

GRADUATION AT CHEMAWA

Class of Sixteen Young People Complete School Year

EXERCISES YESTERDAY

Were Interesting and Impressive and Much Enjoyed

PROF. W. C. HAWLEY MADE THE ADDRESS TO THE CLASS AND GOV. T. T. GEER PRESENTED THE DIPLOMAS—A MEMORIAL WINDOW.

(From Thursday's Statesman.)

Yesterday was commencement day at the Chemawa Indian Training School, and a class of sixteen young people—twelve young men and four girls—were graduated, and will take up the battle of life on their own account.

This class was last evening presented with the diplomas showing their graduation, at the commencement exercises in the assembly room of the school, before a crowded house, Gov. T. T. Geer presenting each of the young people with this certificate of their industry.

It was a simple yet impressive ceremony, which followed the rendition of an excellent commencement program, and the several hundred visitors from this city, who enjoyed the program, were highly pleased with their exercises.

All of yesterday was given to the entertainment of visitors who came to the school to attend the commencement day exercises.

During the forenoon the industrial departments were visited, and the Indian boys and girls, young men and young women, were seen at their several tasks, and the visitors were given a good insight into the methods of teaching the young Indians to become more useful members of society, as employed at the Chemawa school.

At noon the visitors were guests of the officers of the school for the mid-day meal, and a pleasant hour was spent. At 1 p. m. the Chemawa Band, one of the leading musical organizations in Marion county, gave an excellent concert in the band stand fronting the main school building, after which "dress parade" brought old and young to the parade ground, and all enjoyed the spectacle of three companies of the Indian School Cadets going through different military evolutions with an ease and faithfulness to detail that was surprising and gratifying in the extreme.

This was followed by the most important program of the afternoon, when Supt. T. W. Potter and his staff, together with the school and visitors, gathered in the assembly room for the class exercises and the presentation of a memorial window to the school. The assembly room was filled to overflowing, with Supt. Potter, the class of 1902, the junior class and several ministers from this city occupying the platform.

After prayer by Rev. H. A. Ketchum, the members of the class of 1902 rendered an interesting program, including the class poem, the history of the class, the class oration, a rendition by the class humorists, who presented the class spoon to the member designated as the "class spoon," and the address to the junior class by one of the graduates, during which the latter presented to the president of the junior class, the pony and spade, amidst the cheers and laughter of the audience.

The program was concluded by the unveiling and presentation to the school, of the class, of a beautiful memorial window in stained glass, occupying the centre of the wall back of the stage. The window carries as a centre piece, the monogram "C. I. S.," and under it the inscription, "Presented by the class of 1902." Over the window, in the class colors was the motto, "The higher we rise, the grander the view."

The presentation of the window was received with cheers, and Supt. T. W. Potter, in a few well chosen words, accepted the present on behalf of the school, and thanked the class. The exercises were concluded with prayer by Rev. George C. Ritchey, of Salem.

At 4 o'clock a game of baseball was played between the Chemawa team and the Willamette University nine. The game was interesting from the fact that the Indian boys had it all their own way, resulting in a score of 22 to 2 in favor of Chemawa.

At 7:30 o'clock the graduating exercises were held, witnessed by a large crowd from this city. An interesting program was rendered at the conclusion of which Prof. W. C. Hawley delivered the address to the class, a brief synopsis of which follows:

The American Republic is founded on the intelligence, morality and patriotism of its people. The interest it has taken in the education of all races of its citizens is one of its distinguished characteristics. It has devoted a large portion of its resources to this purpose, and has aided in all manner of educational enterprises from that of the elementary school to the university, and has so diversified its work that it affords substantial aid to the development of the powers of its people. In these enterprises it has included the Indian people and has given them special schools that the special qualities of the people might have unhindered development. All this has been done that the greatest service might be rendered to the state by all races of its citizens in the increase of its material wealth. We are a rich but unexhausted people, and each succeeding generation of the country until the flag will find a people so developed that every one may add its peculiar gift to the total of our civilization. We expect a useful and valuable contribution from the Indian people.

At the conclusion of the address, Governor Geer presented the diplomas to the graduates. They are: James Smith, Backley, Cal.; William Ingram, Redding, Cal.

Thomas Young, Shasta, Cal.; Stephen Knight, Ukiah, Cal.; Alfred Gillis, Kennet, Cal.; Josefa Maria, Covelo, Cal.; Nicholas Lewis, Roy, Wash.; William Mahons, Neah Bay, Wash.; John Raab, Dungeness, Wash.; Charles Alexia, Fort Madison, Wash.; Joseph Walling, Fry, Wash.; Vina Woodworth, Roy, Wash.; Theresa Chesney, Loomis, Wash.; Geotrude, Brewer, Chemawa, Or.; Andrew Picard, Pendleton, Or.; Arthur Bessell, Biletz, Or.

