was lacking. During the races the grandstand was literally packed, and at ed, and thousands were outside patronlzing the stands and side-shows and visiting the stock department.

Great interest is being centered on the excellent county exhibits. The magnificent prizes, aggregating $1300, county exhibits, have brought forth the best products which can be produced in the fertile soil of the greatest agricultural state in the union, and to the ordinary observer there does not seem to be much chance for a decision as to which is best.

The grand pavilion has many times been filled to overflowing with exhibits in the contest for the premiums offered, but never before presented such a splendid appearance as at present. Poor specimens have all been eliminated, and the space filled with only the choicest which it is possible to produce or make. Union county was not given a place because the exhibit did not arrive until after the awards were made. The corner occupied by "Old Polk" county traction, and the expression was general that Prof. Coate had rendered a wise decision, as the wonderful display really deserved first place.

Mrs. F. A. Wolf, of Falls City, gathered the display from Polk's choicest products and her success is partly due to her extraordinary taste in arranging the display. In this she was assisted by her charming daughter, Miss Bella, who now presides over the blue ribbon corner. In the exhibit are twentysix specimens of dried fruits, over 200 specimens of canned frufts, 60 varietles of oats, 70 varieties of wheat, 80 different kinds of choice potatoes, besides innumerable fresh fruits and vegetables. A ladder twenty feet high is built entirely of twelve kinds' of wheat. An immense Liberty bell in the corner, suspended from the ceiling, attracts the most attention. It is composed of oats, with a wheat clap- which have been in operation in the per, and the crack in one side has not city during the past many months been omitted.
