The defendant-neatly dressed and fresh from the hands of his barber, a respectable looking business man-was at the bar, accompanied by his attorneys, John M. store of the defendant, to his barn, which stood alongside the store, when, on passing the rear door of the store, the defendant is said to have thrown open the door and remarking that they might as well settle their troubles then and there, fired a shot at Fain, mor-tally wounding the latter. Some of the neighbors living a quarter of a mile away, heard the shot and claim to have seen the wounded man arise from the ground and stagger into his house. Hastening to the home of the wounded man, they say, they found him lying on his bed and in a dying condition, and that before he died he stated that Markley had shot him. The defendant was at once brought to this city, and HIS FORMER BUSINESS ASSO- an information was filed charging him CIATE, IS MAKING A FIGHT FOR with murder in the first degree. An the case to trial at once, but the defendant's attorneys secured a postponement of the case to this term of the Circuit Court.

An Answer Filed.

In the Circuit Court, department No. 1, in the case of Martha Wilson, plaintiff, vs. David B. Smith, defendant, the defendant yesterday filed his answer to the plaintiff's amended complaint. The suit is one brought for breach of promise, which was instituted several, months ago. The parties reside near Stayton, and in the defendant's answer, he alleges that he became acquainted with the plaintiff in 1894 and that they were together much of the time during the next two years. . That they finally consented to marry, and as a condition to the agreement, plaintiff requested defendant to attend her church, which he chcerfully consented to do; that she afterward requested him to join the church of which she was a member, and offer prayers frequently. To this he alleges he refused to consent and the contract was broken. He makes still further and other allegations as to why the conto dismiss the suit and allow him costs and disbursements of same.

The country through which the vein runs is rugged and rough, the veins being heavily capped and covered over, to prospect. There is a well known years or more, leading to Gold creek, which passes directly over these yeins, and a bar, opposite the north of Big Cedar creek, has been often located for placer, most of the gold on it being so fine that values could not be saved, greater part of it, from these veins. The consolidation of interests was brought about as soon as possible after the strike was made, the articles fied, and the board of directors held a meeting in this city last evening, at which time the following list of officers was chosen:

Dr. E. A. Pierce, president. Geo. H. Irwin, secretary; Dr. F. E. Slater, treasurer; T. C. Culbertson, manager, and Richardson & Richardson, attorneys. Manager Culbertson is already in the field, deveolping one of the leads, having prospected to a depth of thirty feet, and he will be joined tomorrow by Dr. F. E. Slater and other members of the Company, when the work of development will be pushed more rapidly.

Two other companies filed articles in this department, as follows:

The Great Central Townsite Company, with headquarters in Roseburg. and a capital stock of $50,000, will engage in buying and selling of real-esincorporators.

The Falls City Musical Guild, of Falls City, has a capital stock of $1,000 and will engage in the pursuit of promoting the practice and study of instrumental and vocal music. Frank Butler, Scott Hearltt, A. J. Lyren and Jim Hinshaw are the incorporators named.

Keep the mouth closed; inhale through the nose, filling the lungs thoroughly, allowing the breath to slowly go out from the mouth. This is a magnificent chest developer. A splendid and all-around way to strengthen the muscles is to stand erect, chest thrown out; with arms extended touch the toes with the tips of the fingers, bending the body only just below the waist line. Continue this movement, with hands extended over the head; then throw the body back as far as possible, sway first from one side to the other; after an exercise of fifteen minutes, use each leg five minutes each, in regular gymnastics, throwing the foot out in front at the side, and back. This will render the body absolutely supple, and, contradictory as this may seem, put flesh and muscle on thin persons-and also reduce embonpoint and give grace The shooting is said to have occurred and sturdiness to flabby muscles. The talesmen, both those selected and those excused, were put through a searching cross-examination by both and for that reason being a hard ore counsel for the defense and for the State. Many were challenged for trail, which has been used for thirty cause, by both the State and the defense, and were excused, and both sides and several peremptory challenges. Two were excused because of their opposition to capital punishment, and others because they would not convict of a capital offense on circumand which is believed, from, where it stantial evidence. One line of questionis found on the bar, to have come, the ing the court objected to-questions as to connection of talesmen with attorneys in the case, as clients of the attorneys. Exceptions were saved by the defense from the start, and already the groundwork has been laid for an appeal in behalf of the defendant.

