

IMMIGRATION TO THIS COUNTRY

Many Foreigners Landed at the United States Ports

RECORD-BREAKING YEAR

Nearly a Million Aliens Come to America During the Fiscal Twelve Months Ended the Thirtieth of Last June—Italy Sends the Greatest Number—Many Hungarians

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25.—The number of immigrants to the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1903, is 857,946.

This information is gleaned from a preliminary report just made public by F. P. Sargent, commissioner general of the Bureau of Immigration, Department of Commerce and Labor, and these figures place this last fiscal year as the record breaker in the matter of the arrival of foreigners to this country. The only other year in American history which approached this total was 1892 when there landed at American ports 788,992 people of foreign birth. Other high years were 1881, when the number was 669,431; 1882, when it was 608,322; 1888, 546,889, and 1891, 560,319. In 1899 the total arrivals was 229,299 only.

The arrivals of immigrants in the United States, by months, during the fiscal year just ended were as follows:

Month	1902	1903
July	50,782	50,782
August	45,549	45,549
September	58,228	58,228
October	63,614	63,614
November	50,291	50,291
December	31,851	31,851
January	47,267	47,267
February	91,666	91,666
March	126,286	126,286
April	137,514	137,514
May	98,821	98,821
June	857,946	857,946

The full returns for the fiscal year 1903, furnished by Commissioner Sargent from all countries compared with the returns for 1902, follow:

Country	1902	1903	Increase
Austria	171,988	206,011	34,022
Belgium	2,577	3,450	873
Denmark	5,660	7,158	1,498

A HEAVY SENTENCE

TWILL BE A LONG TIME BETWEEN DRINKS FOR HARRY.

Harry Dunn, the notorious character, who is no good to himself and much less to other people, will not have occasion to annoy the police for some time to come. It will be a long time between drinks for Harry, and he will have an excellent opportunity to cast his thoughts back over the many evil deeds of his past life. He appeared before City Recorder N. J. Judah yesterday morning to answer to the charge of breaking a glass in a building not his own, to which charge he pleaded guilty and was given the limit by the court—one year in the Marston county jail.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers; they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble. Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble. If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold in its native land.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FIERCE MOB IN ILLINOIS

Started to Lynch Negro Assaulter of White Woman

FIRE UPON BY NEGROES

And Stopped to Lynch and Burn One of the New Offenders

HACKED BODY TO PIECES AND THREW THEM INTO FIRE—PROCEEDED TO COUNTY JAIL ON A FORMER QUEST AND WAS REPULSED BY THE SHERIFF.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 25.—While a mob of six hundred men was on its way to the county jail to lynch James Wilson, a Bloomington negro who had confessed to assaulting Mrs. Thomas Burgess, an unknown negro shot and killed one of the mob.

This negro, Mayfield, then fled, but was caught by the officers within a block of the scene and hurried to the police station with the mob in hot pursuit. The officers barricaded themselves behind the doors of the office. They could not check the mob, however, for it battered down a section of the wall and the door. The negro was seized and rushed to the scene of the shooting. A rope was thrown around his neck and he was swung up to a telephone pole.

After hanging him, the mob proceeded to the county jail. After going a short distance, however, the mob changed its mind and returned to the scene of the lynching, cut the body down, took it to the principal square, built a bonfire and, hacking the body to pieces with knives, pitched the pieces into the flames. Remembering the first mission to lynch Wilson, they once more resumed the march to the county jail. There the sheriff refused them admission and also threatened to shoot. The mob, frenzied in the determination to reach Wilson, threatened to lynch the sheriff, his deputies and the negro turnkey. They charged the jail and the sheriff and deputies fired, wounding three members of the mob, one fatally. The mob being repulsed, sent to an adjoining camp for dynamite threatening to again attack the jail.

A LEGISLATIVE INCIDENT.

The late Elijah M. Haines, when a Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, was called on one evening to preside at a meeting of the lawyers assembled in Springfield for the purpose of considering the best means of passing a certain bill then pending in the Legislature, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Mr. Haines had explained the purpose of the meeting and was proceeding to suggest what he thought was the best way to secure the passage of the bill when a man in the rear of the hall interrupted him with:

"By the way, Mr. Chairman, if I may make a suggestion right here—"

"The gentleman's suggestion is a very good one," the chairman in turn interrupted.

"How do you know?" asked the man, a little miffed. "I haven't made it yet."

"Oh," replied Mr. Haines, with admirably affected surprise, "I thought you said 'buy the way.'"

