A County's Debt.

Clackamas county has $66,302.83 in unredeemed warrants.

Eight Acres Net $712.85.

Eight acres of berries on the Keating place near the Davidson hill on the west side produced strawberries which sold for $1198.55. Taking out $485.70 for expense of cultivation and marketing, there was left a net profit of $712.85. Can the Iowa corn farmers make as good a showing?—Hood River Glacier.

Too Long a Drive.

J. J. Hall has resigned as carrier of rural free delivery route No. 1 out of Wodburn, and Wm. G. Walker has been appointed as his successor, with Wm. B. Walker as substitute. An extension of six miles has been made to this route which Postmaster Tooze says is of unreasonable length, thirty miles, for the salary paid the carrier, and the extension does not give the government sufficient recompense for it being made.—Indpendent.

Improvements at Cascade Locks.

People coming up the river tell of work going on at the locks, where a force of men are repairing one of the principal valves and riprapping and paving the slopes on either side of the locks. They say it is no easy task to remove the valve which is as large as a good sized door and very heavy. Thirty men are now employed and in August twice that number will go to work, when $15,000 will be spent in three dwellings, a machine shop and a stable.—Hood River Glacier.

At Mount Hood.

Mountain climbers who have returned from Mount Hood report having encountered there myriads of large brown butterflies with which the sides and the summit of the mountain are so completely covered that one cannot put forth their hand without striking them * * The exceeding hot weather of last week is melting the snows rapidly and great patches of the mountain which have not previously been exposed within teh memory of man are becoming barren of snow. With the thaw great masses of rock are loosened and come tumbling down from thousands of feet with a roar to exceed that of the fiercest cannonading. The waters of all streams are milkwhite from the volcanic ash set free by the melting ice.

Lost on Horses.

A number of Yakima horse dealers have lost considerable money this summer on shipments to Miles City, Mont. In one instance horses worth from $30 to $75 were sold there after being shipped from Yakima for $10 to $15, after paying the freight.—Herald.

Was After Some "Dough."

One night last week an itinerant was jugged by Deputy Marshal Beach for butting in, etc. In the morning he was permitted to go on his way. When he got to Salem, that city of hungry lawyers, he sent a letter to City Attorney Corby threatening to sue Woodburn for damages, but felt generous and offered to settle with the city for the sum of $500.—Woodburn Independent.

Not Monkey With an Owl Face.

R. C. Hall, who owns a farm three and a half miles south of Independence, Polk county, passed through the city Wednesday. He had with him a freak owl, with a monkey face, and the bird is one of the strangest curiosities that has ever been seen here. Mr. Hall is taking the owl to the Homer Davenport farm at the exposition.—Oregon City Courier.

Practical Work Better Than Talk.

People are beginning to wonder what has become of that Douglas County Good Roads Association that was organized about a month ago. It takes more than one day's talk to make good roads. Talk is all right in effecting an organization to keep the movement going, but practical work must be applied in an intelligent way in building good, permanent roads. We need them.—Roseburg Review.

Yaquina Bay Getting Busy.

The harbor of Yaquina bay is this year a far busier place than in many years. A number of steamers enter and bring and take away cargoes. The Robarts, sailing between the mouth of the Umpqua and Coos Bay, makes regular trips to Yaquina bay, and the steamer Arago, from Coos Bay, has been a regular caller for the past few months, making regular trips to Yaquina. Shipping lines have their eyes on the bay and with the depth of the water on the bar—fifteen feet at low tide—and with a fine harbor, the safest on the coast, there is no reason why Yaquina bay should not soon become an important point on the Oregon coast.—Herald.

Many Grain Sacks Out.

More than 11,000 sacks were distributed to farmers by the Red Crown mill manager at Albany on Thursday, the same to be used for the coming wheat crop.

Team and Buggy Disappear.

A well dressed stranger, giving his name as Horn on Wednesday afternoon hired a team and buggy at the feed barn in the rear of the Russ House, and up to a late hour last evening he had not returned the team nor could his whereabouts be located. The officers are searching for the man and team, and are convinced the felleow drove the rig away with no intention of returning. The man acted in a peculiar manner. He drove the team to the depot and spent some little time at a saloon near there, later driving into the country. At 9 o'clock on Wednesday night he telephoned the barn that he was at Granger and was on his way with the team. He failed to appear, and yesterday morning the matter was placed in the hands of the officers. Yesterday forenoon a report reached the officers that the man had been seen earlier in the forenoon passing through Independence, and it is believed that he is making his way for Portland, where he will doubtless try to sell the team.

