

THE CITY

Licensed to Wed.
County Clerk Roland yesterday afternoon issued a marriage license to Henry Bruer and Mrs. Josephine Fielding, the license being witnessed by I. W. Berry.

To Indiana.
Rev. P. C. Hetzel, well known in this city, now resides in Los Angeles, and passed through here recently en route to Peru, Indiana, where he formerly lived.

Ill at His Home.
Lawrence Mathies, a student of the Northwest Normal and Business College, is sick at his home near Chomawa, on R.F. D. Route No. 9.

Delegates Appointed.
Mayor F. W. Waters has appointed Col. T. C. Smith, C. L. Johnson and Otto Hanson as delegates to the International Mining Congress to be held in Portland, August 22 next.

School Institute.
Supt. L. R. Traver of the city schools, and Prof. C. H. Jones, editor of the Oregon Teachers' Monthly, returned yesterday from Tillamook, where they went on Wednesday last to attend the county teachers' institute. Prof. Traver was one of the instructors. State Superintendent Ackerman was also present, and a very successful teachers' meeting was reported.

At His Office Today.
Gov. Chamberlain returned to Salem from Portland last night, and will be at his office today. He will leave for the Democratic National convention at St. Louis on Thursday.

Quarterly Conference.
The third quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was held at the church parlors last night under the direction of Presiding Elder D. A. Waters. The meeting was devoid of incident, routine matters only receiving attention.

In Paris.
Rev. Wm. Manning received a letter from his son, Prof. W. A. Manning, Ph. D., written from the Grand Hotel des Etrangers, 2 Rue Racine and Boulevard St. Michel, Paris, where he arrived June 10. Prof. Manning visited Liverpool and London and took the Folkestone Boulogne route to Paris. He will probably remain there some months prosecuting his researches in higher mathematics.

New Law Books.
State Librarian J. B. Putnam was busy yesterday registering and filing a lot of new books at the State Library. Among them were some very rare old books. Edward Coke, Milite, J. C., Institutes of the Laws of England in four volumes, 1797; Summary of the Roman Civil Law, four volumes, published in 1849; Code Napoleon, translated by Richards and published under a decree issued in 1803; McQuillin's Municipal Ordinances; Mohun on Warehousemen; (this is the first publication on warehouse law issued. The American Law Record in fifteen volumes; twelve volumes, and Weekly Notes of Pennsylvania Cases, forty-four volumes with digest. The Oregon State Library is fast becoming one of the most complete law libraries in the United States.

New Corporations.
The Mural Irrigation Company of Summerville, Union county, filed articles of incorporation yesterday in the department of corporations with the object of appropriation of the waters of Stanley creek for general rental, sale and distribution for irrigating and household and domestic consumption. They evidently do not desire to be considered as one of the "water trusts," for the company's capital is seventy dollars. Thirty-three per cent of its capital will be used up in paying the filing fees. H. L. Johnson, W. E. Dunle and L. Leak are the incorporators. W. E. Grace, E. P. Jodenson and N. E. Dodd of Baker City, also filed papers incorporating the Haines Drug Co., which will conduct a retail drug store at Haines, Oregon. Capital $1500.

Narrow Escape.
Mr. Charles M. Walker and another gentleman had a very narrow escape from what might have proven a very serious accident yesterday afternoon. They were sitting in Mr. Walker's buggy at the watering tank at the corner of Commercial and State streets when something frightened the team, and it jumped forward. The tongue of the buggy broke on the tank and the team started to run. Both gentlemen jumped from the vehicle and escaped without accident, while the team ran across the street to the Red Front drug store and fell on the sidewalk. One horse suffered a severe cut on the upper lip, but aside from breaking the buggy tongue, no further damage resulted.

Game Chicken With Three Legs.
Frank Grierson, who lives four miles below Salem, on the river road, has a game chicken with three legs. He is a small chicken yet, only a couple of days old, but his three legs are perfectly developed ones. Mr. Grierson has been hoping for a chicken of this kind, for he has heard a great deal of boasting by Councilman Frank Smith, who is a prize fighting rooster of the game kind. Mr. Smith is one of the buyers for Steusloff Bros., the butchers and packers of this city, and his game rooster is well known. The fact is, this game rooster has been at the farm of Mr. Grierson for some time, and he may be the father of the new chicken with three legs. When the new chicken grows up, if he ever does, he should be able to lock any two-legged rooster in the country. This new three-legged bird was in the Statesman office a good part of the day yesterday, in order to see and be seen, and he was a lively little fellow, apparently good for all the expectations Mr. Grierson has for him.