The 10:30 overland train was ordered to stop at Chemawa and bring the 350 Salem people, in attendance at the exercises to this city, but the conductor had failed to get the orders and the train passed through Chemawa at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour leaving the crowd of Salemites standing on the platform. Supt. T. W. Potter secured telephone connection with the Southern Pacific office in Portland, and asked to have the overland sent back to bring the Salem people home, but this failed, and the visitors were highly incensed at the railroad people as a result. However, an arrangement was finally made, whereby a special train was sent out, which reached Chemawa at 3 o'clock this (Thursday) morning, and the visitors were brought home. The Salem Light, Power & Traction Co. met the special train at the station with three cars, bringing the visitors down town. The hours spent at Chemawa, waiting for the train, did not hang heavy on the hands of most of the people, for Supt. Potter brought out the band, and an impromptu dance was much enjoyed by all who cared to trip the "light fantastic."

REV. DR. DOANE.

Rev. N. Doane, D.D., Dean of the Theological School of the Portland University, Celebrated His Golden Wedding Last September.

This worthy man has been at the head of the Methodist church in the Northwest over 40 years. He had a double reason to be congratulated on this occasion as he was toly advanced years, and in spite of his advanced age, his hearing was restored last April by Dr. Darrin, now located at the Willamette hotel, Salem, until July

No one will attempt to question the reverend gentleman's word, as his unblemished record is well known. He tells his story below in his own words.

University Park, Portland, Or., April 26, 1899. To whom it may concern and encourage, to friends who have suffered like myself, the loss of hearing. On April 24th I called on Dr. Darrin, whom I believed to be a skilled aurist and physician, to restore my hearing. He applied his remedies and electricity to one ear and cured the deafness in a few minutes. Then he turned his attention to the other ear, which did not seem to yield so readily. For this ear the doctor gave me medicines to use at home, which I am now using. I think it the duty of all who are afflicted to have their hearing restored if possible, and I know no one whom I think more skilled than Dr. Darrin.

NEHEMIAH DOANE.

WHAT FURTHER TREATMENT DID FOR REV. DR. DOANE.

To the Editor: Some two weeks ago or more I said something of regaining my hearing under the treatment of Dr. Darrin, of which I had suffered for several years. On the first application the deafness of one ear (the left) was remedied. The difficulty with the other was more serious. I applied the medicine faithfully and went again to the doctor who succeeded entirely in restoring the lost sense of hearing, so that when I went out upon Third street, Portland; it seemed to be the noisiest city I was ever in. My hearing still remains distinct, in both ears equally good. NEHEMIAH DOANE.

MR. DARNELL'S EXPERIENCE, WITH DR. DARRIN. (Medford Enquirer.)

To the Editor: For two years prior to going under Dr. Darrin's electrical treatment I was afflicted with heart trouble, sour stomach, dyspepsia, bloating and pains. Dr. Darrin has cured me. Refer anyone to me at my home in Medford, or by letter to postoffice box 226. I most earnestly commend Dr. Darrin as a skillful physician. J. K. DARNELL.

Dr. Darrin's terms for treatment are now $5 a week, or in that proportion of time, as the case may require, except in special cases. The poor treated free, except medicines.

Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Lehman went to Woodburn yesterday afternoon to remain over night with friends.

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

Scratching the Head of the Ticket and What May Follow

A CORRESPONDENT ASKS THE MARION COUNTY REPUBLICANS SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS AND COUNSELS COOL JUDGMENT.

(The Statesman is pleased to print communications upon topics of general interest at any time. There is scarcely any limit to the topics of general interest. It is asked only that correspondents refrain from personalities and use care that nothing be written of a libelous or unworthy or untruthful nature.)

