EUGENE, Ore., May 25.—Yesterday's ball game between the Eugene and Salem League teams resulted in another victory for the visitors by a score of 14 to 8. The game was a good one, even though a great many errors were charged up against both sides. Lucas pitched good ball and allowed the Nobles to make but two hits in the four innings during which he occupied the box, and allowed only one man to walk. Tallfaro had a hard time to hold down the visitors, allowing ten hits to be made during the game, and giving three men bases on balls. Morris, Salem's whirlwind, relieved Lucas in the fifth, and during this inning was hit hard by the Nobles, but he settled down in the sixth, and allowed but two more hits during the remainder of the game.

McFarland and Teabo evidently played in hard luck behind the bat, as each had four passed balls placed to his credit. Holland, Eugene's first baseman, played a good game, his record showing fourteen put-outs and no errors. Jernan, the young Raglan center fielder, deserves especial mention, as his work in the field was above criticism. Harper also played an errorless game and did excellent work in left field.

It was demonstrated in both the Saturday and Sunday games that the Raglans are too strong for the Nobles, and Manager Griffin will have to strengthen his aggregation considerably before the next contest takes place between these two nines, if he hopes to score a victory over the Capital City team.

Six hundred people were present to witness yesterday's game, and the spectators were wild with enthusiasm, especially during the fifth inning, when the home team gained a lead over the visitors. In the sixth, however, the tables were turned, and the Raglans won out by a good margin.

Albany-Roseburg Game.
 Albany, Ore., May 25.—Six hundred people assembled at the baseball grounds to witness the Albany-Roseburg League game on Sunday afternoon. McFarland pitched a good game for Albany and struck out five men, while Robley, who tossed the ball for Roseburg, fanned but two. McFarland allowed the Roseburg aggregation to make nine safe hits, Albany getting fourteen off Robley. Errors were numerous throughout the game, Roseburg being charged up with eight and Albany with six. The Blues made four two-base hits while the Grays were credited with two. Albany had nine men left on bases, and Roseburg three. The star play of the day was made by Bradley, who held down third base. He ran from third to the fence and made a sensational single-handed catch of a foul, winning the loud applause of the spectators.

The Albany Baseball Club was organized into a stock company today with a capital of $500. A meeting will be held on Wednesday, when directors and a manager will be elected.
 Much interest is being taken in the coming contest with the Raglans, and a large delegation will go from here to Salem to witness the games on next Saturday and Sunday. McBurney, the cyclone pitcher, who has recently played with the Mt. Angel College team, has been signed by the Albany management, and will probably pitch next Sunday's game.

(Eager to see the Raglans climb to the top of the column, the Salem fans fairly swarmed around the bulletin boards on Sunday afternoon, anxiously awaiting the news from the distant cities where the Valley League teams were contesting for supremacy. The greatest interest, of course, was centered in the Salem-Eugene game, and the crowd went wild when the Raglans led out with three tallies in the first and two in the second, while Eugene was shut out in both innings. In the fourth, however, when Eugene's square was decorated with five runs, the enthusiasts began to groan, but in the sixth, when Salem again took the lead, the fans breathed more easy, and all felt confident of the result. When the last inning was recorded on the bulletin board, a loud cheer went up from the crowd, which showed plainly that the Raglans have a host of enthusiastic admirers in the Capital City.)

When the result became known the talk of the fans at once drifted to next Saturday and Sunday's games to be played in this city, and speculation was rife as to the result of the Salem-Albany contests. While the Raglans are placed at the head of the list, it is generally conceded that Albany has the next best team, and as that city is signing new men who have an excellent reputation as baseball players, deep interest is being taken in the coming contests. The knowing ones predict that these will be the best games so far witnessed in the valley circuit, and judging from the present enthusiasm, standing room will be at a premium at the C. A. A. C. Park when the Salem and Albany aggregations appear upon the diamond.