A Bad Eye.
Claud Gatch is carrying around a bandaged and a painful eye that has been under the care of the doctor for a day or two. It came about from the handling of paper money at the Ladd & Bush bank, where Mr. Gatch is employed and has been for so many years. Mr. Gatch is usually very careful in the handling of paper money, as are all bank people who are acquainted with its dangers. But this time he rubbed "greenbacks" in a careless manner, and "greenbacks" and conveyed a germ thereto, which caused the soreness, requiring the attention of the physician and the bandage. There is nothing more filthy than money, and especially paper money. It goes everywhere, into all sorts of dirty places, being possessed and handled by all degrees of filthy and diseased people. The paper used in the making of bank notes, silver certificates, gold notes and the other money going generally under the name of "greenbacks" is of a kind that easily collects and retains filth and foreign matter. Senator Ankeny of Washington, who owns several banks at Walla Walla and Eastern Oregon, when he was a younger and less wealthy man, and did a good deal of his own work in his original bank, had a bad experience in the handling of paper money. He had a sore on his face, and disease germs were conveyed from the paper money to the sore by a careless movement of the hand which resulted in a serious breaking out and the doctors had to do some cutting and some burning with powerful chemicals before they got rid of the sore that came from the "greenback" germs.

Another Permit Issued.
Hiram H. Saxton and Lena Prunk received a marriage permit from County Clerk Roland yesterday. The necessary affidavit was furnished by C. L. Irwin.

At Atlantic City.
Senator John H. Mitchell is now at the American Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J., but will be in Portland about a week after the middle of July. He is in good health, but is resting up after the very strenuous session of Congress which recently closed.

Officers Elected.
From the journals of the Supreme Lodge A. O. U. W., just received from Chattanooga, Tenn., it is learned that the following supreme officers were elected for the ensuing year: Supreme Master, Will M. Narvis, of Iowa; supreme foreman, William M. Colvig, of Oregon; supreme overseer, Joseph A. Exstein, of Minnesota; supreme recorder, M. W. Sackett, of Pennsylvania; supreme receiver, Henry D. Dickinson, of New York; supreme guide, Louis C. Merrill, of New Hampshire; supreme watchman, S. B. Ritchie, of Montana; supreme medical examiner, Dr. D. H. Shields, of Missouri.

Attraction For State Fair.
Emily Lindsay Squier, the wonderful child eleventh and impersonator, has been engaged for the State Fair. On account of the fact that the street railway company will build its loop, thus enabling them to handle larger crowds and to give a more satisfactory service generally, the State Fair Board will make the evening entertainments more attractive than they have ever been, and the renowned child eleventh and impersonator will be one of the features. Although she is only 10 years old, this girl has filled two Chautauques and the Indianapolis Journal says "she is rightly designated a prodigy." She is in fact, one of the greatest child entertainers in the United States, and the State Fair Board is fortunate in securing her services. The fact that she is a sister of Mrs. Francesco Seley, of this city, is one of the reasons why they were able to secure her services for fair week.

A Monster Horn.
Salem now has one of the biggest horns in the United States or elsewhere. There are only four or five in the whole country as large as the new one that has arrived. The cost of the horn was $350; more than is paid for the average piano. This horn is the property of John F. Steelhammer, and its wonderful, smooth, full tones will hereafter delight the people of this city, and of the United States Indian Training School at Chemawa. This monster instrument was in the show room of Geo. C. Will Thursday afternoon, and it attracted a great deal of attention. It is a BB flat bass horn, silver plated, and 25 inches across the bell. It looks like it would weigh 100 pounds, but it is not heavy. The manufacturers in Chicago had to make an extra tank for plating it. It is a Van Cleve instrument. The monster horn will be in the show room of Mr. Will again this (Saturday) afternoon.

LOUIS VIVETT, ACCUSED OF MURDER OF L. B. SAUNDERS, DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF THE CRIME.

Admits He Was In Butteville the Night of Saunders' Death, But Stoutly Denies His Connection Therewith—Maintains Cheerful Demeanor.