Editor Statesman:

As we are just on the eve of an important state election, the result of which is a matter of concern to the national administration, every loyal Republican should hesitate before he scratches a single name from the ticket. Especially is this true as to the Governor and the Legislative ticket, the only political offices involved. When news of the result is sent to the Eastern States which are concerned as to whether or not Oregon is to remain true to her Republican record, it will all be based on the vote for Governor, as that is the only political office on the state ticket. Before you scratch go off some where in a corner and write out your reasons for scratching and study it all over before you vote. Ask yourself whether or not you believe in Republican principles. Ask yourself whether or not Furnish does not represent Republican principles and whether or not Chamberlain does not represent Democratic principles. Will not Chamberlain's election be heralded joyfully all over this country by Democratic press as a glorious Democratic victory? By electing him how much will you gain personally as a citizen? Was not Furnish fairly nominated? If you say he was not, sit down and explain in writing what reason you have for saying so. Don't give us rumors set afloat by his enemies, but state facts of which you have personal knowledge. In taking any other important step in life you sift matters to the bottom, and you do not take counsel of your prejudices and your personal spites and your likes and your dislikes. How do you explain the great personal popularity of Mr. Furnish in Umatilla county, where he has lived for 31 years, and where he received a practically unanimous vote in the primaries? Did he buy these votes? Are not the people of Umatilla who have so often honored Mr. Furnish as reputable as the people of Marion county, and would not you, as residents of Marion, resent the suggestion that Geer's popularity here was not real but that he had stuffed the primaries? Are you alone right and is everybody else wrong? In your judgement better, and your motives any more pure, than those of the 248 delegates in the State Convention who decided that Mr. Furnish was a worthy and capable man and entitled to the nomination? Should they, although an overwhelming majority of the convention, have sacrificed their own judgment, and allowed you to dictate the nomination? Why is it that any of us should become so thoroughly eaten up with our own self conceit that we should insist that our judgment, and ours alone, should be deferred to in matters of this kind? How does it happen that we, and only we, are right, and that everybody else is wrong? Suppose that instead of Furnish, the State Convention had nominated Mr. Geer or Mr. Ankeny or Mr. Johns, and that after that Mr. Furnish's supporters had booted the ticket and done everything they could to secure the election of a Democratic Governor. How would we have felt about it? Would we have paid any attention to their excuses for bolting, and would we not have been tempted to denounce them as traitors? If we cannot abide by a three-fourths vote in a State Convention what is the use of holding state conventions? Are we as Republicans simply office grabbers, and when we can't get for ourselves, or our friends, the offices we want are we to kick over the traces? How does it happen that God made all of us fellows so smart and so good and made all of the other fellows, who did not vote with us so corrupt? If our candidate had been nominated would we have asked and expected the loyal support of all Republicans at the polls? Why won't that rule work both ways? Lastly, where will tactics of this kind end, and what effect will all of this kind of work have on us and our friends who may be candidates for something hereafter? Before entering upon a general political vendetta would it not be just as well for us to figure out the future cost of it? If daggers flash all over this state in case of Furnish's defeat will we be to blame for it or will somebody else? We should consider these things as men and not as hot headed boys.

REPUBLICAN.

Salem, Or., May 27, 1902.

Editor Statesman:

Referring to a local item in your issue of May 17th, referring to the first passenger train to reach your city in the early seventies—a platform in the ground level was placed on both sides of the track, which was completed during the night. The excursion train arrived at Salem about 9:30 or 10 o'clock. The people opened a way for the locomotive to pass through until it came to a stop, when the crowd of men and women surrounded the engine full of eager curiosity. The engineer gave a sudden blast from the whistle and the crowd fell back in dismay, a young woman remarking to her male companion, "sh-rum plum in before she belled-d, didn't she?"

Probably not one in twenty of those people had ever seen a locomotive, and the idea of classing it with the live stock was perfectly natural.

Shortly thereafter the road was finished to Albany, Oregon. I acted as station agent at that point for a short time, was accommodated in a family who took boarders as an accommodation. My room was adjoining that of the head of the family. There was a partition, cloth covered, with paper interlining. The second morning, after two almost sleepless nights, caused by the awful snoring of the aforesaid head of the house, he said to me, smiling graciously at the same time, "its a pleasure to have you in the house; the man who occupied that room before you came snored so horribly that I could not sleep."

At the time the railroad was being built several of the small towns that were not tapped by the road picked themselves up bodily and moved their houses to the new stations. This was particularly true about Gervais on the French Prairie. One evening after dark when our train was late returning to Aurora the engineer discerned in the darkness some object on the track. He whistled on brakes, the train was stopped with the cow catcher of the engine within three feet of a house which was being skidded on the rails to the new station. The engineer jumped down and in no mild language asked, why they had that house on the track. He got for a reply, "You go to — what right have you to be coming down here behind your time?"

The house was hustled off the track in double quick, and our train escaped a serious accident by the merest good luck—they had waited for the train until its regular time to pass, and then moved the house onto the track HAMILTON BORDEN.