It was 4 p. m. when the last of the regular venire of jurors had been accepted, and still there were four vacant chairs in the jury box, that had to be filled before the trial could begin. The court ordered the sheriff to go, away from the court house, and bring in a special venire of twelve jurors forthwith, and the order to "go away from the court house" to secure his men and this action of the court blasted the hopes of certain men, waiting in the court room to be selected on the jury-there are always a few of these around when court meets.

After the order for a special venire, the court ordered an adjournment to 7 p. m., after instructing the jurors already selected, not to discuss the case among themselves or with any one else, and to keep together, under the charge tate an diay out and plat townsites of a bailiff, until the case was closed. and to name and dedicate same. C. Jacob Leidinger was then sworn in as Schmidt, J. H. Diers, W. P. Andrus and a balliff, and was given charge of the Cove, Or. Yours truly, J. D. Hamilton, all of Roseburg, are the jury, with orders to keep them together day and night, and to look after their wants, and to suffer none of them to leave, or to discuss the case with any Adjournment was then taken one. until 7 p. m.

At that hour the court reconvened. and Sheriff B. B. Colbath reported twelve more men, picked from the body of the county, and six of these were called, four of them being selected with little trouble, to sit on the case, thus filling out the regular panel of twelve men. The last four chosen were: C. H. Chapman, Englewood.

W. H. Burkhardt, Salem. D. P. Junk, Salem.

W. C. Hubbard, Salem.

This completed the list, and the court asked counsel if they were ready to make their statements to the jury, or if they would prefer waiting until morning. After a consultation it was decided to wait until this morning, at 9 o'clock, when the trial will begin, and at 7:30 o'clock the court adjourned.

Story of the Case.

John H. Markley was arrested on the morning of June 25th last, by Sheriff B. B. Colbath, then a deputy 'sheriff, on information received from Champoeg, charging Mr. Markley with shooting John D. Fain, the defendant's former business associate. The shooting was not witnessed by any one, and the case is wholly one of circumstantial evidence. The two men had formerly been in partnership in the store at Champoeg, but had dissolved, and Fain, who owned the land on which Markley's store stood, had sold the property to one member of the Jette family, also in business in Champoeg. to the scene are the principal witnesses on the Cincinnati Enquirer. Harry is against the defendant.

The story of the State's witnesses is

'Here in this silent cavern hung The ready, swift and tuneful tongue; if falsehood's honey is disdained, And where it could not praise was chained. If bold in virtue's cause it spoke, Yet gentle concord never broke, Than tuneful tongue shall plead for thee

When death unveils eternity."

The above sad though beautiful sentiment portrays a ruin wrought doubtless at an untimely stage in its former owner's existence through drugs and poisonous and unskilled efforts of medicine and ignorance of the divine gift that heals without wounding and restores without injury-electricity. This mysterious though beneficent influence as exhibited by Dr. Darrin, of the Willamette Hotel, Salem, has averted countless ruins like those so eloquently described above. And many a skull "with ethereal spirit full," bears hope and love and joy within its "narrow cell," and "beauteous visions fill the spot," that drugs and drastic doses would long since have made a "silent cavern," but for the saving power of this man's skull. For example, read the following card from Mrs. H. Lynch, of Cove, Or. Mrs. Lynch is a woman of undoubted integrity, whose words speak volumes for Dr. Darrin:

Dr. Darrin: Dear Sir; Your treatment of last year for heart and liver trouble, dyspepsia and impoverished blood was success. The treatment for my anaemic condition was all I could wish for. Make use of this letter as you see fit, if by so doing it will influence any one suffering as we were. Address,

MRS. HUGHEY LYNCH.