Louis Vivett, the young man who is accused of the crime of murdering L. B. Saunders of Butteville, on the night of November 18, last, and who was placed under arrest in Portland on Saturday of last week, was brought to Salem on Sunday morning by Constable Beach of Woodburn, and placed in the Marion county jail for safe keeping. Vivett will be taken to Woodburn this morning and at 9 o'clock will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Overton, out of whose court the warrant of arrest was issued.

On the morning of November 19, 1903, Leroy B. Saunders, a prominent citizen of Butteville, was found dead upon a sidewalk of that little town, with a bullet hole in his left temple, an old revolver lying within a few feet of the body and another being found in his coat pocket. The revolver found near the body contained two empty shells and it was thought at first that Saunders had committed suicide. The investigation made by the coroner's jury, however, convinced that body that a murder had been committed, and a verdict to that effect was rendered.

On the morning of November 18, Mr. Saunders left his home in Butteville

November 18, and was in Strain's saloon when Mr. Saunders and his companions were engaged in a game of cards. According to his story he left the saloon between the hours of 11 and 12 that night and proceeded directly to the Golding farm in a skiff. Upon arriving at the house he took off his shoes to avoid making any noise, as was his custom, and went up stairs. He remained at the Golding farm for two months after the murder, then spent two weeks at home visiting his mother, after which he returned to the Golding farm and worked at cutting wood for another week. He then went to Portland and secured employment as deck hand on the river schooner Sarah Dixon, which plys between Portland and Clatskanie. He was at work on the boat when arrested last Saturday, and his arrest, he says, came as a complete surprise.

Vivett does not fear the outcome of the case and is confident he will be discharged after the hearing this morning.

THE OLD TIMERS

THIS DEPARTMENT OF THE SUNDAY STATESMAN RESUMED AFTER A REST.

Where Some of the People Who Formerly Resided in and Around Salem Are Now Living, and What They Are Doing in Their New Homes.

(From Sunday's Daily.)
(Some weeks ago the Statesman opened an "Old Timers" Department," which attracted no little attention. This department will be continued in the Sunday issue indefinitely. It is the intention in this department to give the present whereabouts and occupations of people who formerly resided in Marion and Polk counties. The Statesman solicits the help of its readers in keeping this department full and interesting.)
Bliss D. Rickey, a former well known Salem young man, is assistant city engineer for the municipality of San Francisco. He has become a very competent surveyor and he has forty to fifty men under him in his department. He has elegant quarters and is in every way very well satisfied.
Herbert (Bert) Hatch, who all old Salemites knew as a young man here, is with Hatch Bros., who own a line of steamers running between Vallejo and Mare Island, near San Francisco. Bert is captain of the Monticello. Hatch Bros. (Z. J. and Charles) used to give the Ohio and the Salem, running on the Willamette. They have recently purchased for their line the Arrow, a fast boat that was built for the Puget Sound trade.

with about $200 on his person out of which amount he paid several bills to merchants of that town the payments aggregating about $150. He spent the evening playing cards in a Butteville saloon, conducted by L. O. Strain, and shortly after midnight started for his home. Strain, C. W. Whitney and John McInish, who had all been indulged in the card game with Mr. Saunders, left the saloon a few minutes later, and after proceeding about a block they heard the report of two pistol shots, in fact, saw the flash of the last one, about a half a block distant, in the direction of Mr. Saunders' home. For some reason or other they failed to make an investigation and it was not until 7 o'clock in the morning that the terrible tragedy was discovered. The death of Mr. Saunders remained a mystery and even though the Marion county court a few months later offered a reward of $300 for the apprehension of the murderer, there were no new developments in the case until last Saturday when Louis Vivett was placed under arrest, charged with the crime.

When seen by a Statesman reporter yesterday afternoon Vivett was cheerful, and did not have the appearance of a man worrying over a terrible crime or who felt that the gallows was staring him in the face. He answered all questions freely and without hesitation, and stoutly denied his guilt, evidently considering himself but a mere victim of unfortunate circumstances. He is a pleasant appearing young fellow of French extraction, with some native Indian blood in his veins. He was born in Butteville, twenty-eight years ago, and has since made his home in that neighborhood, his mother being now a resident of St. Paul.

At the time of the Saunders murder Vivett was employed on the Golding farm, about one and a half miles north of, and across the Willamette river from Butteville. He admits having been in Butteville the evening of No-
