

A PLEASANT EVENT

GOVERNOR GEER WAS SERENADED BY THE BAND.

And a Large Crowd of Friends—The Successful Candidate and His Timely Remarks to His Admirers and Supporters.

One of the pleasantest events of Friday's primaries, aside from the victory itself, occurred about 9 o'clock after the grand result had become known. The Salem Military Band assembled in front of the Statesman office and, after playing a few selections, proceeded to Governor Geer's residence followed by a large crowd headed by Mayor Bishop and a number of other prominent business and professional men.

On arrival at the Geer home the band played a selection and when the Governor appeared upon the scene he was given three hearty cheers. Then Mayor Bishop advanced to the Governor and informed him of the result of the primaries and introduced him to the crowd as the "next Governor of Oregon." After enthusiastic cheers by the crowd Governor Geer spoke briefly as follows:

"My friends, neighbors and fellow citizens: I desire to express my sincere appreciation of this visit and of the particular occasion which has brought us together. While the victory for which we strove has been complete beyond expectations, I am sure it has left no sore spots in any direction. At least while it has been largely a personal fight against me, I bear no ill will towards those who have waged it. One of the most unpleasant features about political contests is the personal element which too often creeps into them, and the unavoidable disappointments which follow, but the object of many elections and conventions is to try out personal preferences within the party, and afterwards to enter the campaign for the principles which call us together as associates in one organization.

"Gentlemen, I appreciate the disinterested efforts you have today put forth in my behalf more than I can say, but while I thus freely express my obligation to you, I must not forget the friends in the country precincts, the men on the farms and in the distant foothills, whose public servant I am and among whom I have for so long been a fellow-worker. Their loyalty in this emergency will not soon be forgotten.

can do even better during a second term than during the first. "Gentlemen, ordinarily this fifteen-dollar-a-month house is large enough for all practical purposes, but for this occasion I am sorry it is not more commodious. You are welcome to enter, however, for under the present circumstances, its walls will be found to be indefinitely elastic. Again thanking you for your kindness and for the loyalty shown me by your work today, and with best wishes to you individually and collectively, I bid you good night."

REBATE FOR TAXES

MANY CITIZENS UNABLE TO MAKE SETTLEMENT.

And Secure the Three Per Cent Discount in the Sheriff's Office—Arrangements Made by the County Judge to Make the Settlement.

The crowd of taxpayers was much greater at the sheriff's office yesterday than upon any previous day and, although all were eager and anxious to pay their taxes and benefit by the 3 per cent rebate, everybody was good natured and well behaved and a line was formed, which was well maintained, and the day's work passed off very quietly, free from all jostling or disagreeability. The office force was kept very busy throughout the day waiting upon the crowd, but when the hour of 5 o'clock p. m. arrived there was still quite a long line of people and, as Deputy B. E. Co bath was obliged to deposit all of the cash on hand in the bank so as to avoid carrying any money in the vault over Sunday, the door was closed and all that were inside were waited upon in their turn.

On account of many having called for several successive days and were unable to pay their taxes, County Judge John H. Scott drew up a form of affidavit in a book which many signed as evidence of the fact that they could not pay their taxes for the purpose of benefitting by the rebate. The affidavit and signatures subscribed thereto follows:

The following named persons hereby certify that they have made application at the sheriff's office in the County of Marion, State of Oregon, this 15th day of March, 1902, to pay their tax for the year 1901, in order that they might receive the benefit of the 3 per cent rebate as is by law provided, and could not be waited upon."

In State Treasury.

State Treasurer Chas. S. Moore yesterday received remittances from two counties, on account of state taxes for the year 1901. They are: Lake state tax in full.....$ 9,576 00 Lake Agricultural College tax. 267 50 Lane, state 46,108 53 Lane Agricultural College tax. 1,120 33 Lane, balance interest 1900..... 78 66

In the case of Lane county, the treasurer remitted the state taxes in full, less 3 per cent, deducting the rebate allowed to individual taxpayers, prior to March 15th, in the belief that the county was entitled to this. He was notified that the full amount must be paid. The State Treasurer also received payments from two insurance companies on account of the 2 per cent state tax on their business of 1901. They are: Sun Insurance Life.....$388 23 Connecticut Mutual Life..... 21 86

In the Marion county court yesterday the bond of Isabelle Booth, as guardian of the person and estate of Georgie Belle Booth, a minor, in the sum of $2000, was approved and ordered placed on file. Upon the petition of Will and Herman Goodwin the court appointed E. P. Morcam administrator of the estate of Fred Goodwin, deceased, and upon his filing his bond in the sum of $400, which was approved by the court, letters of administration were issued to him.

