(From Wednesday's Daily.)
The Pacific Coast Indian Institute will be held in Newport next week, and educators of Indians from every portion of the West and Pacific Coast will be in attendance, to participate in the deliberations and to enjoy, during the week, the beauties of Oregon's most famous and delightful seaside resort. HOP GROWERS MEET

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF LAST YEAR'S HOP POOL PASS RESOLUTIONS.

Editor Statesman: Pursuant to a call of President W. H. Egan the Board of Directors of the M. H. Durst pool of hops 1901-2 assembled at Woodburn on August 9th to hear the reading of the report of Agent Francis Feller.

The following officers were present: W. H. Egan, of Brooks; John Nibler, of Gervais; and H. D. Mount, of Silverton. Owing to the press of harvest at this time preventing many members of the pool being present, and wishing a full attendance of the members, the gathering was resolved into an informal meeting, to hear the verbal report of Agent Feller, to be read at the Hop Growers meeting to be held in Woodburn on the 14th of August.

Agent Feller's report was highly instructive to those present, giving full details of the handling of the pool as well as to the selling of hops in the English market. The hops were sold on their merits and in the face of one of the largest crops ever harvested in England on the same acreage. The Oregon pool was sold at from 65 to 80 shillings, showing the superiority of the Oregon hops. While it is claimed that those same hops would have netted the grower more money had they been kept at home in Oregon, it is a well known fact that the grower would have sold his hops at less than he received from the pool sales, or at least the greater number.

That the pool was a success there can be no doubt, and it decided two very important questions: first, that the growers can co-operate and that there is enough to do so, when it becomes necessary for their own protection; and second, that they stand just as ready to do as they did in forming the Durst pool and if prices and the condition of the English crops justify they will not hesitate to further co-operate, for what they believe to be for their own interest. Mr. Durst, who was present at the meeting, signified his intention to be in Oregon again, and will be hop crop in the bale, and will be prepared to handle it if 20,000 bales of the crop of 1902 can be secured.

At the conclusion of the meeting the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Resolved, that we, as members of the M. H. Durst pool, extend our thanks to Francis Feller, our agent, and to M. H. Durst, for the able manner in which they handled the pool of hops intrusted to their care."

The resolution was adopted and the meeting adjourned to meet at Woodburn, August 14th.

HARVEST OF OREGON HOPS

Early Picking is Discouraged by Those Best Informed

THE RECENT HOT SPELL HAS NOT DAMAGED THE CROP—THE PRICE OF PICKING TO BE DECIDED BY THE ASSOCIATION AT WOODBURN TODAY.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Oregon hop yards are beginning to attract more attention, owing to the fact that hops will this year be valuable property, and the further fact that Oregon yards especially are in excellent condition and promise the best yield—both in quality and quantity—ever had in the state. A prominent Salem dealer, in speaking of the outlook last evening, said the crop was doing exceedingly well, that nothing had injured it, the late heat especially, while, it was feared, had done some damage, has in fact been beneficial, as it has killed the lice, and placed the hops in much better condition. He stated that leading growers assured him that hops were now in much better condition than before the hot spell, and that they stood the heat better this year than usual, due largely to the excellent cultivation of the crop.

The general impression has been that the crop would mature earlier this season than usual, but this can scarcely be expected. Conservative dealers urge growers not to pick too early, and they think that no yards will be ready for picking before September 3d, and some not until the 10th. "Early picking will spoil the sale of the hops," said one dealer yesterday. "Farmers should by all means avoid placing a crop of green hops on the market. Better wait a few days longer, and secure a good merchantable article—it will pay the grower."

Most of the dealers usually here during the hop season are now on the ground. The latest one to arrive is Mr. B. O. Schucking, and he expects to open his suite of offices in a few days. He will be located on the second floor of the new Bayne building on State street. George W. Hubbard, the pioneer hop buyer, of Santa Ana, California, is also expected in a few weeks—about September 1st—and will be in Salem during the season.

The Hop Growers' Association meets in Woodburn this morning, when the matter of the price for picking will be decided upon. The consensus of opinion is that 40 cents per box will be the ruling price, and the growers think this will be agreed upon at the meeting today.

The Corvallis Gazette says: Men who are posted on hops declare that if the weather continues favorable picking will begin about two weeks earlier than usual this year. It is possible that picking may begin in the latter part of this month, a thing that has occurred but once in the last eleven years. It seems to be generally agreed in hop producing regions that the price paid for picking a 9-bushel box is to be 40 cents. Consequently displayed in this city is a sign which reads: "100 hop pickers wanted."

The Durst Pool.

Woodburn, Aug. 12.—H. M. Durst, of Wheatland, Cal., who successfully handled the Oregon hop pool last year, after a visit and quiet investigation in this section, has returned to California. Before leaving here Mr. Durst stated that a pool of from 20,000 to 30,000 bales of Oregon hops could be made this year, and if desired by those interested in such a pool he would superintend the selling of the hops in London.

The Oregon Hop Growers' Association may discuss and act on the subject at its meeting here tomorrow. A prominent grower of this vicinity, who has not contracted his hop crop this season, says that if another Durst pool is made this year the price of hops will go much higher than is now expected. Others are also becoming imbued with this feeling and the result may be another and a bigger pool than last year and prices in consequence given a bound upward.

Record Price Paid.

Eugene, Aug. 12.—The record price for hops for many years was reached here today, when F. E. Dunn sold 25 bales of last year's crop at 22 cents per pound. New crop could probably be contracted at even a higher figure, but this is the highest price at which a sale has actually been made for many years.

AN EXPLOSION FEARED

WRECKED TRAIN OF OIL LEAKED POOLS ALONG TRACK—PEOPLE WARNED AWAY.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—Sharpsburg, a suburb of Allegheny, is excited today over the wreck of a West Pennsylvania freight train of 20 cars, loaded with benzine, gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oil. Where the wreck occurred a tank car containing 5,000 gallons of benzine broke and the fluid ran out, forming in pools along the tracks. There are over 150,000 gallons of inflammable material on the track, and the trainmen are keeping people away from the wreck. Should a spark fall from a passing engine and ignite the benzine, the result would be terrible and the engineers have been warned to be careful while passing the scene of the accident. No one was hurt in the wreck.

AN IMPORTANT FIND

UNIVERSITY STUDENT FOUND A SKELETON OF A GIGANTIC PRIMEVAL BEAR.

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 12.—Eustace L. Because only fragments of the skeleton, until now incomplete, have hitherto been discovered by geologists, the work of Furlong ranks as one of the most notable achievements of the University of California explorers in recent years.

They had walked out to the very end of the pier, and the full moon and murmuring waves were full of suggestion. She leaned over and looked down into the rippling darkness below.

"If I threw myself in there," she said, in a voice that was almost a whisper, "what should you do?"

He leaned over and looked down, then straightened back and smiled sweetly.

"I should r-r-regret it," he answered, suavely.
