files were again furnished at low figures, and through the constant correspondence of our secretary the members were kept informed of the conditions of the market, and many a grower returned home and waited an advance in the market in spite of all forebodings of the short sellers, thus saving to the growers hundreds of thousands of dollars. During the past year the association has secured hop yields at least one cent less than was asked by the local dealers, and baling cloth for 10% to 11% cents per yard, while growers were forced to pay dealers as high as 13% cents per yard, just as soon as the association supplies were exhausted.

It has successfully aided Mr. M. H. Durr in pooling over 2000 bales of hops to go to London, accompanied by Mr. Francis Feller, the treasurer of our association, to look after the interests of the growers who pooled their hops, and while the result of the sales yet remains to be known, we feel that they are in the hands of two honorable men who will secure the best results possible. There is a principle which underlies this movement, that is worth more to the growers of our state than a further advance on our hops that have been forwarded, and it is this: The dealers had better not be short sellers, and offer our hops to brewers at a ridiculously low price even before they are well formed on the vines. For they may never be able to deliver the goods. What we want is co-operation on broader lines. Every grower in our state should be a member of our association. Our sister hop growing states, California, New York and Washington, are looking to Oregon for the advance movement, then they are ready to fall in line. When we can come in close touch with the growers of these states, through the medium of their associations, we will be prepared to make short selling a thing of the past, and assure the brewer we want only a fair compensation for our labor and investment, and will insist on that. By keeping a vigilant watch over the cold storage, and lightening the cultivation of our fields, when a surplus is apparent, the cold storages will not be a menace to the hop industry, but a protection. Then with a climate and soil unsurpassed in the world, with abundant forests to supply every want of field and furnace, supported by the advantages of diversified farming, by a speedy and cheap transportation of our hops to England through the Isthmus of Panama or lower railroad rates, and a hearty co-operation of our growers, Oregon need not fear the world.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS AT THE COURT HOUSE

More interest is manifested and a number of names are being recorded daily.

More interest is being manifested by the Marion county voters in the matter of registering with the county clerk for the upcoming June election. Although the books have been open for two weeks and there was a temporary rush for the first two or three days, probably on account of the novelty and prompted by the desire to be the first one in one's precinct to register, the interest has gradually died out and occasionally when a man happens to have other business in the clerk's department, his attention is attracted to the registration books and he registers, otherwise he had forgotten all about it. There are over 7000 voters in Marion county and up to last evening only 131 had registered in the county clerk's office. To be sure, supplies have been sent out to a number of the more remote precincts and no doubt a great many have been registered outside, and, as the books will be left open until May 15th, there is yet plenty of time to attend to the matter, but the county clerk, on account of the vast amount of other work which will have to pass through his hands in the meantime, would much prefer that they would register as early as possible in order to avoid a rush similar to that of the previous occasion. As the books now stand, just one name over half of all the registrations now recorded were made in the four precincts within the limits of the city of Salem and the second ward in this city is now in the lead with 26 names. The following is the list of those precincts in the county wherein registrations have been made and the number registered in each precinct: 1. ONE CASE ARGUED

The Calendar for the Next Two Weeks Was Arranged, a Number of Cases Being Set for Hearing

In the State Supreme Court, yesterday, one case was argued and submitted. It was the case of W. G. Randall, respondent, vs. Allen Simmons, defendant, and C. H. Sarver and George A. Hamilton, appellants, an appeal from Clackamas county, Hon. George A. McBride, Judge. This was an action to recover on a promissory note given by the three respondents. The plaintiff secured a verdict in the Circuit Court for $167.22, principal and interest, and $25 attorney's fees and costs, and the defendants appealed to the Supreme Court.

Judge J. J. Murphy, clerk of the Supreme Court, yesterday arranged the calendar for the next two weeks, setting cases as follows:

ENDORING THE WARRANTS

The State Treasurer Allows Interest in Some Cases

WHERE AMOUNTS EXCEED FIFTY DOLLARS—TAX MONIES WILL COME IN EARLY

Owing to the Rebate of Three Per Cent Allowed on Tax Payments, is Made Early—Some Provisions of the New Law.

