

IT IS UNUSUAL

GROWERS CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR PRUNES DROPPING IN LARGE NUMBERS AT THIS TIME.

Though Apparently Healthy and Large Sized, They Turn Blue and Fall—Believed Crop Will Be One Third Short of Earlier Estimate.

The prospect of a light crop of prunes in this state on account of the heat and other destructive agencies, the market has undergone a change for the better the past few days and the growers feel very much encouraged so far as marketing their crop is concerned, and at reasonably profitable prices, even though the product will fall far short of earlier estimates. Reports of an unusual character are coming in of late to the effect that the prunes of all varieties are falling off the trees badly and the yield will fall at least one third short of earlier estimates of 300 car loads.

The regular "June drop" did not materialize this season, as is usual with prunes when all of the fruit which lacks the proper amount of nutrition shrivel and drop, but now the growers complain that prunes which have arrived at a growth which would ordinarily cure at 50-60 size and which under ordinary conditions would mature and ripen, turn a slight bluish color although apparently healthy, and drop. This condition has never existed before, so far as can be remembered, in history of the prune industry in this state and those who are well up in the culture of that variety of fruit attribute it more to the lack of cultivation rather than the elements. The present indications are that the prune growers of Oregon will receive a remunerative price for their product this season as the demand is growing and inquiries are frequent and encouraging.

Market Is Stimulated.

The following, treating upon the prune situation in general, is reproduced from the California Fruit Grower, of July 29:

The prune market so far as growers are concerned is still moving up a notch at a time. Prices, however, in many cases are somewhat what packers can sell or expect to sell at, and there is not a great deal of eastern buying being done at top values. Growers in most cases are holding for 3 cents on Santa Claras, which means 3 1/4 cent selling basis. In view of the low values ruling for so long it would seem difficult to get eastern and foreign buyers' ideas up to this figure. Most packers feel that 3 cents is about the value of prunes, which means 2 1/2 cents to the grower. Statistically, the situation is strong, however. Many packers are offering at 3 1/4 cents, but little business is reported at that figure. Forties and 90s command a premium of 1/4 cent.

In old prunes there are few left except the intermediate sizes, which may be said today to be on the basis of 2 1/4 cents, generally speaking. This is, of course, for strictly sound stock. Advances from Oregon indicate a lessening in estimates of the output there over previous reports and quotations have been advanced on Oregon stock. Holders there are quoting 2 1/2 cent basis for shipment.

IS UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

Feasibility of Watering Over 20,000 Acres of Arid Land Is Proven.

ECHO, Or., Aug. 5.—Prospects that a portion of the arid lands of Western Umatilla will be watered soon, even if the main Umatilla project is badly "in the air," is made almost certain by the recent discovery by reclamation engineers of a feasible project northwest of here, where between 20,000 and 30,000 acres of land, capable of a high degree of cultivation with water, can be irrigated. Most of the land is already in the hands of private individuals, but it is believed these will fall readily in with a proposition the reclamation service will present to them, because the cost of this branch enterprise will not be so great but what the settlers would find it advantageous to fall readily in line. A reservoir is provided naturally by Cold Springs depression. Both Engineers John T. Whistler and Field Engineer Herbert D. Newell are said to approve strongly of this portion of the Umatilla project. Both have given close attention to both Malheur and Umatilla projects, and the work of both has proven extremely popular in eastern Oregon.

FRANK MANGOLD, HARDWARE MERCHANT OF GERVAIS HAS PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Was Attempting to Load Thousand-Pound Water Tank from Depot Platform upon Wagon When Heavy Tank Fell and Struck Him in Small of Back.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

While attempting to unload a half-ton weight water tank onto a wagon from the depot platform at Gervais yesterday afternoon, Frank Mangold, a prominent hardware merchant of that municipality, suffered an accident which came very near resulting in his death. In fact those who are acquainted with the circumstances are marveling over the question of how he ever escaped instant death. As it is he is now lying in his bed at home with a badly bruised and sprained back, under the influence of opiates, and will be compelled to remain there for an indefinite period.

