

"GLASSES ARE SUCH A NUISANCE."

How often you hear it said: "My eyes are weak and I know I ought to wear glasses, but I can't bear to, because they are such a nuisance." And what a pity it is that so many people are allowing their eyes to drift farther and farther into weakness on so trivial an excuse.

AND NOW FOR HOP PICKING

Very Little Life in the Hop Market and No Sellers

HOT WEATHER IS KILLING HOP VERMIN BY THE MILLION—THE PICKING OF HOPS HAS ALREADY BEGUN IN THE EARLY YARDS—PICKERS ARE PLENTIFUL.

Since the Oregon Hop Growers Association made its last consignment of hops to London through M. H. Durst, and a few other lots were sold to local dealers, practically all interest in the hop market in 1932 hops has been lost. There remains so few hops in the state—less than 500 bales in growers' hands—that the only ones now interested in 1932 hops are the brewers, and their representatives among the local hop dealers.

There is still considerable interest among dealers for contracts on the new crop, 20 cents being freely offered for contracts, on hops of such quality as will be produced in the different yards. Salem growers claim to have been offered 25 cents, but of course they refused, and most growers could not be prevailed upon to contract at any price within the bounds of reason.

The new crop is apparently approaching picking season in splendid shape, and the outlook seems to be for a crop of as fine hops as were ever produced in the state, but a little below the average in quantity. Authorities differ on this point, however, some declaring that the crop is in grave danger of mold and rotting, picking by September 1, even though the hops may be green, in order to escape that scourge.

Early in the spring a few growers reported the appearance of the English red spider on the vines, and expressed fears of the consequences. The spider seems to have reappeared the last few days, several growers reporting them in their yards, but there is no danger from this source on the present crop, at least, although they may increase to an alarming extent in the future.

Hop pickers are numerous, very few growers finding any difficulty in securing all the help they need, and it seems the old custom will still be followed, of families from the city taking their vacation in the hop yards earning spending money for winter. Experience has proved that these people who go for an outing make the best pickers and hardest workers.

The Producers' Price Current of New York City in the last issue, Saturday, August 15, says:

Receipts for week..... 1,230 Bales. Receipts from Sept. 1..... 83,192 Receipts same time last year..... 83,388 Exports to Europe for week..... 418 Exports from Sept. 1..... 38,975 Exports same time last year..... 42,010 Imports from Sept. 1..... 11 Imports same time last year..... 12,552

The market has worked into a very much stronger position on all useful grades of hops. Offerings have shortened up so much that brewers and dealers who have wanted stock for current needs have had much difficulty in finding it. Holders of the remaining lots feel so confident of the situation that they are asking an advance of 100 cents per pound, and the higher prices have been realized for both the state and Pacific coast hops.

FUNERAL POSTPONED.—The funeral of Mrs. Lydia Stevens was postponed. It will be held at 3 o'clock today at the First Baptist church. Rev. F. W. Cliffe, pastor, will conduct the services. The interment will be at the I. O. O. F. cemetery. There will be a car in waiting for those desiring to go to the cemetery.

EARLY MORNING CONFLAGRATION

Thomas Holman Fanning Mill Factory Burned to the Ground

BUILDING CONTAINED NUMBER OF FANNING MILLS, BESIDES SOME VALUABLE MACHINERY, AND TOTAL LOSS IS ESTIMATED AT ABOUT $5000.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The warehouse and fanning mill factory belonging to Thomas Holman, on High street, adjoining the Willamette Valley Prune Association's packing house, caught fire through some unknown cause, about 3 o'clock this morning and was burned completely to the ground with all of its contents, several pieces of valuable machinery, entailing a loss of about $5000 to the owner.

The fire was at first discovered by the engineer at the electric light station, but it was some time before communication could be obtained with the fire department and the building was beyond recovery when the department arrived upon the scene. It arrived none too soon, however, to save a number of other adjacent buildings which had already ignited from the intense heat of the burning building.

There is still considerable interest among dealers for contracts on the new crop, 20 cents being freely offered for contracts, on hops of such quality as will be produced in the different yards.

The Oregon State Press Association will meet in Salem this year. The executive committee is leaving the time for the Salem people to name. President Arthur Conklier before calling the meeting would very much like an expression from the citizens here. The attendance will be about 100, and the members will represent all sections of Oregon. There are about 230 newspapers printed in this state.