State Treasurer Chas. S. Moore yesterday began endorsing the state warrants drawn on the general fund, presented at his counters, where these warrants were drawn for amounts over $50. Warrants for smaller amounts, however, were not endorsed, but were paid as usual. This discrimination was made for the reason that state taxes will be coming in before very long—by April 15th at the outside—when the endorsed paper will be called in, and it was thought best to endorse only the larger general fund warrants, so as to save the large amount of bookkeeping, etc., in handling the smaller paper. Taxes, it is believed, will this year come in far more promptly than usual, for the reason that the country is more prosperous, and the fact that the law allows a rebate of 3 per cent on all taxes paid in full prior to March 15th of any year before the tax becomes delinquent. There are several important changes in the law regulating the collecting of taxes, passed at the last session of the Legislature. They are found in sections 14 and 15, of the assessment and taxation act (S. B. 201), and read as follows:

"Sec. 14.—Taxes legally levied and charged in any year may be paid on or before the first Monday of April following, and if not so paid they shall become delinquent; provided however, that if one-half of the taxes against any particular parcel of real property, or the taxes on personal property charged against any individual, be paid on or before the said first Monday of April, then the time for the payment of the remainder of such tax may be extended to and including the first Monday of October next following, but if the remaining one-half of such tax be not paid on such day, then the first Monday of October, then such remaining half shall be delinquent, and, besides the penalty, interest thereon shall be charged and collected at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the first Monday of April preceding; and upon all delinquent taxes there shall be collected from the taxpayer of such taxes, for the benefit of the county, ten per centum as a penalty, and for the benefit of the county or other public corporation which shall have an interest in any portion of such taxes, interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum on such taxes from the day on which they become delinquent until their payment; provided further, that there shall be an allowance of three per cent rebate upon any tax paid on any separate parcel of real property as aforesaid on or before the 15th day of March, next prior to the date when such tax would become delinquent if not paid.

"Sec. 15.—On or immediately after the first Monday of May in each year the sheriff shall proceed to collect all taxes levied in his county upon personal property of which one-half was not paid as hereinbefore provided on or before the first Monday of April, together with the penalty and interest. He shall levy upon sufficient goods and chattels belonging to the person or corporation charged with such taxes, if the same can be found in the county, by taking them into his possession, to pay such delinquent taxes, together with interest, accruing interest, penalties and other lawful charges; and shall immediately advertise such goods and chattels for sale by posting written or printed notices of the place and time of sale in three public places in his county, not less than ten days prior to such sale, and if such taxes, interest and penalties shall not be paid before the time appointed for such sale, the sheriff shall proceed to sell such property at public vendue, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to pay such taxes, interest and penalties, and shall deliver to the purchasers thereof at such sale, the property so sold to them respectively; and such sale shall be absolute. And the sheriff shall proceed in like manner, on and after the first Monday of November, to collect the residue of taxes charged against personal property remaining delinquent upon his roll."

Progress of Cuba.

Recent statistics show that the exports from Cuba have been largely increased and the imports decreased since it came under American rule. This proves that things are becoming more settled. CLEMENCY IS AGAIN URGED

Governor Geer Received Another Appeal Yesterday

FOR THE COMMUTATION OF THE SENTENCES OF WADE AND DALTON.

The Reason Given Is That One of the Men Did Not Kill Morrow—The Executive's Answer Is Apt and to the Point.

Gov. T. T. Geer yesterday received a letter from a Portland physician, urging clemency for Wade and Dalton, the two men condemned to be executed in Portland, on January 31st, for the murder of young Morrow. The physician in his letter urges that the sentences should be commuted to life imprisonment for the reason that one of them did not commit the deed. Governor Geer, in answer to this appeal wrote a letter to the petitioner, the text of which is given below:

"You say in your letter of the 14th instant, that you would commute the sentence of death passed upon Wade and Dalton, to that of imprisonment for life, for the reason that one of them did not kill Morrow."

"You will please permit me to offer the suggestion that I could not consent to such a commutation, for the reason that one of them did kill Morrow."

For Wade and Dalton

Under the caption "Building the Scaffold," the Portland Telegram of last evening has the following:

"Now that the fence surrounding the court yard where the execution of Wade and Dalton will take place has been erected, the work of constructing the scaffold is under way. There will be two trapdoors, and the condemned men will stand side by side, the cords which hold the doors being cut at the same time. It is proposed to have three cords, one of which will spring the traps, and three men would in that event cut the cords, so that the real one to spring the trap would be forever unknown. The timbers for the scaffold are now up, and the work so far as the carpenter is concerned, will soon be completed. The two men will be brought in from the rear, and mount the gallows from the rear, facing the spectators who will occupy the space in the front of the scaffold."