Mr. Mangold, together with three others, was in the act of transferring a 1000-pound water tank from the Gervais depot to a wagon when the vehicle, which was standing upon an incline without blocks under the wheels or team attached, moved ahead and allowed the heavy tank to slip. It tumbled over, in spite of the efforts of the four men, and struck Mr. Mangold in the middle of the back. It was at first thought that his back was broken, but Dr. F. E. Slater of this city was called and a hasty examination proved that, while no bones had been broken, so far as could be discovered, he had sustained a severely painful and serious bruise and wrench to his back which would lay him up for a few weeks. No serious results are anticipated, but the pain was so intense that morphine had to be administered in order that the patient might obtain relief from his suffering.

Mr. Mangold has been a resident of Gervais for the past thirty years. He is about fifty years of age and for several years was the postmaster of Gervais. He is at present engaged in the hardware business and enjoys a large patronage as well as the respect and friendship of all who know him.

Former Salem Boy Meets With a Bad Accident at Woodburn.

George May, a young man who was employed in the Club livery stables of this city for some time, while driving a water tank wagon for a haying machine at Woodburn, met with a severe and serious accident on Sunday. The team became frightened at the engine and at an ox team which was driving by and ran away, throwing Mr. May to the ground, breaking three ribs and dislocating his right shoulder. He was brought to this city and Dr. Reynolds reduced the dislocation and did all he could to make the young man comfortable. He was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, while the young man was in the employ of Mr. Joseph Vincent of Woodburn.

NEXT PRISON CONGRESS.

Governor Chamberlain Asked to Appoint Delegates to Represent This State.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Governor Chamberlain is in receipt of a letter from General Secretary J. L.

Milligan of the National Prison association of the United States, notifying him that the next annual congress of the association will be held at Lincoln, Nebraska, October 21-29 inclusive.

He also states that the association desires him to name as many men or women as official delegates to represent Oregon at the congress as he deems proper.

There is no limit placed on the number to be appointed, "the more named the better our desires and aims will be met," he says. He further states that the delegates need not all be connected officially with the prison and reformatory institutions, the only qualification asked is that they may have an interest in the uplift of humanity.

TWO SALEM COMPANY BOYS WIN HONORS IN SHOOTING TRY-OUT AT ROSEBURG.

Corporal Rider Stands Second on List, While Sergeant White Holds Fourth Place, After First Day's Shoot, Assuring Them Place on State Team.

ROSEBURG, Aug. 4.—(Special to Statesman).—The first day's tryout for the team which is to go to Seargirt, N. J., began today at 800 yards, with 100 points possible, and the total scores are given below. The afternoon's work was at 300 yards, with a possible of fifty points.

As will be noticed, Salem is making a record of which she need not feel ashamed. Corporal Rider, true to his former record, stands second on the list, with 118 points, two below the highest man, and Sergeant White is fourth on the list. The range is fine, and with good weather, some good scores had ought to be made.

The camping ground is a splendid location, and the men are comfortably sheltered in large tents, with cots for beds. With excellent " grub" and freedom to do as they like the boys are enjoying life for all there is in it, and are looking forward with pleasure to the trip east. Following are the complete scores for the first day's shooting:

PLANS A BIG DAY

ANTLERED HERD WILL ASSEMBLE IN LARGE NUMBERS IN PORTLAND ON ELKS' DAY.

Will Celebrate August 16 With Parade and Social Session—Trainsloads Will Attend From All Coast Points—Large Delegation From Salem.

PORTLAND, Aug. 5.—Elks of high and low degree will assemble by the thousands in Portland on Wednesday, August 16, which has been designated "Elks' day" at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The gathering promises to be the biggest herding together of the tribe ever accomplished in the northwest, and local Elks are making elaborate preparations for the reception of the visitors. Special trains will bring large delegations from Salem, Seattle, Tacoma, Bellingham, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Jose, Sacramento, Seattle, Portland, Great Falls, Salt Lake City, Ogden, Denver, Colorado Springs and many other points.

A big parade and probably the largest social session ever held in the northwest are planned as features of the day's celebration. Other details are not yet completed, but a committee headed by Mayor Charles E. Paine, Donnell of the Lewis and Clark centennial guard, exalted ruler of the local herd, has the arrangements in charge. The committee has prepared a poster telling of the coming celebration, which declares that the Elks, both tame and wild, "will be protected to the limit, and they will be well treated in the grassy pastures of the peninsula, or on the rocky heights of the mainland."

Salem Elks Will Be There.

