

THE OREGON HOP YARDS

Prospects are Promising for An Excellent Yield

VAST IMPROVEMENT MADE IN ONE OF THE GILBERT & PATTERSON YARDS NEAR BOILA-GROWERS GENERALLY DOING BETTER WORK IN THEIR FIELDS

Hops in the Willamette valley promise better this year than they have for many seasons at this time of the year, and growers are hopeful of securing a better crop than has been produced in Oregon in a decade.

Among growers meeting with success in hop culture in this valley, probably none have achieved as great success for the amount invested as have Gilbert & Patterson, of Salem.

Valentine Loewl, the New York hop merchant, says of the hop market in his Producers' Price Current of last Saturday:

Table with columns for Receipts for week, Exports to Europe for week, Imports for week, and various market data for hops.

As the season advances the strong position of the market stands out more clearly. There are apparently but few more hops to come forward and local stocks are being reduced in a manner that makes it doubtful that any lots will be carried over into another season.

WORK OF THE COMMITTEE

For the Fourth of July Celebration Was Excellent

NOT A DULL MOMENT THROUGHOUT THE DAY, AND THE THOUSANDS OF VISITORS WERE DELIGHTED WITH THE ENTERTAINMENT—HAYSEED BAND.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The Fourth of July committee deserves all possible praise for the excellence of the arrangements and the complete success of the celebration.

One of the best attractions in Salem's big celebration yesterday was the "Boia Hayseed Band."

This band was hastily organized for the celebration, and practiced in concert only twice, before appearing on the streets in yesterday's parade.

In connection with an elaborate celebration, such as took place in this city there are many little accidents which strike the observer as being extremely ludicrous.

Galaxy of Stars. In yesterday's parade the fleet, carrying the galaxy of stars, a number of little girls, attracted much attention.