APPREHENSIVENESS.

It Is a Disease—Save Yourself From It.

A large part of mankind is in bondage to that state of mind which is apprehensiveness of some sort of trouble or misfortune in the future. It is found among all sorts and conditions of men. It permeates every station, occupation and profession.

In general, we are prone to treasure the memories of our past failures and sorrows which serve as a background on which are developed the distorted pictures of future unhappiness. We do this not only consciously, but unconsciously. Every experience in life leaves an impression in the memory structure. To this subconscious condition we keep adding by our chronic pessimism. We look for the evil and neglect the good. Thus is established a powerful subconscious force that is ever active in shaping the course of our lives.

If we ask the cause of this widespread disease, we shall find its origin in a wrong conception of God. The root of it all is in the old idea that God is a jealous, vengeful personality, sitting in judgment over his children, and liable at any time to send visitations of His wrath upon them, or ready to condemn them to eternal punishment. Coupled with this is the belief that there is a power of evil ever striving to gain possession of men, and permitted by God to bring confusion and misery upon them. These two powerful opinions, coming to us from the infancy and ignorance of the race, are totally destructive of peace, harmony and health, and actively productive of the opposite conditions.

Dread of disease and of "bad luck" is still common. We stand in awe of death because we dread the change and uncertainty of the hereafter. Even the elements have been endowed with power of evil; one person dreads the winter, another the summer, another the night air or the east wind. If there is not a positive dread, there is negative unbelief, and the disease of apprehensiveness is born of both. We fail to connect cause and effect; we do not discriminate between reality and unreality; we live in the things of time and sense. The great "over-sense" of faith is left out of our lives; we are apprehensive of what fate may bring. We limit our God and ourselves.

The specific forms in which this disease manifests itself are so numerous and so varied by the modifications of individual experience that we will not attempt to trace them all, says E. A. Penneck, in the Higher Life; but it will be helpful to mention some of the more common. The destructive forces of apprehensiveness frequently begin their work in the unborn child. Sometimes the mother's apprehensions, when caused by a specific experience, are marked upon the child in some frightful deformity, either of body or character. Again, if the material dread is more general the manifestation may be less marked upon the child at birth, but the germ cells have been poisoned, and the effect will be none the less sure, resulting in stunted and distorted unfolding of the child life. Modern psychology and child study have revealed the tremendous and terrible inheritance of fear and dread that parents hand down to their children.

Many parents follow their children through childhood and youth with anxiety and apprehensiveness that are surely reflected upon the formative mind and bear after their kind. As we advance in life, we form new apprehensions. We are afraid of poverty, afraid of accident, afraid of public opinion.

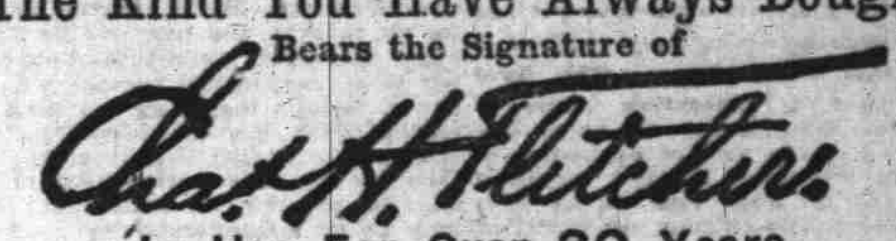

This apprehensiveness takes all the sunshine out of life, throws a wet blanket over all our activities, sours our whole nature, paralyzes us. Just as surely does it react on the physical part of our being by depressing the nerve centers and infusing morbid activity into the cells. The result is a torpid liver, a weak heart, a sour stomach, nervous prostration and paralysis. These things follow just as surely as two and two make four. Cause and effect, mind and embodiment, are inseparable. There can be no doubt that the only danger from epidemic diseases lies in the dread of them, either conscious or unconscious. The germ theory of disease is being displaced by a more rational view, which regards the germs, not as causes but as friendly subsequent activities that come in to bring a new form of life to a condition that requires them. It is the morbid and fearful thought that is fatal, not the germs.

