The June Gift Dilemma

'Tis a good deal of a dilemma, this task of choosing a wedding gift. One wants to buy "something that will show up well" and yet, in most cases, hardly cares to go to any very heavy outlay. The Barr Store is a particularly fertile choosing place for wedding gift seekers who are in this state of mind. We have decidedly large stocks of Cut Glass, Silverware, Silver-plated Ware, Mantle Clocks and various other pleasing and appropriate gift goods; and the prices are in every case figured on a very modest margin indeed. As to quality, none but staple and standard goods are kept. Our Cut Glass is Hawkes'-world-famous for its beauty and fineness. Our Silver-plated Ware is the 1835 R. Wallace brand-the very best of plated wares supplemented by a showing of the John G. Barr brand of knives, forks and spoons. A choicer stock of either Cut Glass or Silver cannot be found in Salem.

OREGON BERRIES IN GREAT DE-MAND FOR SHIPMENT-SALEM CANNERY DOING THE LARGEST EIGHTY GIRLS EMPLOYED.

Strawberries are now becoming very plentiful in the local market. The rains Battalion; June 15, 1893." of the fore part of the week damaged the crop to a considerable extent, and of the receipts of Tuesday and Wednesday, very few were of value for shipping. The berries were really not injured, as the rains so far have not lasted long enough and the weather man has now kindly promised dry warm days for the especial benefit of the strawberry grower, so all will come out right after all, and really, the splendid showers of the last few days have been the making of the strawberry crop.

As stated, the berries were not really damaged to any appreciable extent, but they were softened, and bespotted with dirt, so that they could not be placed on the foreign market as choice Salem berries. However, the Fruit Growers Association has shipped a few to Portland, choosing the choicest that came in, and these berries netted the growers about $1.25 per crate.

A great many growers who are not in the union persist in bringing berries to market which are not sorted or packed, and which in consequence are worth less money. These berries are sold to the grocery stores and do a great deal toward lowering the prices here. Of course the rainy weather middle of the Willamette river. caused more than the usual number of berries to be marketed in the city, and in consequence the prices were considerably lowered. Yesterday berries were selling freely in the open market. If not in the country. for five cents per box, and from $1 to $1.20 per crate, according to quality.

Numerous orders were on file with the company from different parts of Oregon and other Westernstates asking for shipments of berries, but Mr. Gile only ventured to ship a few to nearby points in Oregon. Probably by today they will begin to assume better form, and larger shipments will go forward to interior points.

After being stemmed the cherries are all carefully graded, and then put into cans, covered with about a 30 per cent syrup, and the tops soldered on. The cans go into steam vats, where they are cooked for about ten minutes, and then punched to let out the steam. A man follows up with a soldering iron and puts a drop of solder over each hole and the can's are ready for the labels and then the market. The same process is employed for strawberries, but the syrup used is a little heavier, about 40 per cent for Wilsons, the favorite berry for canning. There are a great many berries coming in of the light colored varieties, but they are very unsatisfactory for canning, and Manager Holcomb remarked that even for table use, "ci-e MRS. GUS BOYD AND THREE me plenty of sugar and rich cream, and I'll take the Wilson berries everytime." In preparation for handling this crop of fruit the cannery has been overhauled and some new machinery added and now the total capacity of the plant is about 1000 cases per day. The cannery is being very liberally patronized by the growers generally and the prospects are for a very fine pack of berries. A. Vercler is now marketing about thirty-six crates per day from forty acres, and his berries are some of the choicest seen in the market. He is a careful grower and the best possible care is taken of his vines, and the picking and packing of the fruit.

The berry vines have now recovered from the searching effects of the hot days, and the recent refreshing showers have been the means of greatly lengthening the strawberry seaso probably doubling the yeld.

In many a bright eye along the line of cadets the tears shone responsive to those that gleamed from the eyes of their old commandant. A second time Major Edwards failed in an attempt to express his gratitude, and then at the suggestion of Captain Hardin the cadets gave three hearty cheers for the major, and the incident closed.

vapors and gases from sewers, and the musty air of damp cellars are laden with the germs of this miserable disease, which are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood and transmitted to every part of the body. Then you begin to feel out of sorts without ever suspecting the cause. No energy or appetite, dull headaches, sleepy and tired and completely fagged out from the slightest exer-tion, are some of the deplorable effects of this enfeebling malady. As the disease progresses and the blood becomes more deeply poisoned, boils and abscesses and dark or yellow spots appear upon the skin. When the poison is left to ferment and the microbes and germs to multiply in the blood, Liver and Kidney troubles and other serious complications often arise. As Malaria begins and develops in the blood, the treatment to be effective must begin there too. S. S.
