

STATE BOARD AGRICULTURE

In Session Yesterday—Officers Elected and Committees Appointed

REPORT OF SECRETARY WISDOM SHOWS SATISFACTORY INCREASE OF RECEIPTS—RECOMMENDS NEW WATER SYSTEM AND OTHER IMPROVEMENTS.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The State Board of Agriculture, composed of W. H. Wehrung, of Hillsboro, president; J. H. Settlemier, of Woodburn, vice president; A. Bush, Salem, treasurer; George Chandler, of Baker City, Jasper Wilkins, of Corvallis, and G. A. Westgate, of Albany, held the regular annual meeting in the Capitol Building yesterday, and was in session all day.

The greater portion of the day, after receiving the report of Secretary M. D. Wisdom, and the election of officers for the ensuing year, was spent in discussing the needed improvements for the coming year, as recommended by the secretary, and outlining a general system of procedure.

The officers as elected yesterday, were: W. H. Wehrung, president; J. H. Settlemier, vice president; A. Bush, treasurer, and M. D. Wisdom, secretary.

The standing committees for next year's work were also appointed, as follows:

Finance—J. H. Settlemier, J. A. Westgate and Jasper Wilkins. Publication Program—Geo. E. Chandler, M. D. Wisdom and J. H. Settlemier. Special—G. A. Westgate, Geo. E. Chandler and M. D. Wisdom. Premium List—J. H. Settlemier, Geo. E. Chandler, Jasper Wilkins and G. A. Westgate. Transportation—J. H. Settlemier and M. D. Wisdom.

Legislation—Geo. E. Chandler, J. H. Settlemier and G. A. Westgate.

A resolution was adopted changing the date of the annual meetings of the Board from the second to the third Tuesday in December.

The date for the next Fair will be set at the meeting of the North Pacific Fair Association, which meets at Portland on January 7th.

The summary of the report of Secretary M. D. Wisdom, which covers all of the data for the year ending December 1, 1901, and which is very complete and exhaustive and contains much valuable information, is given in full herewith, as follows:

The total receipts of the Fair are $39,240.54; disbursements, $26,282.79, leaving a net profit of $12,957.75 on the 1902 Fair. We made improvements this year amounting to $1,530.54, to accommodate exhibitors, and paid out old outstanding warrants amounting to $1,686.42, which leaves in our treasury $393.66, after all warrant indebtedness is fully paid.

Big Increase in Receipts. "In 1898, the total receipts of the Fair were $8,734.50; in 1899, $12,759.66; in 1900, $18,450.85; in 1901, $25,730.82; in 1902, $39,240.54, showing an increase of $30,506.04, for the year 1902, over 1898, a period of five years.

"These figures are referred to, to show the Board the rapid and steady growth the Fair is making, and the necessity of providing for a still greater increase in the future.

"The Fair was never in better condition to perform the work for which it was intended, than at the present time. It has been a wonderful promoter of the live stock industry in this state, as well as other lines of agricultural work, and if conducted on the same lines in the future, will continue to encourage better methods of farming and breeding proportionately to its growth.

To Encourage Immigration. "The time has arrived in the affairs of this state, for this Board to put in operation Sec. 1, Article II, of its Constitution, which reads as follows: "It shall be the object of this Board to collate and distribute reliable information to encourage immigration."

"Hundreds of letters are received annually from Eastern people asking for information of this kind. If the matter of collecting and publishing information of this kind has been taken up by this board instead of the various boards of trade throughout the state, it would have had a much better effect on the homeseeker, at perhaps half the cost.

Much Needed Improvements. "I wish to call the Board's attention to some improvements that demand its attention. The water system is inadequate for the demands and expensive to keep up, therefore would urge that steps be taken to put in a new system before another Fair is held. There is also an insufficient number of cattle stalls and sheep pens to accommodate the increased number of exhibition stock in these divisions. I would recommend that some suitable place be arranged for judging of live stock. This department is fast becoming the leading feature of the Fair, and the judging ring should be covered and furnished with raised seats to better accommodate those interested in seeing this work going on. This is the educational end of our live stock show, which needs all the encouragement we can give it. The grand stand needs a thorough overhauling to insure safety to the large crowds that pack its capacity to overflowing. The poultry building needs some improvements, and should be supplied with new and up-to-date coops throughout.

"These are a few of the needed improvements which are absolutely necessary to accommodate the increased attendance the Fair is meeting with each year. I would suggest that a careful estimate of the cost of these improvements be made at once by the Board, and that an appropriation be asked for at the coming session of the Legislature to make the same.