Apprehensiveness is causative in crime as well as in physical disease. Many a man is led to steal because he dreads want or loss of social position. In political economy is not apprehensiveness a factor also? Confidence in the life of business. When it is weakened credits are withdrawn, money is withheld from circulation, industrial activity ceases; we have "hard times." What is more destructive to confidence than apprehensiveness? Poverty and crime are diseases, and apprehensiveness is a cause.

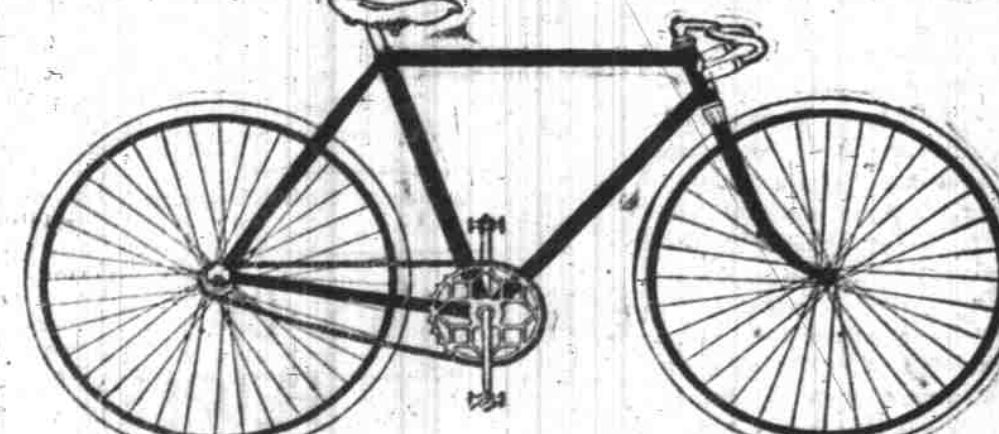

We have now considered cause and effect. What shall be the remedy? We know that no remedy can be effectual that does not deal with causes. The cause must be eradicated at once and forever. Many may question the possibility of human nature being free from anxiety and apprehensiveness. Can man believe in an immanent God, an ever-present Help, an All-in-all, and apply this belief to everyday life? This is one-half the problem. Swedenberg says: "Solitude about futurity, confirmed by act, makes dull and retards the influx of spiritual life; for they who are solicitous attribute to themselves what is of the Divine Providence, and they who do this oppose the influx of life, and oppose the life of good and truth." Herein is suggested the other half—a belief in one's self as a manifestation of that life, which, with the first, will make the complete circle. First, then, a full realization of omnipresent spiritual reality, an unchanging goodness, of which the universe is an expression; second, an adjustment of all thought and all activity to this great proposition and to its corollary—that man, made in the image of this supreme Spirit, is spiritual, and receives constantly an influx of life and good and truth that will lead him on to the fulfillment of his highest destiny; this is the mark, and we can answer unequivocally that it is universally attainable.

The removal of the cause of the disease of apprehensiveness is reduced thus to a simple change of mind on our part, to a different way of thinking, to a training of our mental activities away from ignorance and error, along the lines of cosmic truth, to include all that is good and beautiful. Our thinking faculties are our own, to use as we will. Power is born of desire. We may drop all anxiety and apprehensiveness if we will. As we train ourselves to accept that view of God and His universe which accords with highest reason and science and intuition, there will be no place for apprehensive thoughts. As these disappear, we become more and more open to the influx of all that is true and wholesome and hopeful—in a word, of all that is divine. Our fear is turned into courage, our faith is transmitted into works. If God be for us, who or what can be against us? Thus we come to know the immanent life of the world, the ever-creative Love. We come to recognize ourselves as manifestations of this Life and Love through the ideal manifestation that was in Christ. This is life eternal, an ever-progressive, ever-widening and ever-deepening life, from now, henceforth. In it perfect love casts out fear.

