It was assumed in this connection that the fact of the Governor's absence from the state does not consticlause of the Constitution is meant to be construed, wherein it is provided as follows:

"In case of the removal of the Governor from office or his death, resignation or inability to discharge the duties of his office, the same shall devolve upon the Secretary of State."

This decision, if sustained by the supreme court, will go on record as an important ruling, for the reason that it establishes a precedent, whereby the Secretary of State shall stand authorized to act and become exofficio Governor of Oregon in the event the Chief Executive is out of the state.

W. T. Hume, attorney for Dalton, gave notice of an appeal to the supreme court, and the matter will probably go before that tribunal at once. In the meantime there is a stay of execution, and Dalton will remain

(Governor Chamberlain, upon his arrival last evening, and after being apprised of the status of the Dalton case, informed District Attorney Manning that he would issue a warrant direct if it was necessary, and it is quite probable that this will be done in order to avoid further delay in the extradition of Dalton.)