More Premium Money Needed. "I wish to further call the attention of the Board to the insufficiency of the present appropriations to pay premiums on exhibits. This year we paid out $326.49 over and above the amount appropriated by the state for such purposes, and with the increased number of exhibitors coming to the Fair each year, it is probable that the sum of $10,000 will be required another year, unless our premiums are greatly reduced, which I would not favor. At a meeting of the Oregon Live Stock Association recently held in Portland, a motion was unanimously carried asking this Board to apply for a larger appropriation so that premiums on live stock can be increased. A legislative committee composed of taxpayers was also appointed to assist the Board in having the appropriation increased in keeping with the demands brought about by the great interest that is being taken in the various departments of the Fair.

Credit To the Press.

"I do not feel like closing my report without mentioning the fact that the Fair has had the united support of the entire press of the state, and to these various mediums must be credited to a great extent the success of the Fair."

"The liberal policy of transportation companies in hauling exhibits and passengers to and from the Fair, should not be overlooked in passing round encomiums of this kind. The Southern Pacific Company, especially, deserves a great share of the credit in making the Fair a success. The excursion plan adopted by this company in bringing business men from Portland to the Fair was a great benefit to the Fair, and gave the city people an opportunity of acquainting themselves with the work of this Board.

"The Greater Salem Commerce Club, composed of the leading business men of the city of Salem, is entitled to much credit for the substantial support given the Fair, and with a continuance of the same there need be no fear of making the Oregon State Fair a success in the future."

"Following is the detailed statement of the receipts and disbursements for the current year:

NICARAGUAN COFFEE KING

Visits His Father in Salem For a Brief Period

BY PLUCK, ENERGY AND PERSEVERANCE HE HAS BECOME SUCCESSFUL—IS PERFECTING ARRANGEMENTS FOR LARGE ROASTING PLANT.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Mr. Isaac A. Manning, of Matagalpa, Nicaragua, has been in Salem for a few days, visiting his father, Wm. Manning.

Mr. Manning is an Oregon boy. He was raised and educated in this state, and worked on the Statesman for some years in the latter eighties. He went to Nicaragua about ten years ago, engaging in business in that far-away country, where, through pluck, energy and perseverance he has become a successful and influential business man.

In company with his brother, Chas. T., and others, he is an extensive coffee grower, and last July home last July, coming to the United States, where he has been perfecting arrangements for a large coffee roasting plant at Pittsburg, Pa., to be known as the United States Coffee Company, for the purpose of handling his own crop and that of others in Central America.

Mr. Manning speaks very interestingly of the country and its people where he has taken up his abode, and has nothing but words of praise to say in behalf of both. He was seen yesterday by a Statesman reporter, and in speaking in general terms of Nicaragua and its people, said:

"Nicaragua is a good country; there are greater opportunities there for a man with money, coupled with ambition and energy, than any other place I know of.

"It is a matter of surprise to me that more American business men do not see and grasp these opportunities. There are splendid openings all through the country for men engaging in the mercantile business, and especially in this sort of boots and shoes. Why, I am compelled to send to the States for my shoes, and so are hundreds of other people who live there. When I went there, ten years ago, not more than 10 per cent of the people wore shoes; now, however, the general advancement of the country has been such that not more than 25 per cent of the population go without shoes. Nearly all of our dealers in merchandise are English and German, and in the whole western part of Nicaragua, I do not know of a single mercantile establishment that is run by an American firm.

"There may be said to be three classes of people in that country, the Spaniards, or upper class; the middle class, consisting of mixed blood, and the lower class, composed mostly of the native Indians. These latter are usually the ones who do the ordinary work, while the middle class are engaged in business pursuits, and the higher class or Spanish element, generally hold offices or engage in the higher branches of business.

"The court system does not vary much from that in the United States, and generally speaking, one can always get justice in the courts. There are three branches of courts of justice—the circuit court, the court of appeals and the supreme court, the judges of which are all appointed by the President of the Republic. "In regard to our school system, it has advanced wonderfully in ten years. President Zelaya has caused schools to be established throughout the country, and there is a law making attendance compulsory, and students generally put in about eight months in the year.

"The products of the country are principally coffee and rice, though all kinds of tropical fruits are raised in abundance. Corn and beans are also grown, and it is a fine country for raising stock, especially cattle. "Contrary to the general opinion, the people are hospitable and friendly. Their doors are always open to the stranger who wishes to seek a home among them, and they are always glad to welcome foreigners, and especially people from the United States.

"As regards the construction of the much talked of canal, I am sure the people of Nicaragua would be glad to see it put through, and are anxious to see it soon accomplished."