The man is described as tall and dark with a sandy mustache, dressed in dark clothing. One of the horses is a gray branded "Y" on the left hip and bearing a scar on the neck and left foreleg. The other is a black mare. A black buggy with the hear of the top torn, completes the outfit. Ashepherd dog follows the rig and will stay with it. The actions of the fellow led the officers to believe that he was demented. Among other things he told about town before leaving was that he had $300 in the safe of one of the saloons of the city, and other as improbable stories were told by him. Every city north of here has been notified to be on the lookout for the fellow and it is thought that he cannot get away.—Albany Herald.

Typhoid Fever.

Pendleton has some cases of typhoid fever, two of which are very serious.

Who Is It?

The following appears in the McMinnville Reporter of July 28: Wanted—To make the acquaintance of an educated woman of domestic habits; object matrimony. Address Lock Box 503, Salem, Or.

Another R. F. D.

Charles Kelley has been appointed carrier on the new rural route, No. 4, emanating from the McMinnville country. Mr. Kelley took the examination recently for a place on the eligible list and his grade of 98.5 secured for him the first appointment.

High Wheat Near Silverton.

J. C. Warnock brought in some very fine samples of white Eden wheat on Tuesday, which measured six feet, with heads 5½ to 6 inches in length, and is conclusive of the possibilities of wheat growing in this vicinity. The field from which this sample was taken will make from forty-five to fifty bushels per acre.—Silverton Appeal.

Growing Corn in Yamhill.

A representative of the cannery company that sent out the seed corn last spring was in town Tuesday, and Mr. Cooper and some others drove over the country with him to view the growing crops, which give promise of good returns. Mr. Cooper was instrumental in having the corn sent here, and he is gratified to know that the man who is interested in the cannery away back in Iowa is very favorably impressed with this section, as well as with the progress the experimental crop is making.—McMinnville Reporter.

To Light Washington's Penitentiary.

The Northwestern Gas & Electric Company has made a proposition to the state board of control to light the state penitentiary near Walla Walla with electricity and gas. President Anderson and Secretary Allen were in Olympia yesterday and had a consultation with J. H. Davis, one of the members of the board, relative to entering into a contract with the state for furnishing all the light and power for the prison. At present the institution provides its own light and power.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Yamhill's School Population.

There are 5,556 children of school age in Yamhill county. This is 447 more than were of school age in the county last year. Last year the 5,109 pupils were taught by 158 teachers, and the expense of maintaining other public schools of the county was $60,701.19.

Cold Storage Plant.

An extensive poultry farm will soon be one of the sights near Walla Walla, Wash., 22½ acres of land having been bought for the purpose. A cold storage place will be erected on the place to the value of $20,000, and the structure will be used for the storage of eggs and dressed chickens before shipment to the Puget sound and other points.

Sell Poor Apples.

Eugene lads, in order to secure pin money, are vending a rather poor article of apples and other edible fruit to passengers on the overland trains. These disreputable looking offerings are not calculated to inspire the easterner with a belief in the productiveness of Oregon soil. It would be far better to have good fruit dispensed free of charge by a committee than to seel poor fruit at any price.—Register.

Contract Let.

Chief Engineer Davis of the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook railway, let the contracts last week for considerable of the work to be done along the line to Banks. H. H. Clark and James Wilson of this city got the contract for clearing the right of way from Hillsboro to Banks. They have to clear it of all trees and brush, and put it in shape for the graders. They went down Monday morning and commenced work.

Carstens Bros. & Hartley of Manning, W. H. Lyda of Greenville and Thompson Bros. of Mountaindale will furnish timber for the bridges, as well as ties for the road. The Atlas Contract & Supply Company of San Francisco has the general contract for grading and laying track, and they announce that they have already ordered the rails for ten miles of track, which will begin to come by September 1.

The contract for grading the first three miles has been let to Thompson Bros., and they will start work as soon as the men and implements can be got together.—Forest Grove Times.

Don't Want to Sell.

The farmers around Lewiston, Idaho, are holding their wheat for a better price than 68 and 69 cents, which has been offered them.

W. of W. Organizer.

Mrs. N. J. Lottritz, an organizer for the Women of Woodcraft, was in the city from Portland last evening on her way on an organizing tour through Harney, Grant, Baker and Malheur counties. She expects to travel 1,000 miles by stage coach during the next three months.—Pendleton E. O.

