.

"You first saw the light on June 15?"
The Boston girl frowned impatiently.

"You misunderstood me!" she exclaimed. "I first saw the light on June 16. I was born June 15, but I was not fitted with glasses until the next day."

We could not help but be struck with her dignified candor in discussing this delicate subject.—Detroit Journal.
