SAMUEL L. HAYDEN HAS PASSED AWAY

He Died Suddenly at the Family Home at 10:15 Last Night After a Few Hours' Illness, of Paralysis of the Heart.

He Served as Prosecuting Attorney in the Third Judicial District for Two Years, With Great Ability--Was One of the Best and Most Successful Young Lawyers in This Part of Oregon --A Son of Benjamin Hayden, the Pioneer Lawyer and Legislator.

Hon. Samuel L. Hayden, former district attorney of the Third Judicial District, and one of the ablest young lawyers and leading Democratic politicians of this city, died suddenly at the family home at No. 204 Cottage street, at 10:15 o'clock last night, after an illness, or rather an indisposition of but a few hours, aged 34 years, 11 months and one day, of paralysis of the heart.

During the past few days Mr. Hayden had not been feeling the best, and on Tuesday at 3 p. m. he left his office, going to the home of his father, Hon. Benjamin Hayden, near Eola, in Polk county, for a brief stay. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon he returned to the city, and meeting Dr. R. Cartwright on the street, he requested medical treatment, saying that he was not feeling well. The physician prescribed for Mr. Hayden, and told him to go to his home and retire, offering to drop in later in the evening and see him. Mr. Hayden at once went home and retired. Some time last evening the physician called at the house, but received no answer to his ring, and thinking that the family had retired or else that no one was at home, he went on his rounds. About 10 o'clock the physician was hastily called to the Hayden residence, and on arriving there he found his patient suffering on attack of paralysis of the heart, and in imminent danger. He at once called in Dr. W. H. Byrd, who arrived a few minutes later, but the efforts of the two physicians to prolong the life of the young lawyer were in vain, for he breathed his last at 10:15 o'clock. His wife, Mrs. Hayden, their child, a boy of five, and Mrs. J. F. Miller, Mrs. Hayden's mother, were at the stricken man's bedside when he passed away.

Samuel L. Hayden was one of the bright young men who could proudly call Oregon their native state. He was the son of Hon. Benjamin Hayden, of Eola, Polk county, the pioneer lawyer, legislator and Democratic politician. Deceased was born on the old family homestead near Eola on April 18, 1867, and when a mere boy, came to Salem with his parents, the family removing to this city for the benefit of the education of the children. Here he received an excellent education, and later, at the age of 18, entered the law office of Hon. W. H. Holmes and under that able attorney's tutelage began the study of law, remaining in Mr. Holmes' office for three years, finishing the law course at the early age of 21, when he was admitted to the bar after passing an excellent examination before the State Supreme Court.

He at once began the practice of his profession, paying especial attention to criminal law, and he soon gained an enviable reputation as an able criminal lawyer, proving himself capable, conscientious, and industrious, and being very successful in coping with the ablest talent then at the Oregon bar. He seldom met with defeat, and only then when it was generally acknowledged that he had no case. In the early 90s he for a time quit his practice, retiring to the Hayden farm, which he assisted in managing, but in 1894 he again hung out his shingle and resumed his practice, meeting with rare success and assisting in some of the most noted criminal cases ever tried in this county, showing rare ability and legal acumen.

In 1896 he received the nomination for District Attorney for the Third Judicial District, at the hands of the Democratic party, and he was elected by a round majority, although the Republicans ejected all of the rest of the ticket by good-sized majorities. So successful was he in his first term that the Democratic Convention gave him a re-nomination in 1898 for a second term, by unanimous vote and he was re-elected by a large vote. His four years' service as District Attorney brought out his great ability to a marked degree. He was unusually successful, and he received the warm admiration of his constituents, and fellow-lawyers throughout the district.

At the expiration of his second term, Mr. Hayden associated himself with his brother-in-law, Judge I. N. Maxwell, and the firm of Maxwell & Hayden has, during the past year, been prominent in the criminal law practice of this and adjoining counties.

Mr. Hayden had a wide circle of warm and loving friends, and in the Democratic party he stood high; his counsels were sought, and his advice eagerly followed, and in the impending campaign it was expected that, if he would accept, he could have the nomination for Joint Senator for Marion and Linn counties.

On July 18, 1894, Mr. Hayden was married to Miss Mamie Miller, a daughter of the late Gen. John F. Miller, and the couple lived happily. On October 5, 1895, the union was blessed with the birth of a son, now a promising lad, and this event but rounded out the happiness of the family. The head and protector of this young family is now stricken down in the very prime of his vigorous young manhood, and the wife and son are plunged into the depths of grief over his untimely demise. He also leaves a father and mother, Hon. and Mrs. Benjamin Hayden; two brothers, William and McClellan, and one sister, Miss Estelle Hayden, to mourn his sudden and untimely death.

Deceased was a most pleasant and companionable gentleman, a true and always just. He was strictly honorable and honest in all his dealings, all his acts being governed by that high sense of honor found in the gentlemen of the old school, but less often met with in the younger generation. As an advocate he left nothing undone to achieve success for his client, every honorable step being taken that was required for success, but at no time did he employ foul means to attain his ends. He was a member of Olive Lodge, No. 18, J. O. F., and of Salem Lodge No. 336, E. P. O. Elks, in both of which organizations he was highly prized.

In the death of Hon. Samuel L. Hayden the family has lost a loyal and fond husband and father; the city of Salem a good citizen, and the state an able and promising son. The loss is a severe one, and will long be regretted by all who knew the genial smile and warm hand clasp of the deceased. The funeral arrangements were not completed last night, but will be made today, and announcement made in tomorrow's issue of the Statesman.

The local wheat market is practically at standstill, with the price in the same notch where it has been maintained for the past six weeks—53 cents. Although the market is weak it is nevertheless unwavering and farmers are stiff holders. There is plenty of wheat in the valley, mostly stored in the warehouses, but it is not for sale and
