But it is not everyone who feels they can afford them. We believe, however, that many people over-estimate the cost of a handsome diamond ring or stud. We have some exceedingly handsome Diamond Rings, exquisitely set, at $10.00, $25.00, $50.00 and $75.00. This is not much to put into a diamond, for, sear it in mind, diamonds are always a realizable investment.

THE TIME FOR PICKING HOPS

by the Grower is Suggested

WEATHER CONDITIONS MUST BE TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION IN HARVESTING THIS VALUABLE AND EXTREMELY SENSITIVE CROP IN THE VALLEY.

Some of the newspapers have had a good deal to say about the proper time to pick the hops. The growers are not without plenty of advice.

They are advised to let the hops get tioned to not pick them green. This is good advice. The right time to pick hops is when they are just right and ready to pick. But there are other considerations. The hops in any one yard of any considerable size, or even of small size, will mature unevenly. Some will be ready to pick before others. It is not safe, therefore, to wait until all the hops are ready to pick. And then the grower of a particular yard may not have as many pickers as he should have. Or he may be deficient in drying space. Or it may rain and keep on raining. The rain will not injure his hops if he can get them picked and dried promptly. But he cannot get them picked as quickly, especially if he must depend on women and children for part of his help, in the rain as in dry weather. And it takes longer to dry hops that are wet with the rain than if they were dry. His deficient drying space may grow more deficient with the necessity to dry his hops wet.

There are many growers who will figure that they would better put up part of their hops a little green than to iness and professional men. These men wait until they are just right and get are members of different denominations them water soaked, and then lose part and employ ministers and others for of them for want of sufficient pickers or sufficient drying space.

It is a very good thing to pick the hops when they are just right. But circumstances alter cases. It is very seldom that we have a September when it does not rain, at least a few showers, between the first and twentieth of September, between which dates the picking must be done, and often the showers are heavy and continuous for days at a time.

The writer knows of a man who always begins to pick his hops a little green. He is blamed for this by the buyers. His price on his first picking is often cut down. But he separates his pickings in different bins in his warehouse, and so he generally comes out as well as his neighbors who wait until their hops are just right, and put them all together in the bales, thus having only one grade to offer the buy-

It is not every grower who is fixed to separate his hops and have more than one grade to offer the buyers. But it would pay more of the growers to do this. It must be remembered that this is Oregon, and that it rains in Oregon when it lists to rain, and the wise grower is the one who prepares himself to meet the conditions as they are or are likely to be.

OF A CHAPLAIN

For the Penitentiary, Reform School and Indian Training School

THE MINISTER'S COMING FROM PORTLAND TO TAKE UP THE WORK-HE IS A MISSIONARY OF AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

In regard to the appointment of a chaplain for the Oregon Penitentiary and the United States Indian Training PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 14.-Wheat- A Separation of His Pickings school, which was mentioned in the Statesman of yesterday morning, the following statement is furnished by a friend of the movement. The Oregon State Reform Sshool is to be included in the institutions to be supplied in this manner with religious instruction. If Mr. St. Pierre is the sort of a man described, he is capable of doing a great deal of good. Following is the statement:

The State of Oregon makes no appropriation of money for a chaplain to the Penitentiary or the Reform School, nor does the United States Government make any for the Indian School at Chemawa. Hence these three institutions, from a religious standpoint, have been a long neglected field. Employer fully ripe before picking. The are cau- of the institutions have done what they could personally and have invited ministers and others to preach or give addresses. Mrs. Smith, the prison missionary from Portland, comes to the prison once a month, and ministerial and other volunteer service usually fills the time allotted for service on Sunday morning in that institution, but the other two institutions have not been so fortunate, and it remains true that there has been no chaplain at any one of the places whose duty, privilege and opportunity have been to devote his time and effort to these places. Many ministers and other people, interested in the moral and religious welfare of these institutions, have regretted this, and some effort has been made to have more of this kind of work done, but the effort has failed.

Some time ago the Rev. W. R. Winans, the State Missionary of the American Sunday School Union, took up the matter.

This society is not a church and it does not organize churches. It is a missionary society under the management of thirty-six laymen, mostly busdifferent denominations, hence the society is inter-denominational. In its policy and operations it is unsectarian. Mr. Winans talked not only with ministers but also with the Governor. the Secretary of State, the Superindent of Public Instruction, the Superintendent of each of the institutions. and many others concerning the appointment of a man by this unsectartan society, who should work in these three institutions on an unsectarian basis. He met with so much approval and encouragement, that he proceeded to secure the appointment of a man.

The American Sunday School Union has, therefore, commissioned the Rev. E. W. St. Pierre, of Portland. He will live in Salem and devote his time to this work. He is a man in the prime of life; a man who loves men and delights to work with men. He is a college graduate with an A. B. and an A. M. degree. He has been seven years a missionary in Persia, and six years of that time had charge of a school of about 200 pupils. Since then he has served seven years as a pastor. He is a man who believes in religion and in salvation, but in his work in these institutions he will also aim to mingle much with the boys and inspire high ideals in life, and he will labor to develop character, and will especially emphasize good habits, temperance, social purity and good citizenship in general, Friendly, social, personal effort will be the largest part of his work rather than preaching. He will be subject to the

Mr. St. Pierre's support is to come from the people of Oregon, and is to be raised by subscription. He comes very highly recommended as the right man for the place.

SALEM ELKS READY

WILL BE BEAUTIFULLY UNI-FORMED AND WELL DRILLED FOR PORTLAND'S CARNIVAL.

