A Republican Discusses Attacks on Governor Geer

HE ADVISES THE PORTLAND MORNING PAPER TO POSTPONE ITS FIGHT ON THE GOVERNOR UNTIL AFTER ELECTION—SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

(The Statesman is pleased to print communications upon topics of general interest at any time. There is scarcely any limit to the topics of general interest. It is asked only that correspondents refrain from personalities and use care that nothing be written of a libelous or unworthy or untruthful nature.)

Editor Statesman: The Oregonian has added one more to its list of blunders that have been so costly to the Republican party during the present campaign. Its uncalculated attacks upon Governor Geer will have a tendency to bring on a fight between the factions the Republicans have labored so hard in this county to avoid. The Oregonian suspiciously Governor Geer's friends in this campaign, and on that suspicion seeks to discourage Republicans from voting for him for Senator. Geer is on the Republican ticket, and if the Oregonian bolts him on a suspicion, bolting may become general and will do some one damage. If the Oregonian wants to fight Geer, that is all right and is to be expected, but it would be better to put off the fight until after the election is over. It should, however, be remembered by Republicans that Scott is himself a candidate or United States Senator, and that is the cause of his last break. MR. FURNISH IS IN NO WAY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE FIGHT ON GEER and should not suffer in the slightest degree for it. A vote for Furnish is a vote for party harmony in the future. I wish to say that I am a friend of Governor Geer, but not a botler. I cannot see how my friendship for Mr. Geer can interfere with my privilege of voting for Mr. Furnish for Governor. I intend to vote for both Mr. Geer and Mr. Furnish, no matter what the Oregonian has said or may say. They are both on the Republican ticket, and I am a REPUBLICAN. Salem, Or., May 30, 1902.

Some Pertinent Questions. Editor Statesman: In these political times all of us like to have a say, and as I have always taken a deep interest in the Republican party, I feel at this time like asking one or two questions to ask through your valuable paper. Having heard the argument (especially by the opposition) that Mr. Furnish was no speaker, I will ask does that disqualify him from making a good Governor? If I recollect right, a few years ago, there was a man at the head of the American army by the name of U. S. Grant, who conducted the affairs of the United States in a very decisive and businesslike manner who was no speaker, Am I right? Also, we have had Governors in Oregon who were poor speakers, but when it came to doing business for the state they were successful and very much so. In conclusion I will say, the present State Board, as far as economy and businesslike management are concerned, cannot be beaten, and I predict that should Mr. Furnish be elected, at the end of his term you will have no cause to regret or find fault with the way he will manage the business of the state. He is, it is true, a banker. Would not any of us be the same if we could? A self-made man such as Mr. Furnish is, is the one to trust—trust him. REPUBLICAN. Salem, Or., May 30, 1902.

Editor Statesman: The oldest denizen of Salem on yesterday, affected by the spirit of the day, in memory lived over again the days when he was as proud as the last and least elective officer of the military organization of Gilliam's train of the pioneers of 1842, to keep the records and call to duty those who by "Standing guard the living night. Ever ready for the fight," Came "to plant the flag three thousand miles away," as a home builder in Oregon. As is natural to age, he lived over again in memory the year of his marriage (1847), in which the first noble married pair of Americans to build a home in Oregon were ruthlessly murdered by the ignorant savages they had devoted their lives to instruct. When the infant colony of practical expansionists, with frontiersmen's game guns and scant supply of ammunition met the murderous Cayuses and chased them from their camping grounds near the scene of the massacre to the fastnesses of the mountains and higher valleys than the Umatilla, he lived over again the mortification he felt as a four months married man so poor that he could but contribute his rifle and a new blanket to a friend among the first to volunteer to go against the Cayuses; and the more serious days a little later when he placed his gift wife to board with his nearest neighbor (Horace Board) and took their remaining two blankets and the few sheets from their bed made into shirts for his use as a soldier and started for the rendezvous at Oregon City, but was overtaken and made one of a special detail under Captain Levi Scott to act as escort to Hon. Jesse Applegate in an effort to carry an express message to the Governor of California or Commandant of the United States troops there to secure ammunition if no other aid to fight the Indians. His return from a 33 days' fruitless floundering in the snows of the Siskiyou mountains, which defeated their object, to learn of their former leader, Col. Gilliam's, death while obeying Gov. Abernethy's recall from the Cayuse country. All this and much more had passed in the mind of this old boy before, on invitation he joined the G. A. R. column and threw his flowers in the name of the Oregon Pioneers in tribute to the brave who died for the unity of the Nation he had only helped to expand.

