> EOPLE OF WEALTH AND REFINEMENT WOULD BE HAPPIER AND BETTER IF THEY COULD LIVE NEXT DOOR TO THE POOR. Why? Because it brings them down to simplicity and breaks their artificial views of life. It destroys a tendency to selfishness and snobbery and conceit that is always found when a person is shut up in a little exclusive circle.

For that reason people of wealth receive more from the laborers than they can give them. The most they can give in return is a knowledge of social propriety and aid in the building up of social communities. It is the common testimony of the University Settlement workers that they receive more than they give.

THE ULTRA EXCLUSIVENESS OF THE RICH AND THE SULLEN RETIREMENT OF THE POOR INTO THEIR SMALL COMMUNITIES ARE AMONG THE GREATEST OF SOCIAL ERRORS. A LESS CLAN-NISH SPIRIT WOULD PRODUCE A SETTER SOCIETY.

The segregation of class from class is always an evil. The separating of the residences of the rich from the residences of the poor in the large cities has resulted in a disadvantage to both the rich and the poor. If the well endowed children of self made men are segregated from the rest of the world, the effect on them must be moral degeneracy. The polite man needs to learn some of the directness of the rougher man, and the latter would profit by the contact by becoming more refined.

The principle that he who tries to save his life loses it applies to classes in society as well as individuals. Those who are fortunate in respect to property and culture need opportunities for sharing their gifts with those who are less fortunate. On the other hand, THEY HAVE MUCH TO GAIN FROM PERSONAL CONTACT. WITH THE SIMPLE, STURDY LIFE OF THE HONEST TOILER.

HOW AN HONEST MAN * MAY GET AHEAD

O rule that a man can adopt will bring greater reward than this - to abstain from the use of alcohol as a beverage. A DRINKING MAN SHOULD HAVE NO PLACE ANYWHERE.

Every honest man who desires work can obtain it and at wages sufficient to enable him to lay aside enough for a competence in his old age-that is, if he has a good wife to help him save it. There is nothing else so important as a good managing wife. She is the greatest aid to saving and getting ahead.

Want Good Men. Editor Statesman:

Since the weather has moderated politics begins to sprout in the Red Hills and vicinity. So far, however, there are no candidates in these parts who propose to break into office, All that the people desire is that the best men possible shall be nominated and elected. If the first is done, the latter will surely follow. I was asked recently by an intelligent young man, one who keeps well posted on the affairs of state, and who was formerly of the Populist household, whom the Republicans were going to nominate for Governor? When I replied, T. T. Geer, he said, "I hope so, for he is the best Governor Oregon ever had, and I do not want to see him shoved aside for a new man. We know what Gov. Geer is. He has been tried and never found wanting in all matters pertaining to the honor and welfare of the state or of the people of the state." And he is right. Governor Geer has grown in political stature since being Governor, and, although having attained an enviable eminence as a statesman and executive, he has not yet reached the limit of his possibilities. Like Wil-liam McKinley, he grows and progress-es with the times, and proves himself equal to any and all emergencies. No executive officer of the state of Oregon viable eminence as a statesman and executive officer of the state of Oregon has ever given more time to the duties of the office and few so much, as has T. T. Geer. He has neglected nothing nor delegated to others the duties devolving upon himself. No scandal has tainted his administration-no charge of fraud or corruption can be maintained against it. While credit for such a condition is due to the Governor, it does not all belong to him. Secretary Dunbar and Treasurer Moore are justly entitled to share with him the reward due for honest and efficient service. Honest men all and working together for the best interests of the state and the people, they should be continued in their well doing.

THE HUMPHREY

The Humphrey warehouse case came n for trial in the criminal department of the State Circuit Court for Marion county at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the day was taken up with the drawing of a jury and the examination of witnesses for the state. I wenty talesmen were called out of which number the required twelve men vere selected, each one being subjected o a most searching examination. Nearly all the men examined had read some account of the case in the public press and with two or three exceptions, the Statesman was named as the paper n which the story had been read, a number having read it in the Oregonian also. Some of the men stated that they had discussed the case and the defendant's embarrassment. The jury finally selected consists of some of Marion county's best citizens, as