INTERVIEWS WITH PEOPLE

The Wheat Heads Are Filling Well and Yield Will Be Large

FIVE HAY BALERS ARE RUNNING IN SPRING VALLEY ON A VERY LARGE CROP—W. O. CONSTABLE IS BUILDING A NEW PRUNE DRIER.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Notwithstanding the fact that we are in the midst of harvest, and farmers are the busiest people in the state, a large number of them were in the city yesterday laying in supplies for the next week's work, and many of the Salem merchants reported that the day was one of the best for business in a long time.

The farmers say that threshing season is almost at hand and some of the machines will start up in about one week. Nearly everyone is busy cutting grain, and large numbers of wagons carried away a supply of binder twine.

O. E. Price, of Lincoln, Polk county, purchased the John Toner threshing outfit last summer, and so well satisfied that he has just purchased an entire new outfit, turning in the old outfit in part payment. He purchased every new attachment, getting an Advance outfit complete, with wind stacker and self-feeder, and an Advance 18-horsepower engine which he intends to pull the separator over the country with, hills and all. J. R. Shepard, in the same neighborhood, also has a new Russell outfit, and intends to start threshing in two weeks.

A good run is expected, and the machines will make money, as the straw is short, and the heads, which are extra long, are filling very evenly, and will give a large yield.

Prune Crop Good.

C. O. Constable, the Rosedale fruit grower, was in Salem yesterday to attend the meeting of the prune growers. Mr. Constable is a man who is always glad to tell the news, and usually has some news to impart, so a Statesman reporter asked him about the prune crop and he said:

"Well, I think we'll have about as many prunes at Rosedale as we had last year, but the state will produce a great many more, as there is a big crop in the valley, whereas last year the valley crop was a failure. Where I live the prunes are more heavily loaded than last year, and the dropping is very light, but that is no indication of a good crop. I judge a crop by the price it brings, and not by the amount of prunes produced. If the trees are more heavily loaded the fruit will be small, and not nearly so valuable. I believe from present indications that the crop will be about the same as two years ago, and the price will be on a 2-3-4 cent basis."

"On my Rosedale farm I will have a very good crop of pears and some of my neighbors' orchards are so heavily loaded that they were compelled to thin them by hand, as in the case of M. B. Baldwin."

"On my ranch three miles north of Salem, where I have twenty-two acres of prunes, I am building a new drier of 300 bushels capacity. It is one of the new Kurtz turn driers. You know I am always trying something new."

"The drier will cost about $1200 when completed. You had ought to see how the trees on that orchard are growing. People thought that orchard was not worth anything, but it all it needed was proper care, and it will be better than the Parrish orchard across the road."

"During the week I marketed several bushels of Yellow Transparent apples, and got $1 per bushel for them. I will bring a lot more in this week and intend to graft a lot more of my trees to this early and profitable variety of apples."

Hops Looking Splendid.

J. L. Purvine, the prosperous Polk county farmer, living about three miles north of Zena, was a Salem visitor yesterday, having come in to attend to some business matters.

He was seen by a Statesman reporter, and said: "Yes, hops are looking splendid, and it seems that nothing can prevent us from reaping a large crop of grain. This cool, damp weather is just what we want, as the grain is ripening slowly, and the heads are filling in splendid shape. Had the warm weather of a few weeks ago continued, the grain would probably have shrunk, but now they will be very plump, being so heavy that the straw will be taxed to support them."

"The threshing machine men will do better than anybody else this fall, as the straw is very short, and will turn out more than the usual percentage of wheat than oats. This will also please the shockers, as the bundles will not be nearly so heavy as usual."

"Did we have a good crop of hay? Well, I should say we did. Spring Valley never before produced so much hay. Everybody raised hay, and the yield was immense. It was cut and cured without ever being touched by a drop of rain, and now the greater portion of it has been baled. There are four or five balers running in the neighborhood."

"Just look at that automobile, now isn't that taking life easy? A man wouldn't have to spend his time raising wheat and oats to feed a machine like that, would he?"

"No," said the reporter, "we'll all ride in automobiles when we make a raise."

Mob Is Increasing.

Danville, July 25.—(Midnight.)—The mob has increased to several thousands the square in front of the jail being packed with shouting men and women who are waiting the arrival of the dynamite.

MUCH BUILDING.

The Dallas Itemer reports that there is more building of barns and farm structures in Polk county than ever before, notwithstanding the higher prices of lumber and other materials. The Eugene Journal of yesterday had the following: "There has never been so much building going on in Eugene as at the present time. New houses are going up everywhere. Eugene will be second to Portland in a few years. There is no occasion for jealousy to Springfield. Eugene is as much interested in the growth and the prosperity of Springfield as Portland is in the growth and prosperity of every other town in Oregon. Every thousand inhabitants added to Springfield will add five times as many to Eugene. Building up Springfield is a good way to build up Eugene." (It is not likely that Eugene will be second to Portland though it is a good town and will be second to Salem.)