COME EAST: GO EAST.
 NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., May 22.—Some one entered the pasture of J. C. Doeschler, of the Moxee country, a few nights ago, and rode away with two horses. The singular thing about the incident is that Mr. Doeschler had taken the horses up last February and sold them according to law as strays two weeks ago. No one else being present to buy them in, he purchased them, paying the costs of sale. It is thought that the owner of the horses took them away. Mr. Doeschler is now after the authorities to assist him in catching the thieves.

FEW SALES BEING MADE

The Hop Market Is Showing a Very Decided Upward Tendency

THE YARDS REPORTED IN BACKWARD CONDITION ARE NOT IMPROVING — EASTERN YARDS INJURED BY FROST AND SEVERE DROUGHT.

There has been more activity in the hop market the last few days, and some few sales are reported, although no definite information is obtainable on this subject. Dealers are very reticent about giving out information, especially those who have identified themselves with the bear side of the question, and when they make a purchase at a good figure, refuse to give out the details, so it is not known definitely, even that any sales have been made. The pool of the Oregon Hop Growers' Association is still growing, and now controls the greater portion of the remaining Oregon hops. The holders are firm in their demands of 25 cents per pound or better, for their hops, and say they will either realize that amount or hold over till next year.

The famous Sonoma hops of California have sold throughout the season at one cent per pound less than Oregon's, and yet a large sale was consummated Saturday in San Francisco, at 23 cents per pound. The German Bank sold 300 bales at 20 cents. A sale was also made Saturday in Portland at 20 cents for a lot of 100 bales. The market is very firm at that figure, and although few sales are made, yet there are plenty of orders at that figure, but holders consider their crops worth more money, and so will not sell.

All over the East and in Washington, the market is showing a decided upward tendency, and dealers are very active in their efforts to buy, showing that they are getting to the point when they must have hops. In England, the supply of hops in the hands of the brewers is almost entirely exhausted, and a few more days with increased consumption of beer, causes an increased demand for hops, with a falling off in demand on colder days. With this condition of affairs, what will happen when the continued warm weather comes on?

James Winstanley, secretary of the Oregon Hop Growers' Association, is keeping in close touch with conditions both in Oregon and in the Eastern states and Europe, and in an interview yesterday said:
 "Hops will surely sell for 30c before the first of August if growers will hold for that price—they will get it. Stocks are light and crops the world over are lighter. The hop growers of the Pacific Coast are masters of the situation. It is for them to say. The hot weather which is now in evidence in New York and England is causing the brewers to crowd the capacity of their breweries and also forcing them to need our hops. We strongly urge every grower who is holding hops not to be tempted or coerced or intimidated into selling his crop for less than 25c. The following from a New York hop dealer gives the position in open market:

"One of the most prominent dealers in New York recently made the following statement in regard to the situation:
 "The hop market looks decidedly better. Crops of the world do not look flattering, and the Oregon growers hold the key of the 1902 crop. They can make the price 30c or 35c, according to their nerve. We dare not guess which it will be. We are having the best May for the beer business in five years. I expect to hear results from it before the 1902 crop is on tap."
 The Growing Crop.

The yards in this vicinity which contain so many missing hills are not improving any so far. Some of the sprouts are above ground, but after growing a few inches the ends curl up and become dormant, and it seems certain that such vines will not make hops this season.

Many growers are dependent over the situation, and some rashly state that they do not believe there will be over 40 per cent of an average crop in the state, others put the estimate higher, but the man is yet to be found who expects a full crop.

Wm. Graham has about given up hopes of harvesting any hops from his yard this season. Mr. Sanguinet has one yard in very poor condition, and another young yard which looks fairly well. He stated that after examining a good many yards, he thought a conservative estimate of the yield to be expected would be about 75 per cent of last year's yield. Some growers in his section will not get over one-fourth of a crop.

S. G. Pugh, who has a hop yard of thirty acres near Chemawa, said they were in healthy condition, but he does not expect the large crop this year that was produced last season, as he does not think upland will produce large crops two or more successive years, as they exhaust their resources the same as any other plant. His crop last year amounted to 36,000 pounds, and he will be satisfied with 20,000 bales this year.