This morning the address of the President of the United States at Arlington and that of the Governor of Oregon at Salem were carefully read in the columns of the Statesman. They are both in the same line of patriotic thought; the one deserving a place in every National school as an outline of the history of the struggle for freedom and peace against savagery, treachery and oppression in every form, and the other should be read in every state school as a concise outline of the causes of our Civil War, well described in both addresses. At Arlington the graves of those who wore the blue and those who wore the gray were decked with flowers. This set the memory of the old boy before mentioned to reviewing a May party meeting on the donation land of Mrs. M. A. Minto in May, 1865. It was really a jubilation over the return of peace. The glad news of Lee's surrender at Appomattox Court House had just arrived and become general. Memory recalls as visitors from Salem Mrs. Joseph Holman and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parrish, of the M. E. missionaries of 1840. The boys had a baseball ground cleared and a swing erected. Albert Davidson made a formal address and John Minto an off-hand recitation of parody on a camp song of war, the tune of which had taken possession of him for a time. It was published by the Statesman at the time, but the best of its spirit was only lived up to yesterday at Arlington and voiced by the President of the Nation. It follows:

The Johnnie Went Marching Home. Come ring the bells and fire the guns, Hurrah! Hurrah! Bring forth your wives and little ones, Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Come hoist the flag and raise the shout, The boys and girls must all turn out, For we all feel gay since the Johnnies went marching home. From Appomattox field they went, Hurrah! Hurrah! With steeds and side arms kindly sent, Hurrah! Hurrah! No more secession's husks they'll eat, But milk and honey, flour and wheat, And we'll all feel gay since the Johnnies went marching home. In the Union house the board we'll spread, Hurrah! Hurrah! For there is plenty wine and bread, Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! We'll kill the calf to crown the feast, We'll freely kill the fattest beast, For we all feel gay since the Johnnies are marching home. We will have no talk of East or West, Hurrah! Hurrah! But we'll honor those who've done the best, Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! We'll have no North nor Southern men, We'll all be for the Union, And all feel gay since the Johnnies went marching home. (Slow time.) But we'll not forget the "Boys in Blue," Oh no! Oh no! Who gave their lives like heroes true, Oh no! Oh no! Oh no! We'll deck the graves of those who fell, No more to hear a rebel yell, And down to the future ages tell What caused our Nation weal.

FLOWERS AT CANTON, TOMB OF MCKINLEY WAS DECORATED YESTERDAY—AT GRANT'S GRAVE.

CANTON, O., May 30.—Many beautiful offerings to be placed on the tomb of the late President McKinley, were received here last night and today, including a large crate of choice flowers from the White House at Washington. Mrs. McKinley took the flowers to Woodlawn and had them arranged about the tomb. New York, May 30.—Memorial services were held this afternoon at Grant's tomb, in the presence of 5000 people. The exercises were conducted by Grant Post of Brooklyn. "America" was sung, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read. Judge Thomas Jones, of Alabama, delivered the oration.

WASHINGTON I. O. O. F. ALL GRAND BODIES OF THE ORDER ARE IN SESSION—OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Whatcom, Wash., June 2.—The Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows, the Grand Assembly of Rebekahs and the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the state of Washington convened this morning. The Grand Encampment elected Edwin S. Isaacs, of Walla Walla, grand representative, and H. W. Lueders, of Tacoma, grand patriarch. The Rebekahs elected Mrs. Ellsperman, of Tacoma, grand warden.

Mrs. Harry Symes, of Oregon City, returned home from a visit to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Savage, in this city.

THE ODD PENNIES.

For the sake of saving odd pennies do not buy an inferior emulsion of cod-liver oil when you really need Scott's Emulsion. Scott's Emulsion costs more to buy because it costs more to make. The difference in price is pennies. The difference in results is pounds—pounds of flesh—and days of new strength and comfort. The consumptive and others who have lost flesh get more cod-liver oil into their systems by means of Scott's Emulsion than in any other way. Sent for Free Sample. UNSEEN FORCES

Their Value Demonstrated by Dr. Darrin Now Stopping at the Willamette Hotel

Unseen forces are more powerful than seen ones. Electricity performs cures silently but surely. To this many thousands who have been cured can testify. Many who know nothing of it oppose it; but truth always meets with fierce opposition, which in the end only hastens on the victory. We do not profess to understand this unseen power, but joyfully accept the great boon to health, feeling that Dr. Darrin is ahead of the age, and is showing to the world this new method of cure. As an example we append Mrs. Dewey's card:

To the Public: I was a patient under Dr. Darrin's care ten years ago, and wish to relate my experience that others may benefit by it. For many long years I had been afflicted with diseases peculiar to my sex, dyspepsia and pain in my chest, heart and stomach. I had lost flesh until my weight was 105 pounds. After a few months' electric and medical treatment by Dr. Darrin, I recovered my health and gained 40 pounds, and am now enjoying good health. MRS. F. E. DEWEY. WONDERFUL CURE. Of a German Editor of Obstinate Deafness. (Portland Freie Presse.) The lack or loss of one of the five human senses isolates a patient thus afflicted from the rest of the world as if he was banished to a lone island. What gratification can bring us the society of our best friends and acquaintances if their voices do not reach our ear, or if, instead of it, we are only conscious of an indistinct murmur? With the loss of hearing all joy and pleasure dies within us, most so in the domestic relations and family life. The song of our children sounds from their lips but does not reach our heart, their thanks and prayers are an empty sound. No birds sing in the branches for us; no sound of the whole nature reaches our ear, a feeling of sorrow and despair fills our heart. It makes no difference if our suffering is due to an obstinate cold or other causes. To give our readers a case, the most convincing because taken from the circle our nearest acquaintances, we refer to Mr. J. J. Kern, who suffered five years ago from a disease so obstinate that his mind began to suffer. Mr. Kern was at that time editor of the "Nachrichten and Freie Presse," and the loss of hearing and deafness, a sharp noise in his ears proved a great obstacle in his business. Dr. Darrin cured him by clever treatment, and the evil has never returned.