Lightning Damages Telephones.

While the lightning last Tuesday did not seem very severe it had the effect of putting 133 'phones out of commission in this city, and Lineman Riley has been as busy as a cranberry merchant ever snce. The business of the local telephone exchange is growing very rapidly, so much so, in fact, that orders for the installation of 'phones are piling in too rapidly for the force to keep up with.—Dayton Courier-Press.

Fire Spread From Cannery.

While there was no means of fighting the flames which destroyed the buildings at Dalles fishery yesterday, Seufert Bros. and their men bent their efforts to keep the flames from spreading through the dry grass to the wheat fields above. As it was, over sixty acres of ground were burned over. Fortunately, however, it was stopped on the north side of the hill and the fire did not reach the grain.—The Dalles Chronicle.

Heavy Travel to the Seaside.

Yesterday's train from the Yaquina bay was the heaviest one yet taken this season during the week. The train on leaving here contained six coaches, and every seat was filled with seventy-five passengers from west side points, waiting at Corvallis to take the train for Newport. So heavy was the travel that nearly every coach here was taken out to accommodate the traffic, and after the train arrived at Yaquina a special brought the empty coaches back to this city, in order to accommodate the excursion travel this morning. It is expected that the excursion will take over fully six carloads and possibly seven coaches will have to be used.—Albany Herald, July 30.

Another O. R. & N. Train.

Railroad men at La Grande are awaiting with feverish impatience the result of the efforts in Pendleton to secure another passenger train between Portland and Huntington.

Such a train means the immediate promotion of four freight engineers, four firemen and two conductors, and the hiring of four new passenger brakemen.

For this reason another train would be a momentous event in La Grande and the pulse of the company is being closely watched by employes while the agitation for the new train is being carried on.

The passenger conductors and brakemen on such a train would run from Huntington to Pendleton, as the other crews now run, and from Pendleton to Portland. Two passenger conductors would also be promoted from the Portland division for the run.

The engine crews would run from Umatilla to La Grande and from La Grande to Huntington. It would mean that four more conductors and eight more brakemen would make their headquarters in this city and would give employment to more mail clerks and train baggagemen.

Woolen Mill to Resume Operations.

Work will be resumed in the woolen mills after a two months' rest, as soon as the motors that have been contracted for by the management arrive in the city. The steam motive force that has been used for so many years in the production of woolen goods has been discarded, and the more reliable and less troublesome electricity substituted. There will be two motors, one of fifteen and the other of twenty-five horse power installed at the plant. It is the intention of the management to use the former for scouring, picking and wet finishing, and the larger for the looms and other machinery in the main building. John Vaughan has charge of putting in the motor, and he will place them in position in a few days.

The first work will be in the scouring department, and the first lot of wool, as soon as it is prepared, will go on through the different machinery until the finished article results.

The wool for the mill has been contracted for and will be supplied to the mill as it is needed, by Jack Brown, the wool man. The work is in charge of W. J. Welch of Philadelphia, who has had large experience in this line, and is considered to be an expert. Mr. Welch is in communication with all the old help, and several new carders and weavers have been offered positions in the mill. The same line of goods as before will be manufactured and there are several large orders already on hand. Mr. Ferguson, the manager, looks for a very successful season, and has made arrangements to have the product handled over the northwest.—Pendleton E. O.

RACE MEETING AT INDEPENDENCE PULLED OFF IN PRESENCE OF LARGE CROWD.

Park Holmes' Dell Wilkes Carries Off Principal Event, 2:30 Trot, in Good Time—Several Salem Horses Entered in Different Events.

INDEPENDENCE, Or., July 29.—(Special to Statesman.)—Notwithstanding the sultriness of the weather the race meeting, which took place here this afternoon, was the most successful of the season and was witnessed by a crowd of not less than 1,100 people from different points of the valley. There were four events, and each one was a feature in itself. Although dusty the track was in excellent condition and some good time was made. The program was carried out as arranged and without the slightest delay, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators.

The principal event of the day's program, the 2:30 trot, for a purse of $50, two best in three, was carried off by Park Holmes' Dell Wilkes, who made the circle in an average of 1:19½. The second race, known as the Independence Driving Club Stake, half mile trot, was won by Will Roswell's Ted R., of Rickreall; time, 1:35½. The buggy horse race was captured by J. N. Scott's Freak, Salem, who made the round in 1:19½.