PARLIAMENT IS OPENED

KING EDWARD DELIVERS THE SPEECH IN STATE.

He Regrets the Conditions in South Africa and Praises the Soldiers in the Field—Great Enthusiasm in London.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—King Edward opened Parliament today with a ceremonial in all essential respects similar to that of February last. The procession to the House of Lords was of the same character as that witnessed on the occasion of the opening of the first Parliament of King Edward's reign, while within the Upper House were seen the same state pageantry, the same historic dresses and the same revival of ancient forms.

After robing, King Edward and Queen Alexandra entered the House of Peers and occupied their thrones, beneath a canopy, with the Prince and Princess of Wales on either side of them. The other members of the royal family were seated on chairs at the foot of the steps leading to the throne. The gentleman usher of the Black Rod, General Sir Michael Biddulph, having summoned the speaker and the members of the House of Commons, his majesty read the speech from the throne.

The speech opened with a reference to the tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

"They were everywhere," said the King, "received with demonstrations of the liveliest affection, and I am convinced their presence served to rivet more closely the bonds of mutual regard and loyalty by which the vigor of the empire is maintained."

Referring to Great Britain's relations with foreign countries, the King said: "My relations with the other powers continue to be most friendly."

Contrary to expectations, the King's reference to the war was just as indefinite as the statements made on the subject in the last half dozen messages from the throne.

"I regret," said his majesty, "that the war in South Africa is not yet concluded, though the course of the operations have been favorable to our arms; the area of war is greatly reduced and the industries are being resumed in many new colonies. In spite of the tedious character of the campaign, my soldiers throughout have displayed a cheerfulness in the endurance of the hardships incident to guerrilla warfare and humanity, even to their own detriment, in their treatment of the enemy, which is deserving of the highest praise. The necessity of relieving those of my troops who have most felt the strain of war has afforded me the opportunity of again availing myself of the loyal and patriotic offers of my colonies and South Africa from the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia and New Zealand."

In regard to the sugar conference the speech says: "I trust its decision may lead to the abandonment of the system by which the sugar-producing colonies and home manufacturers of sugar have been unfairly weighed in the prosecution of this important industry."

Then came the following clause: "I have concluded with the President of the United States a treaty, the provisions of which will facilitate the construction of an interoceanic canal under guarantees that its neutrality will be open to the commerce and shipping of all nations."

their barracks en route to South Africa. The Guardsmen, tramped through the dark streets of the metropolis at 6 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by an uproarious mob of civilian friends, singing songs to the accompaniment of the band. The songs and music, however, did not drown the crying of women, who clung to the necks and arms of almost every man of the contingent.

Mr. Elmer King

who lives near Lewisburg, 14 miles east of Salem in the red hills, concluded some time ago that he had followed a walking plow about as long as he cared to, and desiring to find a sulky plow that would work in the famous "red hills" land, was confronted with the old argument that "nothing but a chilled plow would work in the hills of Mr. King, however, is not so wedded to old theories that he is afraid to at least give any good implement a fair trial. Saturday he took out one of our Moline "high lift Hismarck" sulky plows, fitted with a 16 inch steel bottom. This is likely the only steel plow that is in use within cannon shot of the place and of course we were naturally interested in seeing it succeed. How well it succeeded is best attested by the fact that Mr. King was so well pleased that he decided at once upon keeping it. This after he had made tests and comparisons with the chilled plow in the same field at the same time.

Mr. King is satisfied, and is only doing what the progressive farmers all over the valley are doing, buying sulky and gang plows and thus placing themselves in a measure independent of the weather.

This particular plow is known as the "high lift," as the plow beam rises straight up, and in action the lift lever looks so that in case the plow strikes an obstruction, it raises of its own accord, and settles back into the furrow the same way. It can be used with or without pole. The furrow wheels are known as "caster wheels," thus enabling the operator to make a square turn to right or left.

We have had a wonderfully good trade this winter on all classes of sulky and gang plows both mold-board and disc plows. We carry the Benline rotary disc and the Moline and Economy sulky, and can please anyone, no matter what the nature of the soil.