WAS INSANE OF JEALOUSY

Henry Keller Killed His Wife and Then Himself

IT WAS A TERRIBLE DEED

Suspected Wife of Undue Intimacy With Another Young Man

STARTED OUT TO FIND MAN WHOM HE ASSOCIATED WITH HIS WIFE, BUT COULDN'T FIND HIM—SERIOUS WRECK BETWEEN CARS.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., July 25.—Henry Keller, of Langlois, today killed his wife, and then shot himself.

Keller was extremely jealous of his wife and suspected undue intimacy between her and a young man named Adolphson.

This morning he started out after Adolphson, armed with a revolver, but being unable to find him, Keller went home, where he committed the terrible deed. Two children, small boys, survive the couple.

Keller was of a retiring disposition and kind to his family and his friends can only attribute the crime to a state of mind bordering on insanity.

A Disastrous Wreck.

Worcester, Mass., July 25.—One dead and forty-eight injured is the result of head-on collision at a sharp curve on a Boston & Worcester street railway a mile west of Westboro late this afternoon. The accident, it is alleged, was the result of negligence on the part of the crew in charge of the westbound car. The cars telescoped, each smashing into the other the length of four or five seats. There were 150 passengers on two cars. More than a half of the forty-eight are in a serious condition. Some of them will not recover and many will be crippled for life.

REMAINS OF POPE IN SARCOPHAGUS

Laid to Final Rest With Saddest of Ceremonies

SCENE VERY EFFECTIVE

Amid Wails of "Miserere" and Sweet Singing by Chapel Choir Work of Sealing Body in Caskets and Placing Into the Temporary Niche Was Accomplished by Cardinals

ROME, July 25.—The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's tonight. At sundown the most important and most solemn of all obsequies took place. The front doors of the Basilica were closed and the vast church, except for a row of lights at the shrine of Saint Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had quietly gathered there, appeared deserted.

Cardinal Rampolla, as Arch Priest of the Basilica, was waiting outside the gates in violet robes, surrounded by the Chapter of the Cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Capetelli, who conducted the services. To the strains of the "Miserere," which wailed through the lofty church and, preceded by a glittering cross held aloft, the procession, carrying candles and torches, slowly left the chapel and went to the church, passing the bronze statue and beyond the shrine of St. Peter.

After a slow progress around the church, the sad cortege arrived at the chapel choir, the bier being so carried that the dead Pope entered head first, according to the custom, the chapel from the semi-obscure flashing into brilliancy of suddenly turned on electric lights.

Scene in the Chapel.

The scene in the chapel was most remarkably effective. The bier bearing the body was received by Cardinal Orselli. It was placed in the center. Around two sides of the chapel, in the choir seats, were thirty-six Cardinals. The body was sprinkled with holy water and the absolution was given.

Major Domus then covered the venerable features and the hands with a white silk veil. Over this was spread a large silk veil which covered the whole person. A fire was lighted in a brazier and blown by bellows, sparks reaching almost to the ceiling, while Mgr. Bartoloni read the oratio brevis, eulogizing the dead Pontiff and Notary Pontoni, 81 years old, read out the burial record, the services which he performed upon the occasion of the deaths of Pope Gregory XVI and Pope Pius IX.

The Monsignors of the Basilica, aided by the noble guard, then laid all that was mortal of Leo XIII in a cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross. When all had been arranged, supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover at the head was a cross, just below which was a skull and cross-bones. This coffin was sealed personally with the arms of the Saverlengo.

The Major Domus of the Chapter of the Basilica lighted the brazier which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and lights strange in head and see in a church. These two coffins were closed in a third casket of polished walnut without decorations.

The sad duties were softened and smoothed by the sweetness of the singing of the choir and the prayers of the clergy. When the last supreme moment came, the heavy coffin, weighing in all 1322 pounds, were rolled out of the chapel, followed by all of the Cardinals.

Laid to Rest.

Pulveys were attached to the coffin, and it was raised into the stone sarcophagus above the door to remain until the grateful Cardinals created by the late Pope shall erect a suitable tomb in the Basilica of St. John Lateran.

WILL CONTEST VOTE

SUMPTER TAXPAYERS OBJECT TO BONDING CITY FOR NEW WATER SYSTEM.

SUMPTER, Ore., July 24.—The vote on bonding the city for $15,000 for a sewerage system having resulted in favor of the measure by a close margin of fourteen majority, there is some talk of contesting the legality of the vote. While not as large a poll resulted as was expected, there was considerable interest manifested, and the election was a spirited one. It is stated that an attorney will be employed by several of the leading taxpayers here, and a contest originated, it being claimed that many were allowed to vote who had no rights in the premises. Should this be proven, it would result in the whole thing being declared illegal, and the situation would be the same as before the election was held.