The following extracts from the Waterville Times shows the condition of the growing crop in other localities:
 Schoharie Republican, May 14:
 The continued dry weather prevents cultivation of the yards, and has prevented, thus far, the growth of the vine. Never have hops been so backward at this season. The vines have not yet started up the poles. The number of dead hills in even the best yards is unusually large.

Yakima, Wash. Republic, May 15th: There were more hopeful signs in the hop situation this week for the holders. The first offers that have been made for some time were extended the first of the week when 22 cents was bid for the choice grades. No sales were consummated at the time of writing this, but one that is expected to surprise the hop people of the valley may be looked for at any time. The present holders of hops are still confident that the price will rise and are as firm as ever in their determination to hold out.

Cobleskill Times, May 14th: Reports from all sections indicate that hop roots were badly injured by the April frosts, and there is a general complaint of "miss hills." The vines are not growing to any extent, as the ground is dry and packed hard around the hills, and but little cultivating has been done. This condition prevails all over the county. Today's Schoharie Republican said: "Never have hops been so backward at this season. The vines have not yet started up the poles. The number of dead hills, even in the best yards, is unusually large. H. V. Pindar has sold his old olds at 6c. G. E. Hyde has sold his crop of 1902 at 15c."

PIONEERS ARE PASSING AWAY

Mrs. Louisa J. Culver, One of the Early Forty-Niners Laid Away

DIED SUNDAY AFTERNOON AFTER A LONG SIEGE OF DIPHTHERIA—MRS. MELINDA LYNCH DEAD—THEY CROSSED PLAINS WITH OX TEAMS.

Louisa J. Culver, one of the first settlers in Marion county, passed her eternal home in the Great Beyond Sunday afternoon at about 3:15 o'clock, after a period of over a month's sickness with that dread disease diphtheria, during which time she suffered intense agony, but her children gathered around her and everything possible within human strength was done to save her with no avail. Her sons, W. J. and Rev. F. B. Culver, braved the terrors of the disease without a thought of their personal danger, and one of them was constantly at her bedside, day and night, through the long weeks of suffering her sad demise.

Deceased was born near St. Charles, Missouri, May 18, 1844, and with her people, crossed the plains in 1849, settling on the old donation land claim six miles east of Salem. In 1865 she was married to W. B. Culver, who preceded her to the other shore in 1889, and since that time she has made her home with her son, W. J. Culver, who resides on East State street, and it was there that she finally passed away last Sunday.

Three children are left, W. J. Culver, of Salem; Mrs. L. L. Maurer, near Salem; and Rev. F. B. Culver, of Albany, who were all present during her last illness.

Deceased has been for years a member of the Evangelical church, and has led a most devoted Christian life. Too high a tribute cannot be paid to the memory of this woman, who has made her life beautiful by her Christian character and manner of living, and the words of the Apostle Paul may well be applied to her. She has finished her race, she has run her course, and henceforth is laid up for her crown of glory. Her many acts of kindness and charity toward all who crossed her path have won the love and admiration of all who knew her, and she will be remembered for many years as one who ever did her duty and more, and even the cherished remembrance of this kindly soul will exert an influence for good over many a wanderer.

The funeral was held from the residence on State street yesterday at 12 o'clock noon, conducted by Rev. E. D. McRusch, and the remains were interred in the family burying ground near Macleay.

At some date, to be announced later, Rev. N. Shupp, of Portland, presiding elder of this district for the Evangelical church, will conduct memorial services at the church on Seventeenth and Chemeketa streets.

Another Pioneer.
 Another of the sturdy old Oregon pioneers, one of those who crossed the plains with an ox team, Melinda Lynch, passed away Sunday morning, at 12:35 o'clock, at the hospital in Asylum avenue, as the result of an attack of pneumonia, from the effects of which she has suffered for several years.

Deceased was 72 years of age, was born in Surry county, North Carolina, and from there moved to Missouri. In 1851 she moved with her family to Oregon, crossing the plains with an ox team, and settled below Portland on a farm.

Two sisters survive her, Eliza Lynch, of McMinnville, Yamhill county, and Catherine Medbery, of California. The remains were taken to Eugene yesterday and interred in the cemetery there at 1 o'clock p. m.