Among the Salem horses which took part in the meet were Rev. Belknap's Zombro filly, and Neptune, both excellent animals, and three horses owned and driven by J. N. Scott. The officers of the course, who proved themselves very efficient and satisfactory in their decisions and manner of conducting the events, were: J. B. Stetson, starter; G. A. Westgate, Albany, and J. W. Kirkland, Independence, judges; D. L. Woodworth, Albany, and Asa Statts, Independence, timekeepers.

The next big race meeting is being arranged for hop picking time and preparations are under way to make it one of the best that has ever been held in the valley, outside of the state fair, and an effort will be made to secure an attendance of not less than 5,000 people. An excellent program will be prepared and the hop men of the district have signified their willingness and desire to lend every assistance possible toward making the meeting a success.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked, I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Dan'l J. Fry's drug store; price 50c.

COULD NOT STAND WATER.

Italians Flee From Stream Turned on Them by Great Falls Firemen.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 28.—A big gang of Italian strikers was ejected from Montana Central railway cars yesterday afternoon with the tid of the fire department. The men were brought out here from St. Paul to work at Bernice, and on Sunday went on a strike. They were brought here and on being tendered their pay refused it unless they were given free transportation to St. Paul. This was refused and they in turn refused to leave two coaches until their terms were complied with. The railway people called on the authorities to put the men out, and fearing that many of them were armed and thV atbloodshed might result the mayor ordered out the fire department.

Several streams of water were turned into the cars and in a brief space of titme they were empty. A switch engine soon had the cars out of reach of the Italians. Last night box cars were placed at the disposal of the men.

Northwest Mine News

J. C. Lee and W. D. Sleep of the firm of J. C. Lee & Co. of this city, left yesterday with a large party to visit the Great Northern mine in the Blue river district. Among those constituting the party are Dr. W. B. Morse of this city, Dr. Hodges, H. A. Cleek, R. Montague, J. W. Smith of Albany, and Dr. Blake of Chicago. They expect to return Wednesday and will bring the latest news from the different mines in the Blue river and Calipooia districts, which are two of the most, if not the most, promising mining camps in Oregon.

The Gold Harvest.

The annual harvest of gold in Baker county is now commencing. The placer mines throughout the county are shutting down for the season and the cleanups are being made. From present indications the amount of gold taken from these mines this year will exceed any record heretofore made. The only limit to the wealth acquired thus far has been the ability to get water on the grounds. Those who worked early and finished the season in time will release their water rights to others who have been patiently waiting to make a fast run at the end of the season.

In the quartz mines the summer workings are more extensive this year than before and the results are telling wonderful tales of hidden wealth in the heart of the mountains. Many of the mines are making the biggest runs of their existence and they are getting big results. Everywhere throughout the district there is a marked increase in work and development and within a few years there will be more dividend paying mines in Baker county than any district in the northwest.—Herald.

A Fine Mining Proposition.

Dr. A. J. Hodges returned last night from Eugene, where he had been to attend a meeting of the stockholders of the Great Northern Mining Company, in which Albany men have recently purchased about $25,000 stock at 25 cents. Yesterday the new company's bond of $50,000 was paid off and the property formally deeded to the new company reorganized the first of the year with Scott Standish as the president. The mine was discovered by W. B. and J. H. Glass, W. W. Robe and J. R. Templeton, who bonded it for $50,000. With a four stamp mill the property has been paying big. In a few weeks a Huntington 70-ton mill will be run, meaning a yearly income of $200,000 or $300,000, perhaps more. A ½c dividend will be declared in August and then 1½ per cent dividends monthly. The property has been advanced from 25c to 50c and will probably go higher, as it is undoubtedly a permanent and sure dividend maker. The Great Northern is on this side the mountain, and as soon as the Calapooia wagon road is completed will look to Albany for its supplies, as well as other mines on the Linn county side.

Quartzburg Is Busy.

Attorney W. G. Drowley has returned from a professional trip into the John Day country, where he went to look up the title to some placer ground, says the Inland Empire Miner. He says that there is more work going on in the Quartzburg district than ever before; that there are now about 100 men employed there.

The Standard alone has more than twenty-five and that number will soon be doubled, as large quantities of high grade ore is blocked out, and by the time the mill is ready to treat it there will be enough in sight to supply it for a year.