TURNER REVIVALS.—The meeting recently conducted at the Turner M. E. church by Evangelist Samuel Snyder, was one of unprecedented interest. For three weeks, through mud and rain and darkness the people came three or four miles to attend the services. Forty-four professed conversion and twenty-eight united with the M. E. church. An Epworth League of about forty members has been organized. The Presbyterian brethren are now holding a meeting.

Introductory Remarks

The MITCHELL WAGON being the king pin of our vehicle lines, in fact of all our lines and being of the highest possible standard it is but natural we should strive to surround it with goods of merit. We are large buyers, hence can dictate somewhat to the manufacturers, and get goods made right for the "Northwest" Trade. Therefore, we feel justified in saying that we give more value for the money than can be had elsewhere.

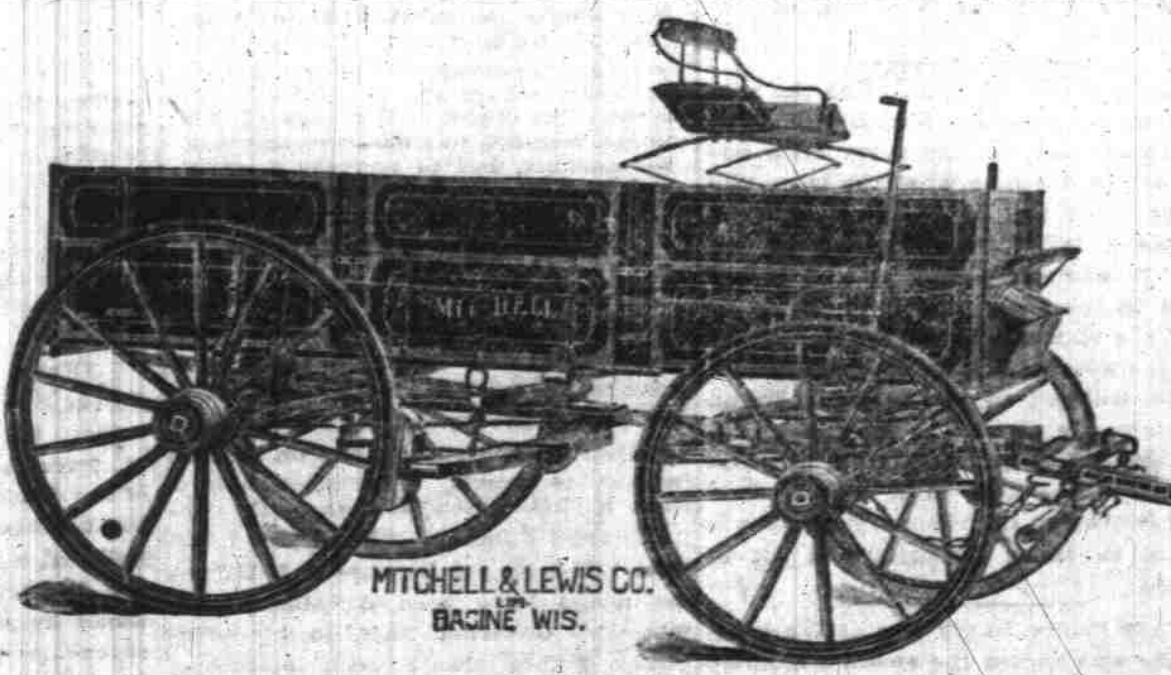

We Recommend Our "BEE" Line of Buggies

For those who want a good serviceable reliable vehicle at a moderate price. There is a growing demand for moderate priced vehicles built to give satisfaction. This line fills the want to a nicety, because it is built with a full knowledge of the conditions and requirements of the Northwest trade. For 1902 we have added the body corner iron, which has always been a feature of our Henney Buggies.

Our HENNEY Line of Buggies

Is now on the market for the fifth year, and has been sold largely to Liverymen, Doctors, Stockmen and others who keep a buggy going and give it lots of "hard knocks." HENNEY BUGGIES in themselves are well and favorably known having been sold here for years. These HENNEY rigs of ours, however, are built especially for us, we stipulating the grade and size of every piece of material in them, as well as the style of construction. "A BETTER BUGGY FOR THE MONEY CANNOT BE BOUGHT," is the verdict of every Liveryman who has used them.