Mr. Manning is Consul Agent at Matagalpa, and is certainly in a position to speak of the business, political and social conditions of that country, and he takes a broad view of the whole situation and speaks only in terms of commendation. He left last night for San Francisco, where he will take passage on a steamer Sunday, arriving home about January 1st.

The following concerning Mr. Manning's business visit to Pittsburg is taken from a recent copy of the Pittsburg Dispatch:

FOOD FOR A YEAR,

- SALT MINE FOR $30,000. BAKER CITY, Or., Dec. 10.—Henry C. Longstaff and wife, of Troy, N. Y., have sold to the Aurora Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Arizona, all interest in the Christopher, Nevadawear, Fryling Pan and Carpenter Hill claims, situated on Caperton Hill, eight miles west of this city. The consideration named was $1, but in mining circles it is understood the price was $30,000.

A Million Voices.

Could hardly express the thanks of Homer Hall, of West Point, Ia. Listen why: A severe cold had settled on his lungs, causing a most obstinate cough. Several physicians said he had consumption, but could not help him. When all thought he was doomed he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and writes—"It completely cured me and saved my life. I now weigh 237 lbs." It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Dr. Stone's Drug Store.

But some people eat and eat and yet grow thinner. This means a defective digestion and unsuitable food. To the notice of such persons we present Scott's Emulsion, famous for its tissue building. Your physician can tell you how it does it. We would you a little too, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, 109 Pearl Street, New York.

Isaac A. Manning, United States Consul Agent at Matagalpa, Nicaragua, and manager there for the United States Coffee Company, is in Pittsburg. He said last night that his company intends to establish a coffee roasting plant for its entire crop of coffee. In the course of two or three years, he said, our trees will be in full bearing and will produce 1,000,000 pounds of coffee, which we expect to roast in a plant in Pittsburg. We have secured no site for this, but the plan is to make the plant serve for our entire crop, and as much as we can buy from producers near us. Last year our crop was 250,000 pounds.

"We have no purpose to come here to wage trade war against the Arabuckles or the Havermeys. Our coffee is of such a grade that it will go to a different trade than theirs. Our company is chartered under the laws of Maine, and its authorized capital is $2,000,000. Not all is issued, and we expect a Pittsburg contingent to join us. The company is a consolidation of the Jumaque, Jelgueros, Esmeralda and Indiana Coffee Companies, all having headquarters in Richmond, Ind., but no coffee roasting plant there, as reported. Clem A. Gaar, of Gaar, Scott & Co., agricultural implement manufacturers, is president; C. W. Ferguson, of Richmond, Ind., is treasurer, and J. O. Dye, of Springfield, O., vice-president."

BIG RANCHES SOLD.

WASHTUCNA, Wash., Dec. 9.—State Senator Oliver Cornwell, of Walla Walla county, has just sold his big 1400-acre wheat ranch at Pampa, on the Washtucna branch, for $18,500, a figure approximating $13 an acre. The ranch was bought by a Ritzville man, who will continue raising wheat on it. The farm is near the Palouse river.

The immense holdings of Duncan McGillivray, Walla Walla sheepman, have also been sold to a syndicate of Walla Walla men, including Mike Toner and H. W. Peck. McGillivray had thirteen sections which he owned and had used for years as a sheep range. Settlers came in all around him, and his Government range was cut off until he was forced to sell. His $200 acres brought him $38,000. It is testimony to the strides being made by the Washtucna country when it is stated that these holdings will be broken up into wheat ranches and sold to farmers.

THE KIND OF SEEDS THAT YIELD

Like everything else, there are good seeds and bad seeds. Seeds that grow and seeds that don't grow; seeds that yield, and seeds that don't yield, and a little thought given now to the selection of the seed you'll need, will be time well spent, though realized much better at the harvest if you select the world-famed Ferry's Seeds—the kind that always yield. For nearly half a century Ferry's Seeds have been known and sown wherever good crops are grown, until farmer and gardener alike have learned to depend upon their wonderful reliable growing and yielding qualities, year after year, to the exclusion of all others.

Unfortunately, the seed business seems to afford a means for many unscrupulous people who aim to blind the unwary to quality, through littleness of price and boastful claims; who in reality have nothing to substantiate their claims, no reputation at stake, no past record as proof. It is better to pay a little more for the seed and be assured of a great deal more at the harvest by sowing Ferry Seeds. The 1902 Seed Annual which is sent free, postpaid, will be found unusually interesting and instructive. Write for it today. Address, D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

COLD IN MAINE.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 9.—The thermometer today ranged from 10 to 15 below zero. At Lewiston and Auburn the weather record was 29 below zero. Most of the schools closed for lack of fuel.