The Copperopolis also has a large force at work, the mill is finished, and the production stage is rapidly approaching. Zoeth Houser's mill on the Dixie is running steadily, and he is also working the Present Need under bond. A half dozen other properties are being worked in a small way.

Placers Are Rich.

W. J. Wimer, manager of the Deep Gravel mine, near Waldo, took the season clean-up of his mine to Grants Pass the past week, the total aggregating about 1,155 ounces, worth about $19.05 an ounce. The manager stated that this was one of the best clean-ups ever made on the property, and it may safely be said to be among the best that are being made in southern Oregon of late years. When one placer mine, operating a small crew, is able to wash more than $20,000 out of the gravel in a few months, the possibilities of the placer elds are better appreciated.

Report on Golconda.

A complete report on the Golconda mine has been rendered to the present management by D. M. Watters, showing the faces of ore at the time of suspending work underground by the former management, the size of the ore chutes that have been mined and those now in the drifts and stopes, says the Inlend Empire Miner.

There is enough ore in sight to resume milling, without further development, but the management is getting considerable reserves, so as to be able to maintain an average head and not be troubled with the uncertainties of hunting ore.

When the Golconda closed under the former management, the stopes were down to the 3.. level. One great ore shoot has been mined from the surface to that depth, the shoot at times having a length of 250 feet and a maximum width of twenty-five feet of milling rock. This shoot occurred at a point where the great vein had a width of eighty-five feet to ninety feet, and was on the hanging wall, dipping toward the footwall.

There were masses of ore that ran just a little below milling values. By opening the ground far ahead of the mill and mixing with this lower grade rock some of the rich ore that is found at frequent intervals, a large average reserve is secured. The present management intends to proceed with its work in this manner, mining the Golconda on the plan of the successful work done at the Columbia and North Pole and utilizing the large masses of low and medium grade ore already in sight.

Strike in the Siskiyous.

E. C. Faucett was in Medford Tuesday, having come in to have a piece of ore assayed, which he had taken from a ledge six miles west of Sterling mountain. The ore showed values of $26 to the ton of gold, and the ledge from which it comes is twelve feet in width and has been traced by Mr. Faucett for several miles on both sides of the mountain. The ore is ochre quartz in a gneiss formation and is the only ledge ever found of this kind of ore in the Siskiyou range. And thereby hangs a tale. Forty or more years ago a perinegrating German prospector came through from the other side of the mountain and exhibited a piece of ochre quartz float which he said he had found somewhere near Sterling mountain, describing the place as well as he could. The man to whom he showed the ore paid little attention to it, as in those days the bars along the Applegate afforded rich diggings. Finally, after the original finder had been gone several years, he concluded to have the specimens left with him assayed. The result showed $66 in gold to the ton. Then commenced the hunt for the ledge from which the peculiar looking piece of ore had come. Nothing like it had ever ben seen in that range before and it would seem easy to find it; but the searchers returned empty handed.

For over thirty years prospectors have hunted for that mysterious ledge of ochre quartz without success. The finder himself has put in several seasons looking for it. At last the ledge was found, as many other valuable mines have been found—by accident. last spring while on a prospecting trip Faucett's horses escaped from him, and while following their trail he noticed a peculiar looking piece of rock and naturally picked it up. It was the ochre quartz. He took notice of his surroundings. The lay of the country was the same as the old German had described it. Half a mile away was the little spring where he had camped—the German had found the ore about that distance from a little spring. He had found the float from the ochre ledge. Faucett found his horses and returned home. Shortly afterward he returned and in a little time had traced the float to the main ledge There it was, the yellow colored rock standing out on the surface for anyone to see. He panned the dirt below the ledge and found good prospects. He did sufficient work to show the width of the ledge and traced it over the mountain. Then he took a piece of rock weighing several hundred pounds, which lay on top of the ledge, but of the same character of ore, broke it with a sledge hammer and from the center took a specimen which he had assayed—with a result of $26 to the ton. There is quite a percentage of free gold in the ore with some sulphurets. The gold seems pretty evenly distributed through the rock and indications are that the values will be about the same all the way through the ledge. If this proves true there is a bonanza in the big ledge which Faucett has unearthed. Below the outcropping, where the ore has become thoroughly oxidized, the soil prospects well, showing good values in the ledge. The "Lost Cabin" still remains to be found, but the old German's ochre quartz ledge has been found.—Mail.