Salem Lodge No. 336, B. P. O. Elks at its regular meeting last night, completed preparations for the organization of the parade club, to be sent to the Portland Elks' Carnival, and for which the members are drilling industriously. About one hundred members will represent the lodge in the parade on Elks' Day at the Carnival, and they drilled lodge contesting.

A sample of the uniform selected was it was decided, by unanimous vote of last night submitted to the members the meeting, that 40 cents per box of and all were highly pleased with the nine bushels was to be the ruling price beautiful costume selected. Its description will not be made public at this time for obvious reasons, but Salem people can rest assured that when the uniform is once shown in public, it will "take the cake," as the costume of the Salem Elks always has at Carnavals in past years.

Capt. C. L. Dick, for many years one of the crack militia officers of Portland and a member of "336," is drilling the Elks, and is meeting with excellent success. He has splendid material for the marching club, and the sheepherders from The Dalles, and the fishermen from Astoria, will find themselves "up against it" when they meet in a contest with the antiered herd from the Capital City at Portland's Carnival.

The Salem Elks will have their own band, in full uniform, in the parade. The band will consist of 16 to 20 pieces and every member of the band is an expert musician, and a loyal and enthusiastic Elk, not taken into the order for the occasion, but a member of long standing. This will add much to the standing and the attractiveness of the Salem Elks, when parading at the Carnival.

THE SALEM POSTOFFICE

THE BIG FLAG STAFF TO BE RAISED TODAY AND THE ROOF WILL FOLLOW.

The Salem Federal building is rapidly nearing completion, and the contractor is confident he will soon be able to wind up construction work. The roof is now being placed on the building, for which the tin has arrived. It is the heaviest and best grade of tin obtainable, and will be painted in imitation of copper. The tinners will begin work in a few

Gays laying the tin. The big flag staff, to be placed on the building, has long been ready to be hoisted, and will today be placed in position. The terra cotta for the portal columns in the lobby of the new postoffice is here and work on this portion of the interior will begin at once. All the stone will be set, and the stonework will be completed today.

The new building, as it assumes shape, is a beautiful structure, and will be an ornament to the city of which all will be proud, and when the grounds are laid out and beautified, according to plans now being worked out by Major C. F. Cramer, the superintendent in charge of the construction of the building, the place will be an ideal one.

The streets-Church on the west side and Cottage on the east of the postoffice block-are being graded by the city authorities, and will be gravelled and placed in good condition before the new building is completed.

Ed. C. Herren spoke upon the price of picking and upon closing moved that not more than 40 cents per box be paid, which he considered a fair remuneration, and his motion was seconded by a prominent grower of the Silverton neighborhood, who maintained that to pay more than 40 cents of satisfaction, and not one returned would work a severe hardship upon or refused. those growers who had contracted early in the season for 10 and 12 cents per pound. Geo. Livesley also joined in the discussion and held that 40 cents was a fair price as it was a better price for women and children to earn.

He also broached the subject of the use of sulphur in bleaching the hops, during the curing process, and said that there was a considerable complaint among brewers on account of too much sulphur being used and cautioned the growers to be more careful in that respect. Greater care, he said, should also be taken in the handling of hops while they were on the kiln and during the baling so as to avoid breaking them up as much as possible, and not to make their bales too heavy as it made the hops boardy and reduced the insurance and safety. market value to a material degree, a light, flaky hop being the desirable ar-recognized as authority upon hops in every stage of culture and otherwise, was called upon for a speech. A discussion having arisen as to the different methods of curing and bleaching hopm Mr. Ottenhelmer took up this subject, and dwelt upon it at considerable length. As to the bleaching process he recommended sprinkling of the hops when they were of an uneven or mixed color before drying. This system, he said, had been adopted by his firm at their big Pleasanton, California, yards with satisfactory results. He also cautioned the growers to be in no hurry to pick their hops, as a bright yel-low color, with a reddish tinge commanded a better price than a greenish cast, and to wait until the hops were quite ripe before harvesting in order to obtain a choice article. The question of the necessity of a State Hop Inspector also arose during the meeting and was debated at great length. It developed that the great majority was heartly in favor of such an officer and, as Oregon's sister states California and Washington, are both blessed with inspectors and are realiz ing such satisfaction as a result, it was decided that Oregon, with a much greater production of hops than either of these states should also have an inspector, and that the Legislators should be prevailed upon to enact a law providing for such an officer during the approaching session to protect the interests of both the grower and the

Upon motion the chair appointed a committee on resolutions, composed of James Winstanley, John F. Risley and McKinley Mitchell, who, during the afternoon session, submitted the following set of resolutions which were adopted without a dissenting voice:

"Whereas, it is the concensus of opinion of the meeting that any price above 40 cents per box, for picking the 1902 hop crop, would be practically prohibitive to the majority of growers, deeds follow:

"Whereas, 40 cents per box has proven profitable and satisfactory to the pickers so that this has come to be a standard price, and, "Whereas, at this price an industrious picker makes more money than at any other farm work, and, "Whereas, oftenttimes a family of pickers returns from a pleasant outing in the hop fields with a greater sum of money than represents the year's profits of the grower, it is therefore "Resolved, that 40 cents per box be considered as the standard price for picking the 1902 crop."

Another resolution, to the effect that a committee be appointed to endeavor to secure from transpoprtation companies a low rate for pickers who may desire to come to the hop yards from a distance, was also adopted, and the president appointed M.