Card from C. C. Pratt. Mr. Editor. For 20 years prior to going under Dr. Darrin's treatment in Portland, five years ago, I had been badly afflicted with catarrh of the stomach and bladder. I was terribly bloated with dropsy and dyspepsia. I had given up all hopes of relief, but, thanks to Dr. Darrin, I was cured of all the above mentioned diseases, and I still enjoy the best of health. I reside at Coos City, six miles from Marshfield, Oregon, and will gladly answer any questions by letter or in person. I heartily recommend Dr. Darrin. C. C. PRATT.

Dr. Darrin's Place of Business. Dr. Darrin can be consulted free at the Willamette hotel, Salem, until July 6th, from 10 to 5 o'clock daily, evenings 7 to 8; Sundays 10 to 3. All curable chronic diseases, lost manhood, blood taints, stricture, errors of youth, catarrh and deafness, are confidentially treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed, and never published in the papers, and no cures published only by permission. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctor's office. Inquiries answered and circulars sent free. Batteries and belts furnished, with full directions for their use. Eyes tested and glasses fitted. Dr. Darrin's terms for treatment are now $5 a week, or in that proportion of time as the case may require, except in special cases. The poor treated free, except medicines.

AN ILLINOIS VOLCANO.

It is, however, in no immediate danger of eruption. It is doubtful if many people are aware that what is supposed to be an extinct volcano is to be found within the borders of the state of Illinois. "Big hill" is the name of the volcano and it is situated fifteen miles south of Ava, on the Mississippi river. There is an old Indian tradition that Big hill was in eruption about a hundred and fifty years ago, and that a few lives were lost. There is plenty of evidence to show that the hill is of volcanic origin. The old lava beds, the huge bowlders, and the deep crevices in the adjoining bluffs show that a mighty uplift must have taken place. Big hill is almost large enough to be called a mountain. It is seven miles long, two miles wide, and 400 feet high. Big hill is of remarkable formation and has received considerable attention from geologists. The north end of this hill consists of a solid wall of rock, varying from 150 to 400 feet in height and is a mile and a half long. It is the opinion of geologists that the Mississippi river once poured its powerful volume of waters along a channel east of Big hill, and there are evidences to show that this theory is correct. The situation of the lakes north of the hill, their relation to each other and to the river, the growth of the timber, the kind of soil in the swamps, are cited in support of this supposition. River sand is also found in wells at certain depths, and pieces of timber have been discovered 40 feet below the surface of the ground. Along this side of the hill is found as fine a quality of farming land as exists in the entire Mississippi valley. Two thousand acres are under cultivation which yield in corn from fifty to a hundred bushels per acre.—Ava (Ill.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

THE DEBATE IN CONGRESS

Little Interest Taken In the Philippines Bill

THE HOUSE APPROVES SECRETARY JOHN HAY'S SPEECH ON THE OCCASION OF THE MCKINLEY MEMORIAL EXERCISES—ONE MAN MADE OBJECTION. WASHINGTON, June 2.—Little interest, either on the floor or in the galleries, was manifested in the Senate debate on the Philippine Government bill today. At two or three stages it almost died out of imitation. Mason in a vigorous speech differed from the majority in the treatment proposed for the Filipinos. He urged that no reason existed for according to them, treatment different from that accorded to the Cubans, and strongly advised that they be afforded the right to govern themselves. Hay's Memorial Address. Washington, June 2.—The House today suspended the rules and adopted a joint resolution extending the thanks of Congress to Secretary of State John Hay, for his address on the occasion of the McKinley memorial exercises last February. Clark (Mo.) made a speech in opposition to its adoption, on the ground that Hay had abused the occasion by injecting a "Republican stump speech" into the address. Hooker (Miss.) a Confederate veteran, delivered an eloquent defense of Hay's address.

OLD HOME

If you are going home—to your childhood's home—this year, remember that the NORTHERN PACIFIC leads to everybody's home. You can go by way of St. Paul to Chicago, or St. Louis, and thence reach the entire East and South. Or, you can go to Duluth, and from there use either the rail-lines, or one of the superb Lake Steamers down the lakes to Detroit, Cleveland, Erie, and Buffalo—the Pan-American City. Start right and you will probably arrive at your destination all right, and to start right, use the Northern Pacific, and preferably the "NORTH COAST LIMITED" train, in service after MAY 5th.