At the regular meeting of the local lodge of Elks, on last Thursday evening, the matter of participating in the exercises upon the occasion of Elks' day at the fair was brought up for informal discussion, when it was unanimously decided that the local lodge would not only turn out in force upon that day, but they would do so in such manner as to sustain the reputation they have always enjoyed upon such occasions. Although no announcements or their intentions would be given out for publication at this time, it is understood, and can well be believed, that nothing will be left undone, nor expense spared, to win new glories and honors for the local organization.

The Salem lodge of Elks has attended every demonstration that has taken place in the Pacific northwest ever since it has been in existence and it has never failed to carry off the first premium, and they do not intend to make an exception of this event. A committee of three, composed of E. J. Durbin, H. J. Ottenheimer and H. E. Albert, has been named to make all necessary arrangements as to costumes, transportation, etc., and this is sufficient to assure the Salem public that the Capital City's reputation as to honor and integrity and excellence of display, will be upheld to the letter. Another meeting of the local lodge will be held upon next Thursday, when, it is presumed, all arrangements will have been completed and announced.

ROADS TO BLAME

SALEM-INDEPENDENCE AUTOMOBILE LINE ABANDONED BECAUSE OF ROUGH ROADS.

Company Could Not Complain of Lack of Patronage, Which Was Good. But Heavy Road Was Shaking the Costly Machine to Pieces.

Once more Salem is to be left without transportation facilities to Independence, and thereby to the other thriving cities of Polk county, and there is little room for the proposed electric car line, which it is hoped will be built between Salem and Independence within the next few months.

Manager M. P. Baldwin, of the Oregon Auto Car Company, which has been operating an auto car between Salem and Independence, returned last evening from a trip to Portland, where he conferred with other members of the company, and the committee ordered Mr. Pugh, the chauffeur, to move the car to the O. C. T. Co.'s dock. It will this morning be taken aboard the steamer Pomona and shipped to Portland where it will in future be operated. This comes as sudden news to the people of Salem, as the car has been well patronized, far beyond the early expectations of the owners.

There has been trouble in operating the machine from the first, because of the rough roads of Polk county, and this is the direct cause of the car being withdrawn from the run. On the evening of Thursday as the car was approaching Salem after its run to Independence, the heavy rubber tire on one of the wheels was wrenched loose, and practically destroyed, putting the machine out of commission until a new wheel can be ordered from the east. This will require some time, and as the machine is being rapidly shaken to pieces, causing permanent damage to the car, and the owners decided to take it off the run at once. It is probable that Mr. Pugh will go to Portland and continue to operate the car, as he has been offered the position.

Manager Baldwin stated last evening that the change was in no wise due to a lack of patronage, as the car was nearly always crowded with passengers both ways, and was paying well, but the roads were so rough that a very costly machine was rapidly being shaken to pieces, and conditions would not improve as fall came on and stormy weather approached.

PROSPECTS FAVORABLE.

Isaac Pincus & Sons Receive Cable to that Effect from London.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The following telegram was received by The Statesman yesterday afternoon from the firm of Isaac Pincus & Sons, hog dealers, of Tacoma, Washington, which is self-explanatory:

"Thomas Ironmonger, secretary of the English hog pool, cables today as follows: 'Crop prospects in England are very favorable; estimates average 550,000 to 600,000 hundred weight. Continental crop prospects are very favorable; generally market weaker and has appearance of further decline. Pool growers more willing to sell but not pressing.' Wm. H. and H. Lemay cable us today as follows: 'Crop prospects are very favorable England; estimate 1905 crop 700,000 hundred weight.'"

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Members of County Court Depart for Mill City to Examine Broken Bridge.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The Marion county commissioners' court was in session all day yesterday, and disposed of a large list of bills, besides devoting some attention to other matters which came up with the regular routine. Several road matters were taken up for consideration during the day, but no action of any particular importance was taken by the court. The matter of the petition of H. Wippen, for a new bridge over the location of a road near Turner was continued.

The members of the court went to Albany last evening, and today, in company with the members of the Linn county court, will go to Mill City to examine the joint bridge crossing the Santiam river which recently broke in the center. Judge Scott and Commissioner Miley and Needham will return to this city either tomorrow or Monday morning and on Monday will wind up the business for the August term of court.

AT TILLAMOOK BAY.

