TYPES OF THE HOUSE

Many Representatives Men That Have Won in Split of Every District.
(L. A. Coolidge in Astoria's)
The richest man in the House is Campbell, of Pennsylvania, who has accumulated over $10,000,000, and who has a single item of income of over $500 a day. Campbell is a coal operator - one of the largest in the United States. Fifty years ago he was working in the mine as a driver boy, and seven-and-a-half cents a day. Closely approaching him are Levy, of New York, the owner of Monticello, who inherited his wealth, and Sprague, of Massachusetts, who acquired his by marriage. Other rich men in the House, some of whom are in the millionaire class, are Sibley, of Pennsylvania; Stewart, of Wisconsin; Hill, of Illinois; Cannon, of Illinois; Daboll and Adams, of Pennsylvania; Ruppert, McClellan and William Astor Chandler, of New York; Babcock, of Wisconsin; Lovring, of Massachusetts; Wadsworth, of New York, and Burleigh, of Maine. It is safe to say that a great majority of the members of the House have little besides their salaries, although there are a few of them who could not earn more than their salaries if they were to retire from Congress and devote themselves to their profession.

With comparatively few exceptions, both Senators and Representatives started in life as poor boys. Perkins, of California, was a cabin boy, shipped before the mast when twelve years old, and followed the sea for twelve years. Stewart, of Nevada, was a stage-driver. Thurston, of Nevada, supported himself as a boy in Vermont by farm work and by driving teams. Needham, of California, was born in an emigrant wagon somewhere in Nevada. He is one of the youngest members of the House. Adamson, of Georgia, worked on a farm and hauled goods and cotton. Lornor, of Illinois, who, while still under forty, is supreme in the Republican politics of Chicago, was a bootblack and car-driver. Cusick, of Illinois, was a sign-painter. Smith, of Illinois, worked his way through college from a blacksmith shop. Robinson, of Indiana, was a newsboy, and worked in a shop from the time he was fifteen till he was twenty. Hargrett, of Iowa, began to earn his own living at fourteen, and when he was eighteen had bought a farm. Heppner, of Iowa, was a printer. So were Henry, of Minnesota; Young, of Pennsylvania, and Anos Cummings, of New York. Weeks, of Michigan, had to buy books and study law through the intervals of teaching school. Brownlow, of Tennessee, earned his living when ten years old. He was a tinner and a locomotive engineer. De Graffenreid, of Texas, was a brakeman. Ojien was for many in a rolling mill. Mercer, of Nebraska, taught school, clerked in a store, worked on a farm and edited a newspaper. Robinson, of Nebraska, worked as a mechanic in a hinge factory. Gardner, of New Jersey, was a waterman. Hargrett, of Iowa, began to earn his own living at fourteen, and when he was eighteen had bought a farm. Heppner, of Iowa, was a printer. BRUTAL TRIPLE MURDERER SENTENCED TO HANG.
Martin Stichel Tried on One of the Charges at Kalama and is Found Guilty.
KALAMA, Wash., Dec. 19 - Martin Stichel was tonight found guilty of murder in the first degree, for the killing of W. B. Shanklin near Kelso one year ago. Stichel confessed to the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Coradus Knapp near Castle Rock, three weeks ago. The judge sentenced Stichel to be hanged within ninety days.

MOSLEM OUTRAGES.

Many Christians killed in the Central Provinces of Turkey.
LONDON, Dec. 19 - A dispatch to the Daily Express from Vienna reports recent Moslem excesses against the Christian population in the Central provinces of Turkey, where 200 Christians have been killed.

Coal Operators, Independent of the Combine, Hold a Meeting.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19 - The independent anthracite coal operators have just held a secret meeting in this city, which was largely attended by the representatives of the colliers that have not been purchased by the representatives of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., of the New York, Ontario & Western Railway Company. Great reliance is manifested on the part of those who were present as to the details of business transacted. It is understood that some of the members were inclined to criticize the action of the Pennsylvania Coal Company in selling out to Mr. Morgan, and E. L. Fuller in disposing of the Mount Pleasant mines to the Ontario & Western Railroad. All that could be learned of the meeting was contained in the following brief statement:
"Special attention was given to a consideration of the means of disposing of the independent operators' tonnage, a plan for which was favorably voted upon. The details of this plan will not be made public for some time, perhaps not for two weeks."

CHANGES IN STATE LAWS

Oregon Sportsmen Will Ask for Several Amendments
AT THE NEXT LEGISLATIVE SESSION
Trout Fishing to Be Limited and All Kinds of Pheasants to Be Better Protected.
Now that the session of the Oregon Legislature is drawing near, suggestions are made, from every quarter of the state for changes in laws, and if all the suggestions are incorporated in bills and introduced, there is a probability of a greater rush of proposed legislation than has confronted any Legislature in the history of the state. Many of these suggestions are really good, and would be of great benefit, such, for instance, as a change in the assessment laws of the state, or a simplification of the election and registration laws. Another law that is considered necessary by many people is one relating to primaries and that will probably receive considerable attention. But the great mass of suggestions are for slight changes in laws that will make a little difference to the majority of the people of the state. Such a change is discussed in the Portland Telegram of last evening. The article follows:
"At the coming session of the Legislature, the Oregon Fish and Game Association will recommend for passage a revision of the fish and game laws of the state, which includes a number of important changes. It will be advised that there is a close season for certain species of pheasants

PITIFUL TALES REACH THE OUTSIDE WORLD.
Respecting the Fate of Poor Women, Reconcenatored Among the British Troops in Africa.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19 - A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from The Hague says: Pitiful stories reach Holland concerning the fate of the reconcentrated women in the British camps in the Transvaal. Miss Harlan, of Kimberley, reports at the end of October:
"Today arrived eight women and twenty-four children from Potchefstroom. They had a terrible tale of how, when they refused to leave home, they were dragged away by Kafirs, thrust into jail and after being kept some time without food, taken by soldiers to Kimberley. When they arrived here their clothes were in rags, having been torn by soldiers. Two of them had been subjected to indignities. Some of them were widows, two had husbands in St. Helena. The children were of all ages and most barefooted. I was glad to be able to get them some food, which they badly needed."

Another correspondent describes the arrival of six women from the same district in a miserable plight. Two women who had suffered from the violence of soldiers were taken to the hospital for treatment.
A nursing sister, who has arrived at Harlem from Africa, gives harrowing accounts of the condition of many victims of soldiers. Another letter relates how two young mothers who were brought into a reconcentrated camp, were not allowed to take infants 4 and 6 months old with them.

KRUGER IN HOLLAND.

Amsterdam, Dec. 19 - Mr. Kruger arrived here today. He was met at the railroad station by the municipal and communal authorities. Speeches were exchanged in the royal waiting room. A banquet was presented to Mr. Kruger, whose every appearance was a signal for rounds of applause. Very large crowds of people lined the route of the Town Hall, where the Burgomaster made a speech in which he said he hoped Mr. Kruger would succeed in his efforts to secure honorable peace. Mr. Kruger, in the course of his reply, said:
" In 1881 we obtained our independence, but that favorable action has been obliterated. The invaders are ten against one, but we await the day when God will make known his will. We rely on his help more than on Emperors and Princes. I have not come as a fugitive, but by the order of my government, with the object of terminating a war in which the British employ men and children against us."