The Tillamook Headlight has the following:

Mr. R. J. Hendricks of Salem, manager of The Statesman, came in on Wednesday to get rid of some of the "hot air" he has generated over in the Willamette valley in fact, he has made it so hot there that he had to come to the little kingdom of Tillamook to cool off. The Statesman's staff can rest easy, for Host Allen of the Allen house has the pencil pusher in hand, and we are glad to say that all his "hot air" has evaporated, and that he is now as cool as a refrigerator, and with an appetite as good as well, it is frightening the natives and liable to give them a duck fist. We sincerely hope that Bro. Hendricks will enjoy his visit to the garden spot of Oregon, and that the Statesmen, when he returns, will see that it was a good thing that he came to Tillamook to "cool off."

Real Estate Dealers Kept Busy Showing Properties to Prospective Buyers—Salem's Building Boom Continues and Carpenters Find No Idle Time.

There is no change in the real estate market from the conditions which existed a week ago, but inquiries keep pouring in and the future prospects for a general stir continue to brighten. A number of sales were reported by the real estate dealers during the past week and several important ones were pending when the offices closed last evening. A trip around the real estate offices yesterday found many of the agents out in the suburbs and surrounding country showing their properties to prospective purchasers. A large number of eastern visitors invaded the city last week and kept the real estate dealers busy, and much good "seed" was sown that is bound to bear good fruit sooner or later. The visitor who falls to become favorably impressed with Oregon's capital city and its surrounding country is yet to be found and all go away with a thorough knowledge of the city and country's resources which the real estate men make a special effort to impress upon the minds of the stranger.

SERIOUS CHARGE

ELVIN ARNOLD, YOUNG FARMER OF HOWELL PRAIRIE DISTRICT, UNDER ARREST.

Accused of Having Attempted Vicious Attack Upon Gustav Tottratz with a Pitchfork and is Now Facing Charge of Threatening to Kill—Hearing Set.

Upon complaint of Gustav Tottratz, Elvin Arnold, a farmer residing about four miles northeast of this city, on Howell prairie, was arrested and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Turner Saturday afternoon upon the charge of threatening to kill. The warrant was served by Deputy Sheriff Harry Minto and Arnold was admitted to bail in the sum of $250 to appear for a hearing Wednesday morning of this week.

It seems that Tottratz is a renter of a portion of the Arnold place, of which the defendant is also an occupant, and they have never gotten along very well together. Quarrels were frequent between them and the prosecuting witness claims that Arnold has often threatened bodily harm to him. The situation came to a focus on Thursday of last week, it is alleged, when Arnold is charged with having attempted an assault upon Tottratz with a pitchfork and the latter escaped bodily injury only through his being mounted upon a horse and taking flight. This occurred, according to Tottratz, he said, to seek protection in the law and he came to this city to swear out the complaint under which Arnold has been arrested.

BANQUETED THE GOVERNOR.

The banquet tendered Gov. Chamberlain at the Blanco hotel Wednesday night was a brilliant and successful termination to the day's entertainment. The menu was complete in every detail and the banquet was prolonged from 10:30 to 1 a. m. The first departure from the formalities, was occasioned by the arrival of Senator Coke who was received with cheers despite the fact that he was nearly a half hour late. J. W. Flanagan occupied the position of toastmaster and the governor was the first to speak. His address was short but pointed and was enthusiastically received. In the course of his remarks he promised to call to the attention of the Portland chamber of commerce their oversight in failing to mention Coos county or Coos bay in their bulletin recently issued, setting forth the resources of Oregon. E. B. Seabrook responded to the governor's remarks, and was followed by Jas. H. Flanagan, L. D. Kinney, E. E. Straw, F. A. Golden, John Diers and F. B. Waite in brief but adaptable speeches, the tenor of all being demonstrative of the confidence of Coos bay people in the timber and mineral resources of their section. John Diers regaled the assemblage with a neat array of satisfactory information, and in the course of his remarks stated that Coos bay basin contains 10 per cent of the country's timber, and is the only fueling station besides Puget sound on the Pacific coast.—Marshfield Mail.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 5.—Representing about twenty-five owners of sheep in Walla Walla county, William P. Under the law sheep taken into Oregon during the summer and fall for grazing are subject to a tax, and 20 cents per head is now being demanded by the sheep inspector. As the owners of the sheep are compelled to pay a tax on their sheep in the state of Washington, they claim that the tax sought to be collected in Union county is double taxation. About two months ago a similar suit was instituted in the circuit court at Pendleton to restrain the stock inspector from collecting the 20 cent tax. W. P. Reser was the complainant in that suit also. At the present time Walla Walla sheepmen are pasturing about 50,000 head on the range in Union county.
